RADIO TO CARRY CHICAGO JUBILEE TO ENTIRE U. S.

Gen. Summerall to Be Guest.

Major events of the Chicago Jubilee will be carried vividly into tens of thousands of homes and to listeners throughout the United States by the radio.

Arrangements for the broadcasts were announced last night at the same time that it was learned that one of the distinguished guests who will come here for the Jubilee will be Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff of the United States army. Gen. Summerall will be the guest of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, who will be grand marshal of the great parade that officially opens the Jubilee on the night of Monday, May 11. Gen. Summerall will sit in the parade reviewing stand.

GEN. SUMMERALL.

Arrangements for Broadcast.

The plans for local and national radio hookups, which will flash the happenings of the Jubilee hundreds of miles in all directions, and perhaps even to foreign lands, are comprehensive. They include broadcast descriptions of the opening parade, and of the important events of the other nights of the Jubilee. W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station; the National Broadcasting company, and the Columbia Broadcasting company are to conduct broadcasts.

Thus the entire nation, which already is familiar with the Chicago Jubilee, will hear proclaimed Chicago's vigorous spirit of: "I Will."

W-G-N Stars to Take Part.

W-G-N will broadcast all major events of the Jubilee, and in addition contribute its star entertainers under the direction of Quin Ryan, manager of THE TRIBUNE station. These stars will appear personally in the State Street Night carnival on Wednesday, May 13. They are Louie and the Hungry Five; Tom, Dick, and Harry; Sally, Irene, and Mary; Lawrence Salerno; Bob Elson, and Clara, Lou, and Em.

Among the special celebrations which will be radioed by W-G-N are the parade, the American-French International Golden Gloves tournament in Soldiers' field on May 12; State Street night, May 13; THE TRIBUNE fireworks show on the lake front, May 14, and the choral singing, May 15. Broadcasts will also be made on the other days and nights of the Jubilee up to and including the finale, the army air maneuvers on May 20.

To Use Portable Transmitter.

An innovation here in radio will be the use of a portable transmitter by the National Broadcasting company. This instrument, moved by car and motor, will cover the parade on Monday, May 11, progressively, keeping slightly in advance of the marching column at times and halting at stations along the way at other times.

During the parade the thunder of the bands, including the leading group of 500 men under the direction of James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, will be scattered into space.

Meanwhile the response to the Chicago Jubilee increased. Tentative plans were completed in several principal features, and the parade is nearing completion. Incidentally, it is announced by Robert H. Nau, parade chairman, that the deadline for float entries is Tuesday, May 5. Mr. Nau is a member of the Jubilee committee named by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Frederick J. Ashley is head of the Jubilee committee.

For State Street Night.

Plans for the State Street night also moved swiftly under direction of Leon Mandel II., chairman of the Jubilee committee of the State Street council.

Mr. Mandel, who is general manager of Mandel Brothers, conferred with Police Commissioner Alcock and J. B. O'Connell, assistant superintendent of transportation, and T. H. Shaughnessy, superintendent of shops of the Chicago Surface Lines, regarding loop traffic for the State street carnival. All promised coöperation. The surface lines further agreed to shut off their traffic on State street between 6 and 11 o'clock from Lake to Van Buren streets, and to furnish flat cars. The flat cars, to be hooked in twos, will be used as platforms for the Carnival Circus.

WOMEN JUROR LAW HELD VOID BY HIGH COURT

Decides Voters Lack Legislative Power.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—The women jurors law, which was adopted by the voters in the last November election, was knocked off the statute books late today by the Supreme court. The court held the law was invalid on the ground that the lawmakers had "abdicated their authority" in the bill, and by tacking on a referendum had passed on to the voters an unconstitutional delegation of legislative powers.

The court upheld the validity of the act recently passed empowering the state to issue tax anticipation warrants. This measure was devised to take care of the stringency in the state treasury due to $17,000,000 of overdue taxes from Cook county due to the revenue muddle.

In holding invalid the women jurors law, the Supreme court did not rule upon the constitutional issue of whether the legislature itself has power to enact laws for jury service by women, leaving that question open.

Rules on Only One Question.

The court directed its finding to the one contention that by the referendum the general assembly had turned over to the voters legislative powers of which the constitution makes the assembly sole repository. The finding goes on to say that this does not interfere with referenda and local option on local measures.

Tonight many legislators contend the decision knocks the props from under the argument of Gov. Emmerson in his veto on the prohibition repealer that if it had had a referendum he would have signed it.

The decision likewise raises an interesting question as to how the invalidating of the law may affect convictions in which women have been on juries in the last five months.

Justice Farmer Absent.

All the Supreme justices were present except Justice William M. Farmer of Vandalia. The opinion of the court was delivered by Chief Justice Frank K. Dunn. The attack upon the law came through a petition filed by Charles M. Thomson, a Cook county taxpayer, to compel the jury commissioners to place only males on the jury list.

"The general assembly did not pass a law declaring that women should be jurors," says the finding, "it abdicated its authority for the time being and passed the responsibility on to the people.

"It made an effort to accomplish a single purpose in a particular way and the way having been found inadequate and unconstitutional, the court has no right to disregard the condition annexed to the act and declare the act valid in spite of the failure of the condition.

Referendum Provision.

"There is no reason to suppose the general assembly would have passed a bill with the provision for a referendum omitted."

Commenting on this, legislative leaders tonight declare that the referendum was a simple matter of "passing the buck" by the lawmakers. In the last session the assembly did not want to pass nor kill the measure, so the referendum was put on in the belief that on popular vote it would be rejected. The November vote, however, went the other way.

"We hold," says the decision, "that under the constitution of Illinois the general assembly is the sole repository of the legislative power of the state;

Can't Pass Buck to People.

"That it has no power to delegate its general legislative power and may not refer a general act of legislation to a vote of the people of the state to decide whether it shall have effect as a law;

"That the rule against the delegation of legislative power is not violated by vesting in municipal corporations certain powers of legislation on subjects of purely local concern connected with their municipal affairs;

"That local option laws by which the people of certain localities which may be favorably or unfavorably affected by certain laws of a general

DO-X TAKES OFF FOR AFRICA ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, May 1.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Germany's big seaplane DO-X took off from Gando bay today, circled over the city and headed south in the direction of Rio de Oro, on the west African coast, the next stop on its delayed trans-Atlantic flight to South America.

The DO-X, mammoth flying boat, came to Las Palmas on Jan. 31 with a new wing after fire had destroyed one of its wings at Lisbon on Nov. 29. The seaplane originally started its flight to South America on Nov. 5. After stopping at Amsterdam it went to Calshot, England.

On the next stage, to Bordeaux, France, considerable anxiety was caused when the plane made slow progress and its radio was silent. It alighted on the water about 30 miles from Bordeaux and proceeded to the French city the following day. After a siege of bad weather the plane moved on to Santander, Spain, and went on from there to Lisbon on Nov. 19. The fire followed ten days later.

Prof. Merriam Asked to Head School Board

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak has offered Dr. Charles E. Merriam, professor of political economy at the University of Chicago, an appointment to the school board. Prof. Merriam was summoned to the mayor's office on Wednesday, but it is said that he did not then give a decisive answer, although urging that some one else be selected.

DR. C. E. MERRIAM. [De Haven Photo.]

"I want Prof. Merriam as head of the school board," said the mayor. "He is endowed with unusual ability and by experience and training has become so highly capable that his services as head of the public school system would be of enormous value to the city and its children."

Wishes to Fill Vacancy.

The mayor has a vacancy on the board and indicated his desire to submit that appointment to the city council at its next meeting. Two of the mayor's advisers have contended that the board could not refuse to elect Prof. Merriam as it president, if he were a member, and the mayor agrees.

It is the opinion of the mayor that the school trustees of the former administration have wasted public money and he would like to control the board for the purpose of reducing expenditures and for the added purpose of removing certain officials whose jobs he believes were given as rewards for political services. On this subject Mayor Cermak conferred with Corporation Counsel Busch yesterday, but no program of action was decided upon. The suggested appeal to the legislature was discussed, however.

Meets Medical Group Today.

Delegates from the Chicago Medical society and nine other allied medical organizations are scheduled to confer with Mayor Cermak this morning. The delegation has announced its purpose as follows:

"To offer the coöperation of the medical profession in maintaining and improving Chicago's record for the healthiest large city in the world, to communicate formally the position of the profession with regard to the appointment of a new commissioner of health, and to offer the services of the society in connection with plans for the 1933 exposition."

The position of the medical society is that it "is anxious to maintain the health of the community and in this connection it is imperative that there be close coöperation between the Chicago Medical society and the Chicago department of health."

That expression is contained in the preamble of a resolution which says "that in the appointment of the next commissioner of health the mayor is urged by the Chicago Medical society to appoint as a commissioner of health a member of the Chicago Medical society."

Coroner Bundesen, who has been mentioned for that position a number of times, resigned from the medical society during the Dr. Louis E. Schmidt incident as a move to support Dr. Schmidt, who was ousted from the society because of his connection with the public health institute.

It is known that the mayor has offered a place on the city civil service commission to Edward N. Hurley. Mr. Hurley is reported to be considering the matter. He is hesitating because of his relationship to the federal government.

STOCKS TAKE SHARP JUMP UPWARD AND TRAP BEAR TRADERS

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—Hundreds of small traders who have been trying their hand on the bear side of the stock market with unaccustomed success in recent weeks were thrown into a headlong scramble to cover their short commitments today as the market turned up in a broad and sharp rally.

In the last hour the retreat of the shorts became a rout as active stocks throughout the list ran up for gains of $2 to $7 a share. One erratic mover, Auburn Auto, soared above $217 near the close of the market for an extreme gain of about $29 at the peak of its rise.

Measured by the average prices for some ninety stocks, which showed a gain of 5.7 points for the day, the biggest advance for any one session this year, the market regained virtually all of the loss of the last week.

It was the first vigorous rally the market has had on the down swing from the advance reached late in February.

DROWSY DRIVER KILLED WHEN HIS CAR OVERTURNS

William J. Daun, 22 years old, 7134 Schreiber avenue, was killed early this morning when the automobile which he was driving west in Touhy avenue ran off the road and overturned in a ditch near Lincoln avenue, in Jessville. His companion, Gordon June, 19 years old, 5049 Northcott avenue, escaped injury. The police believe Daun was drowsing at the wheel and lost control of the car. June said he was sound asleep when the accident occurred. The two young men were returning home from a dance.

Daun's death and one other increased the Cook county motor toll to 381 since Jan. 1.

Mary Winingham, 10 years old, 1439 West Van Buren street, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile while playing in the street in front of her home. Stephen Covas, 2301 North Harding avenue, the driver, was released after making a statement to the police.

HOLD INQUEST AT MIDNIGHT; JORDAN'S STORY

With the object of making speed toward an early trial for Frank Jordan, admitted killer of Policeman Anthony Ruthy, a coroner's inquest was opened last midnight. A few minutes before 1 a. m. the jury returned a verdict stating that Ruthy died of gunshot wounds inflicted by Jordan and recommended that the gunman be held to the grand jury for murder.

Witnesses heard included Jordan, who was warned by Coroner Bundesen that he need not testify and that his remarks would be used against him in court; Leonard Benson and J. C. Woods, detectives who were with Ruthy when he was killed, and Chief of Detectives John Norton.

Mayor Brings Out Story.

Jordan, the slayer, in his testimony gave full credit to Mayor Cermak, who was sitting beside the coroner in the offices of Chief Norton during the whole proceeding, for inducing him to make his statement. After being sworn, he gave his story of the shooting of Ruthy and Policeman Patrick Durkin.

"I had stopped for a paper at the northwest corner of Michigan and Randolph," he said, "when a man in plain clothes grabbed my arm. Then a policeman came up and began going through my pockets. I jerked away and somebody fired a pistol at me.

"I started firing back. After that I don't know anything except that I ran."

"Where did you run?" asked Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne.

"I don't know," replied Jordan. "But after I went a few blocks somebody jumped on me from behind. Then about a hundred people piled up on me. After that a police car came and they brought me to the station here."

Didn't Clearly See Officers.

Jordan said he had not even clearly seen the policemen he shot and did not know either of them. Next he admitted that he had not been mistreated by the police after his arrest. When the assistant state's attorney asked him to whom he had first told his story Jordan nodded toward Mayor Cermak.

"I told it to the mayor of Chicago. I thought he was a real man and that he would see that I was treated as a man, too."

Operative Benson testified that he had got information through Dr. J. T. Boswell of Kewanee that Jordan, wanted for the robbery of a bank at Neponset, Ill., was to meet a girl at 168 North Michigan avenue. He then described the shooting of the policemen and the pursuit and identified the gunman and the pistol he used. He added that he had a warrant with him for the arrest of Jordan as a bank robber.

Woods' testimony echoed that of Benson and Chief Norton testified only as to his acquaintance with Ruthy and the fact of his death.

Cermak Brings Out Facts.

In closing the inquest Coroner Bundesen said:

"This case was solved quickly through the kindly patience of Mayor Anton J. Cermak. He saw fit to come here early this evening when he heard of a policeman being killed in the line of his duty. His kindly attitude and his fair dealing resulted in this man making a clean breast of his story. I also desire to express my own appreciation to the policemen involved in the capture, to the state's attorney's office, and to Acting Commissioner Alcock."

The coroner's jury was composed of Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of the Zenith Radio corporation; H. T. Hollingshead, 2330 Prairie avenue, head of an automobile sales company; W. W. Sandusky, 1258 North State street, insurance adjuster; H. L. Andrews, 1142 South Michigan avenue, a teacher at Crane college; J. T. Helstern, 3024 South Honore street, a salesman, and Herbert J. Barrett, 5601 South Ada street, a steward.

2 BLACKMAILERS ARE HUNTED BY POSSE IN INDIANA

Shelbyville, Ind., April 30.—(AP)—Authorities said tonight they were seeking two men who last night eluded officers of three counties and posses patrolling roads near where a decoy package had been placed after Roy McDaniel, wealthy land owner and lumberman of Waldron, received a letter threatening him unless he left $4,000 at a designated spot.

A member of the McDaniel family said he exchanged shots with the blackmailers as they approached a fence post at the intersection of two roads on the Shelby-Decatur county line, the spot designated in the letter, but that the two men fled.

RUTHY KILLED, COMRADE SHOT ON MICHIGAN AV.

Robber Is Captured After Gun Battle.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

A desperate bank robber, arrested shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the midst of homeward bound throngs at Michigan avenue and Randolph street, whirled on his captors and shot two policemen. One of his victims died a short time later in St. Luke's hospital.

After a chase which led through still other crowds of pedestrians and motorists along Randolph street, Garland court, Washington street and Wabash avenue, the fleeing gunman was hurled to the sidewalk by the flying tackle of a steamship office clerk and captured. But before his final capture the fugitive had emptied his pistol at those following him, but failed to hit any of them.

Policeman Ruthy Slain.

The man who died of his wounds was Policeman Anthony Ruthy, 43 years old, 1621 East 55th street, assigned to traffic duty at Michigan avenue and Randolph street. Ruthy was one of the witnesses in the trial of Leo Brothers for the murder of Alfred Lingle. The assassination of Lingle occurred in the Illinois Central pedestrian tunnel leading under Michigan avenue at Randolph. It was hardly a hundred feet from the place where Ruthy was shot last evening.

After Ruthy's death Acting Police Commissioner Alcock called direct attention to the fact that there was no connection between the Lingle killing and the shooting of the policemen.

Durkin Second Victim.

The other victim of last evening's shooting was Policeman Patrick Durkin, 38 years old, assigned to traffic duty at Lake street and Michigan avenue. At a late hour last night physicians were hopeful that his life would be saved.

Frank Jordan, 23 years old, 2140 West Jackson boulevard, who was peddling doughnuts for a living in Rock Island until eight months ago, but who changed over then to the more lucrative trade of bank robber, was the gunman who killed Ruthy and caused panic around the public library. He admitted last night, under personal questioning of Mayor Cermak, that he had taken $4,000 in a holdup of a bank in Neponset, Ill., on April 22. The police have a long record of criminal acts against him, for one of which he had served a term in the Joliet penitentiary.

Gunman's Wife a Spectator.

Looking on while Jordan shot the two policemen and made his desperate dash for freedom was Mrs. Gladys Jordan, his wife. She had parked the new automobile, which last Wednesday he purchased with the robbery proceeds, near Michigan avenue in Randolph street. Taken into custody, she declared that she carried a pistol herself, but was too much unnerved to take any part in the drama of blood that unfolded itself before her eyes.

It was the search for Jordan on warrants charging him with the bank robbery at Neponset and another at Lafayette, Ill., that indirectly led to his capture—that and information against him given to investigators by another woman, a niece of his wife.

Woman Entraps Him.

This girl, Mildred Jackson, an employé in a Michigan avenue fur shop, had made an appointment to meet Jordan in the lobby of the Federal Life Insurance building at 168 North Michigan avenue. The appointment was not kept by her. It was kept in her stead by two detectives of the Burns Detective agency, Leonard Benson and J. C. Woods.

Shortly after 4:30 the two Burns men took their stations at the front door of the Federal Life building. It was almost 6 p. m. when Jordan sauntered out. With the sleuths by this time was Policeman Durkin, who had been asked by the agency men to aid. He had called for a police squad, but it had not arrived. Recognizing the fugitive from a photograph, they followed him.

Catch Up with Robber.

The robber walked south in Michigan avenue, the trio close on his trail. They caught up with him as he stopped to purchase a paper at the northwest corner of the Michigan-Randolph intersection. Durkin had signaled to Ruthy and the latter moved over from his post in the center of Mayor Anton J. Cermak last night took a leading part in the investigation of the killing of Policeman Anthony Ruthy and the wounding of Policeman Patrick Durkin by Frank Jordan, notorious bank robber.

Cermak Forces a Confession from Killer of Policeman

Closeted with Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and Jordan in the commissioner's office, the mayor addressed the killer.

"You have committed a crime against the laws of the state," he said to Jordan. "You have shot two servants of the city who were doing their duty. I call on you, Jordan, to do all that is left for you to do in decency—tell us who were your accomplices and confess that you shot these two men in cold blood, so that this city may clear itself of your crime."

Jordan Starts to Talk.

Jordan, the desperado who had served a term in Joliet prison, from which he emerged on parole in October, 1926, had refused to talk to any policeman. Obviously flattered that he was important enough to justify the attention of the mayor, he wavered.

"I won't be a stool pigeon," he said. "But I guess it is my duty to tell about myself. I shot those two policemen, and I robbed the bank at Neponset. I was held once for manslaughter, but I beat that rap. And I was started once for Leavenworth prison to serve a term for a Dyer act violation.

"To get out of going to prison I jumped off a train and saved myself. There's a lot of things I've done that I won't tell about, but I'm willing to do my duty to the chief and the mayor."

Seeks Swift Justice.

Later the mayor made a short statement for publication. In it he made no mention of the fact that he was responsible for wringing a confession from Jordan. It was Commissioner Alcock who made that disclosure.

"From the time I heard of this shooting," said the mayor, "I kept in close touch with it. All that I did was to leave the entire matter in the hands of Commissioner Alcock and Coroner Bundesen. I knew that they would handle the situation as it should be handled. But I was interested in seeing that Chicago metes out justice as swiftly as any city in the world."

Alcock Promises Justice.

Next it was the commissioner who talked.

"Jordan would not talk to us until the mayor told him his duty," he declared. "We are going ahead to clean up this whole matter. We have witnesses to everything that occurred.

"First of all, I want to impress it on all who hear me that this shooting had nothing to do with the killing of Alfred Lingle in the Michigan avenue tunnel last June. It was a mere coincidence that Ruthy, who was a figure in that case was the man killed and that it occurred at almost the same place.

"Ruthy died a hero's death. As for Ernest Schaeublin, he is the gamest man I ever met in my life. I say that and I can remember a great many brave men. Courage like his is rare."

The Record of Jordan.

The record of Jordan, also known as Walter McCoy and Carl Carlson, in the police files shows that he was held for manslaughter in Chicago in 1924, but that a no bill was returned by the grand jury. In October of that same year he was sentenced by Judge Hopkins to serve three to twenty years in Joliet prison for robbery with a gun.

Of this term he served six years, coming out about six months ago. He violated his parole, according to the records. On March 13 of this year he was given three years in Leavenworth prison in the Federal court at Hammond for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

It was while he was being taken to the Kansas prison that his leap from the train, as he told the mayor, was made. Two prisons thus were yawning for him when he was arrested yesterday by Durkin.

police station. There he eyed longingly the holster of a policeman who was holding him as Capt. Willard Malone questioned him.

"Make one move for it," said the captain. "I wish you would. Look at this."

He lifted a paper on his desk. Under the paper was another pistol.

"If you had made a single move," snapped Capt. Malone, "I would have killed you."

Sergt. Ray Crane was sent to the Jackson boulevard home of the Jordans to bring in the wife. They found her engaged in packing suitcases. It was her intention, she admitted, to flee from Chicago.

"I saw the shooting at the corner," she said. "It upset me so much that I had to ask a man passing by to drive my car. I was too nervous to try it myself."

She said that Jordan had been in funds recently, and that she had purchased a diamond ring, which she displayed, and many new clothes. Mildred Jackson, she asserted, was her niece.

"That's the girl," she said. "She put Frank on the spot."

Pistol in Her Room.

"I carry one all the time," she said.

She was held at the detective bureau, but was kept away from Jordan.

Jordan himself, when he was searched at the detective bureau, had $902 in his pockets, including a number of gold coins. He displayed no emotion when he was told that one of his victims was dead and that the other was in a critical condition.

"O, I'm sorry for their families," he said, "but they took their chances. I don't care if Durkin dies."

When Chief of Detectives Norton looked at the bank bandit's belt, he found concealed there a small steel saw, sufficiently hard to cut through the bars of any ordinary jail. Jordan refused to say anything about the girl who had caused his arrest.

Late last night it was reported at Rock Island that Jordan's companion in his two most recent robberies, Arthur Briggs, was under arrest there. He had been taken into custody at the request of Police Chief Manley of Kewanee, who had taken a leading part in the search for the pair. Neponset and Lafayette are near Kewanee and witnesses in both stickups had identified the pictures of the pair

Clews Leading to Capture.

Investigator Benson last night disclosed, rather reluctantly, how he had obtained the clew that led him and his partner, Woods, to the arrest of Jordan.

A physician at Kewanee, Dr. J. T. Boswell, learned after the Neponset bank robbery was accomplished that Jordan, then using the alias Carl Carlson, had boarded at the home of his grandparents near Kewanee. A search of Carlson's room resulted in the finding of twine such as had been used to bind the bank robbery victims.

Now hot on the trail, Dr. Boswell found that his wife's aunt, Gladys Jordan Mayhew, who was divorced from her husband a year ago, had come to Chicago with Jordan. He then arranged with Mildred Jackson, another niece of Mrs. Mayhew, or Mrs. Jordan, as she prefers to be called now, to lure the bank robber to the Federal Life building.

After making the appointment, Miss Jackson informed Dr. Boswell, who had come to Chicago, of the plans, and he in turn told the Burns operatives.

Ruthy in Lingle Quiz.

Policeman Ruthy created a sensation during the investigation of the Lingle murder by declaring that a man whom he pursued after the killing of Lingle was Frank Foster. When he was placed on the stand at the Brothers trial he told the court that he was subject to visions and that the man whom he saw was one of these visions. He added that he had seen "Abraham Lincoln, a little black dog, and the good Lord himself" in some of his visions.

Although subject to these hallucinations as a result of an automobile accident in 1924, his superiors maintained that he was amply capable of handling routine police work and was kept at his old post at the Michigan-Randolph intersection.

Policeman Durkin, who lived at 6738 Prairie avenue, is married and the father of two children. He has been on the traffic division of the police for seventeen years.

When other members of the traffic division learned of the wounding of Durkin and an appeal for volunteers to furnish blood for transfusions was made, there were fifty offers. Two men were chosen, Policemen Casey and Fahey, but no need for their services had been found at an early hour today.

Chicago Dartmouth Student Disappears from Campus

Hanover, N. H., April 30.—(AP)—Richard C. Baldwin of Chicago, a junior at Dartmouth college, disappeared from the college on Sunday and had not returned tonight. His brother, Vincent, notified of his absence by college authorities, expressed in a telegram from Chicago the opinion he had left because he was discouraged by ill health and by what to him seemed unsatisfactory progress in his studies.

6 YOUTHS MANAGE STOCK EXCHANGE OF N. Y. FOR A DAY

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—When the New York Stock exchange and the Stock Clearing association opened business today six young men employed by these two organizations took over the executive direction as part of the ninth annual program marking Boys' day in industry. The young men were chosen because of their excellence in scholarship and for their proficiency in the service of the exchange.

Gunmen Destroy Clothes in Tailor Shop with Acid

Two men yesterday entered the tailoring establishment of John Bulka, 1653 North Damen avenue, and destroyed goods valued at $2,000 with acid. Bulka told police he had received threats because he did not employ union labor but refused to name those who he said had threatened him. Three men and a woman were at work in the shop when the men entered. Drawing guns, the vandals forced the employes into a rear room.

HUSBAND TELLS HOW WIFE AND HER SUITOR DIED

Jury Returns Verdict on Double Poisoning.

A verdict of death by poison administered with suicidal intent and one of poison administered with murderous intent were returned by a coroner's jury yesterday investigating the deaths on Wednesday night of a 41 year old housewife of Kalamazoo, Mich., and her 43 year old suitor in the Hotel Bismarck.

J. A. Hartung, the suitor, who lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., and until recently had been a salesman for a garment factory in Columbus, O., took his own life and that of Mrs. Kathryne Garrison by proffering her a "last drink," which contained cyanide of potassium, the jury found.

No one had claimed the body of Hartung last night. It remained in a morgue at 226 West Randolph street with that of Mrs. Garrison. She will be buried in Chicago, where she lived before her marriage to Garrison 18 years ago and where they continued to live for eight years before moving to Kalamazoo.

Tells of Fatal Drink.

Ralph Garrison, a slight, middle aged man, operator of a Kalamazoo news and magazine shop, testified at the inquest that he had witnessed the fatal drink of his wife and Hartung.

He and his wife had been happily married until she left him on April 18, he said. Less than a month before Hartung had presented himself to Garrison at the latter's home as a friend of a mutual friend. He had not seen Hartung since then until Wednesday night, when, having followed his wife to Chicago with neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Jones, and arranged a reconciliation with his wife at the home of a friend here, he went to the Bismarck with his wife and Mrs. Jones.

"She said she would return with me," he testified. "She said Hartung was there and asked what I was going to do with him. I said, 'Never mind. We'll just get your baggage out of there.'

Tries to Save Wife.

"Then she and Mrs. Jones and I went up to their room. I asked him what a busy guy like him was doing running around the country with another man's wife. Then I started to pack, and didn't notice what he said until he offered her a glass and took one. I said to my wife, 'Don't drink that!' and ran to her and struck her arm. But she got the glass in the other hand. Mrs. Jones tried to grab it, but my wife avoided her.

"Then she sat down on a chair with a sort of startled look. Then he sat down by her. I made a move to lift him up to get him away from her, and he waved me aside and said: 'It doesn't make any difference. I'm dying.' Then they both collapsed."

Garrison slumped in his chair as he finished his testimony. When he was asked if he thought his wife knew she was taking poison he replied, "O, no, nothing like that."

Friend Is a Witness.

Mrs. Jones testified that she did not see Hartung pour the drink, but had supposed it was gin. She said he did not offer any to her or to Garrison.

Friends of the Garrisons told reporters of their romance while she was working here and he was in the circulation department of a former Chicago newspaper.

"The supposition is that Mrs. Garrison, who in the years we've known her always was a perfect wife, met this Hartung in Miami in March when she was there," Mr. Jones said.

A wire sent by the coroner's office to 508 Ovington avenue, Brooklyn, brought a response that no one by the name of Hartung lived there. His company had supplied the address. A sum of $12 was found on his person.

50 Are Killed, 100 Injured As Bomb Factory Explodes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 30.—About 50 workmen were killed and 100 injured today when 1,000 tons of airplane bombs and torpedoes exploded and wrecked the plant of the naval laboratory at Ponto da Armacao on Mocangue island in Rios bay, opposite the city of Nictheroy. Nearly 400 employés were at work when the blast occurred.

Twenty-five of the dead have been identified. Many more bodies are still buried under the debris. Rescue squads fought flames to remove the mutilated bodies of the dead and carry out the injured.

Tonight the police and firemen are still combing the ruins for missing employés. Local newspapers estimated that the casualties from the explosion will mount to 200.

Hospitals in Nictheroy are filled with the injured. Many were brought across the bay to Rio de Janeiro in launches.

Scenes of horror accompanied the removal of the injured from the fallen building. Some who remained conscious screamed wildly as they were taken away by waiting ambulances. Families of the workmen living nearby waited near the ruins for word of missing relatives.

The explosion, believed to have originated in the torpedo loading room, was heard for miles. Its force toppled buildings in nearby Ponta da Areia, seriously damaging the power plant of the Brazil Electric company.

A three story building standing near the naval laboratory was completely demolished by the explosion. The extent of damage to other property affected by the explosion has not been estimated.

JOE GREIN FINDS A FAULTY SCALE IN THE CITY HALL

A sign invited the public to test its individual weight free, and in the course of a few years thousands of visitors, as well as city hall employés, have weighed there.

Yesterday City Sealer Grein stepped on the scale. He stepped off again with a surprised look at the mechanism and summoned one of his deputies. Shortly there appeared a sticker on the scale informing the public that it had been condemned. Mr. Grein had found that the scale gives a short weight by five pounds.

SPAIN TO INDICT PRIMO'S AID FOR KILLING KILLERS

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 30.—Abuse of authority has rarely been considered a crime in Spain and during the last years of the monarchy it was quite the normal thing. Now tardy vengeance in behalf of the Spanish nation is to be wreaked. The Spanish revolution's Forquier-Tinville, once an amiable court reporter called Angel Galarza, is working 18 hours daily as prosecutor, drawing indictments against men who were long the pillars of the crown and whose behavior, the republic considers, was a crime against the Spanish people.

Hired Band of Killers.

Gen. Anido, a mild looking but very grim sort of person, was appointed governor of Barcelona in November, 1920, when the terrorists were taking an almost weekly toll of Catalan employers, who were working together with the military and hardly less high handed in dealing with labor. Gen. Anido was said to have characterized himself only a "surgeon; a doctor will have to take charge at a later date."

The surgical methods for which he is being reproached consisted of subsidizing a rival band of terrorists known as the Syndicato Libre to kill the killers of the Syndicato Unico, and giving the notorious "ley de fuga" —"flight"—the same prominence it had in Mexico.

In Mexico they killed President Francisco Madero that way, but Gen. Anido only used it to annihilate the syndicalists. Records show that nineteen of them met violent death with lead in their back while they were attempting to "escape." The procedure was the classic business of moving them on foot from the city jail to an outlying prison at 3 a. m. When a prisoner "bolted" the guards fired. In most cases handcuffs were still on the bodies when found in vacant lots the next morning. Frequently bayonet wounds were discovered, showing where persuasion had been applied.

Assassination Toll Grows.

From 1913 to 1920, when Gen. Anido inaugurated the policy of meeting outrage with outrage, there were 207 attempted assassinations in Barcelona and 112 were successful.

In the first ten months of 1920, before he came into power, there were 80 attempts and 39 killings. During his first two months as governor there were 22 attempted assassinations and 14 dead, and for the total period of his office 239 attempts, of which 181 were successful, more than in the seven preceding years. Sanchez Guerra then threw Gen. Anido out. He came back with Primo and his speeches during the dictatorship often vaunted his brand of surgery.

Gen. Anido is now in France.

Prince Enters Naval College.

DARTMOUTH, Eng., April 30.—(AP)—Prince Juan of Spain entered the Royal Naval college here today as a cadet. His father, the former King Alfonso, came with him from Torquay.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY FIRE VICTIM AS TOMMY ABBOTT

Efforts will be made today to identify the charred torso of a man which was found yesterday in the smoking ruins of an ice house a mile south of Barrington, as that of Tommy Abbott, gangster. He has been missing for several months, and his wife, Irene, has received underworld information he has been tortured and slain.

The body discovered yesterday was found in a structure on the estate of Spencer Otis, wealthy Chicagoan, on the shore of Hawthorne lake. The features were unrecognizable, and the only evident clews consisted of two gold teeth, possibly bridge work, which lay in the ashes.

Investigation thus far has led authorities to believe the fire victim was killed in a gang feud.

MALONE BOMB ONLY TO SCARE, POLICE DECIDE

The bomb thrown early yesterday at the doorstep of the home of William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission and the man responsible for the scientific tax reassessment, was intended only as a scare bomb and was the result of political differences in Park Ridge, according to the conclusions of Lieut. William V. Blaul of the state's attorney's office. The lieutenant and state's attorney's detectives, accompanied by Assistant State's Attorney Richard Jackson, spent several hours in Park Ridge yesterday investigating the bombing.

Malone, however, issued a statement in which he placed the blame for the bombing on tax racketeers or disgruntled taxpayers. He said that he has been showered with threatening letters, postcards, and telephone calls for several years.

Lieut. Blaul did not find Malone at home, but he talked with Mayor William H. McKee, who was backed by Malone at the last election. Mayor McKee told the lieutenant of the bitter fight which resulted in the defeat of Robert E. McLain, who had previously been elected by the group backed by the former state tax commissioner.

Orders 150 Extra Police Ready to Curb Radicals

Acting Commissioner of Police Alcock yesterday detailed 150 extra policemen to the Des Plaines street and Maxwell street districts for the expected May day demonstration of communists, socialists, and other radicals. Several massmeetings and an unemployment parade are planned.

CERMAK PAINTS GLOOMY PICTURE OF CITY FINANCES

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak got down to a definite consideration yesterday of the city's financial troubles after a third conference with the bankers. As summarized to him, this is the situation:

After the pay day today there will be no money to pay policemen, firemen, school teachers and other city employés for an indefinite period. There is no immediate hope of paying the teachers the $3,775,000 due them several days ago.

The bankers refuse to loan money on tax anticipation warrants until they feel certain that the 1931 quadrennial tax assessment is going through and taxes on it will be collected.

$5,000,000 Deficit Looms.

If the bankers loaned on warrants the legal limit permitted, there would be a deficit of about $5,000,000 in the city corporate fund this year, unless the phone franchise is passed.

The city's unpaid bills at present total $4,818,659. This cash has been withheld from merchants who have supplied fuel and other materials in order to pay salaries up to the election.

Still other creditors of the city have obtained judgments for their claims aggregating $6,426,905.

So the city now has $11,245,564 in current debts in addition to its secured debts, despite the 20 per cent increase in taxes, part of which was provided by the legislature to pay the city's floating indebtedness and provide it with a working cash capital.

On top of all that the city and the school board owe an aggregate of $228,379,700 on tax anticipation warrants. A large part of this has been sold to so called surplus city funds.

Of these the transit fund of upwards of $60,000,000 is the largest. Just how much remains of that trust is uncertain, but it is estimated that probably $5,000,000 could be gotten together at once for subway construction if demanded immediately.

City Hasn't the Money.

"City employés and others have heard the cry of 'wolf' so often in times past they do not now believe it," commented Mayor Cermak. "Time will prove to them that we haven't the money and can not borrow it."

"Have the bankers definitely refused to lend the money?" he was asked.

"Yes," emphatically replied the mayor, "and they say they will continue to refuse until they feel certain that they will get the money back if they loan, and have a fair guess on when they will get it. There is no question about it this time."

"What is it exactly that they want to know?"

"Two things," said the mayor. "First, they want to know that the quadrennial assessment is going through, will be completed. Second, that the taxes levied will be paid. This applies not only to the quadrennial assessment now being made, but also the subsequent assessment."

Bills Pending in Assembly.

Apparently the first step in providing the bankers with assurances is the passage of the Schnackenberg bills through the legislature to revamp the machinery for assessing and reviewing assessments, but so far there appears to be no substantial political backing urging that the bills be passed.

Then, it is said to be desired that the board of assessors complete the current assessment. They are reported to be about half through with nearly all of their appropriation exhausted. Then follows other hindrances.

The mayor was supplied with a statement showing the condition of the city treasury on current assets and liabilities on April 11. This shows that on that date $4,818,654 was the total of unpaid bills, but that there was $1,073,834 in cash in the city's strong box. Since that time, much of this cash is said to have been used to pay employés.

The borrowing power on tax warrants for the corporate fund is given as $37,507,000, of which $7,207,000 had been issued. The amount of warrants it is necessary to issue to pay outstanding bills, minus cash on hand, was $3,744,775. In a word, $10,951,775 of the city's power to borrow on tax anticipation warrants—if they could find a banker who will loan—has been used up, and there remained on April 11 $26,555,225 of unutilized borrowing power.

The estimated current expenses for the year are placed in this statement from the city controller at $56,664,000, plus unpaid bills on Jan. 1 of $4,770,000—a total of $61,434,000.

List Expected Revenue.

To meet these expenses it is estimated that the receipts will be $37,507,000 from the sale of tax anticipation warrants, which the bankers to date will not purchase; $11,525,000 from licenses and miscellaneous sources, some of which now look doubtful; $5,144,000 in compensation from the Chicago Telephone company, but this contemplates the passage of a franchise on which the mayor has not yet expressed his attitude; $3,348,000 from the working cash fund of the city which is partly dependent upon tax collections; $443,000 in taxes for the year of 1927, and a cash balance of $2,405,000, less 1928 taxes, in the treasury on Jan. 1 last.

All of those sums total $60,872,000, whereas the expenses were placed at $61,434,000. It is thought by the mayor's advisers that from the sources indicated they can finish the year, providing that the telephone franchise is granted. If that is not done, then there will be a substantial deficit of probably $5,000,000. To come out even, expenses must be trimmed, the phone franchise passed, and the miscellaneous revenues must be increased above the estimate.

Hard Task for Mayor.

This probably indicates why Mayor Cermak has been talking city finances daily since last Friday. He has called a meeting of his advisory commission for next Monday. The commission is expected to suggest some methods of getting out of trouble. An employé of 30 years in the city controller's office said that no mayor has been inaugurated in that time with so many and serious financial difficulties in his way as are now in the path of Mr. Cermak.

At the Monday session the mayor said that J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency expert, will present to the advisers some ideas on what might be done to relieve the situation.

The payless pay days, which the mayor forecast, are expected to continue for some time. When the end of them will come will depend on the bankers' view of the results obtained and obtainable by the political tax assessing bodies. Asked for his opinion, one banker said:

"The bankers cannot hazard depositors' cash on the present extreme uncertaintly in the tax muddle. If those in political power, the leaders in local and state governments, work diligently, I anticipate that a showing could be made in a month or so which would warrant the purchase of tax warrants. But who knows what will be done? It looks to me now as if it will be June before the situation clears up, if there is a determination immediately to correct conditions."

Inspect Rented Offices.

Mayor Cermak, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague and Corporation Counsel Busch inspected the rented offices of the city yesterday afternoon in the City Hall Square building.

"The city spends about $200,000 a year on rented quarters," said the mayor later. "A substantial part of that can be saved. In one suite we found only a telephone operator and of course there was no need for a phone with no one to use it. The space devoted to the branch of the corporation counsel's office is unneeded. In the welfare department we found one clerk, and she was moved from the seventh to the ninth floor. The lease on other quarters expires today, and the city will move out."

BOARD OF ASSESSORS DENY INEFFICIENCY CHARGE OF JACOBS

The board of assessors yesterday replied to the charges of inefficiency and waste as detailed by J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, in a report submitted on Wednesday to the county commissioners. In addition to denying all of Jacobs' charges the reply contains a promise that the 1930 assessment of property will be completed on scheduled time by July 1.

Jacobs' report on conditions in the assessors' office stated that the assessment work had fallen two months behind schedule because of the lack of proper supervision of employés and the use of incompetent workers.

John E. Conroy, secretary of the board, said the real facts are that the present board is more advanced in its work at this time than was the case under the previous administration.

Contrary to Jacobs' assertion, the answer said, the delivery of personal property assessment schedules has been nearly doubled under the new administration. In 510 days the old board delivered 25,716 schedules, according to Conroy, while the new board has sent out 23,483 schedules in 393 days.

SPENDING SPREE OF OLD CITY HALL REGIME IS BARED

Records Show Huge Dips Into Public Funds.

Official records yesterday disclosed how deeply the last city administration dipped into the city treasury during the closing weeks of its control.

With the two campaigns on and their own ouster in prospect, several of the former bosses at the city hall, the records showed, apparently decided to make hay while the sun still was shining. The haymaking consisted of loading up pay rolls and overspending appropriations with the result that their successors must cut expenditures proportionately to stay within the budget limitations.

Mayor Cermak took office the week of April 11. The period between Jan. 1 and April 11 constituted approximately 29 per cent of the entire fiscal year. The expenditures of several departments for this period, however, far exceed 29 per cent of the year's appropriations, according to the records.

Show Large Expenditures.

The board of local improvements under former President Michael J. Faherty had an appropriation of $2,113,677. Prior to April 11, according to a trial balance by the controller's office, the board spent or contracted to spend $1,226,332, or 58 per cent of its appropriation.

The office of former City Collector Morris Eller had a $284,050 appropriation and spent $99,728 of it, or 34 per cent, before April 11. Former City Clerk Patrick Sheridan Smith's office spent 37 per cent of its appropriation before April 11. The city clerk had an allotment of $184,570 and spent $70,326.

Ninety-seven per cent of the $53,000 appropriated to former Corporation Counsel Ettelsen for "personal services" was spent before April 11 and 48 per cent of the $12,500 fund for printing, stationery, and office supplies. All but $16,215 of a $35,000 allotment for court reporting slipped away during the mayoralty campaign. In the city attorney's office the court reporting appropriation dropped from $5,000 to $794 and the "personal services" appropriation from $7,000 to $2,742.

List Other Expenditures.

During the Jan. 1 to April 1 period 12 per cent of the corporation counsel's $13,000 appropriation for special utility attorneys was spent, as well as 72 per cent of the $50,000 appropriation for special assessment experts and 40 per cent of the $25,000 appropriation for real estate experts in judgment cases.

Vouchers totaling $112,673 were sent to experts of various kinds during February and vouchers totaling $87,520 during March. Recipients of the largest amounts and the sums they received during the two months follow:

City Controller Szymczak officially took charge yesterday of his new office, to which he was appointed at the special council meeting last Monday night by Mayor Cermak. After a reception he called in the employes of the office one at a time, and questioned them about their duties in order to become acquainted with the work of the office. As a result of the appointment pay rolls due in the next few days will be delayed for a short time because it will be necessary to print checks with the facsimile signature of the new controller.

ALCOCK SHIFTS 11 CAPTAINS AND 20 LIEUTENANTS

Moves for Greater Police Efficiency, He Says.

The first shifting of police commanders since the change of city administration was ordered yesterday by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock following his announcement that he would seek to place his captains in districts best suited to their temperaments and abilities. There was no other significance to the transfers, Alcock said when he was asked concerning the order, which moved eleven captains and twenty lieutenants.

CAPT. JOHN HORAN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The order put Capt. John P. Horan in charge of the central or loop district, replacing Capt. Willard Malone, who was sent to the Cottage Grove district. Capt. William Shoemaker, formerly chief of detectives and known as a strict and efficient commander, was assigned to Alcock's office—"so I'll have a good man with me," Alcock explained. His place at Warren avenue is taken by Capt. Daniel A. Lynch.

Other changes were: Capt. William E. Stapleton from Pekin to Woodlawn; Capt. Paul Wheeler from Wabash to the detective bureau; Capt. Thomas Kilroy, Woodlawn to Chicago Lawn; Capt. Frank Matchett, detective bureau to Stanton avenue; Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert from unassigned list to Wabash; Capt. Michael Tobin, miscellaneous division to Brighton Park; Capt. Richard Gill was assigned to the Des Plaines street station, where he has been acting for Capt. Martin Mullen, who is ill.

The lieutenants who received new assignments are: Joseph Berounsky, William C. Lang, John J. O'Brien, Emil Anderson, William P. O'Brien, Leo E. Carr, Ernest Mueller, Charles J. Grattan, Jeremiah Vaughn, Patrick J. Carmody, Eugene McCarthy, Sylvester Cotter, Alva C. Stevenson, George E. Lynch, Joseph J. Dubach, William J. Husar, Willis H. Barnard, Daniel J. Cahill, Stephen J Barry, and Edward Kelliher.

The transfers will in no way affect the investigation of the police department by the special grand jury. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller declared. Subpoenas directing 127 city banks to produce before the grand jury all records of the finances of Acting Commissioner Alcock, Deputy Commissioner Scanlan, Chief of Detectives Norton, Deputy Detective Chief Rafferty, and thirty-seven captains were being served yesterday.

The bank records will be available for the special grand jury next Monday. Later, Prosecutor Mueller said, those officials found to have made deposits of amounts greater than their annual salaries will be called upon for an explanation.

SPURNED BY WIFE OF NEIGHBOR, HE SHOOTS HIMSELF

Spurned after several months of friendship with a neighbor's wife, Raymond Stone, 34 years old, a salesman for the Cudahy Packing company, shot himself in the head in his apartment at 5820 Kenmore avenue early this morning. His wife, Mary, was awakened by the shot and summoned the police. At the Edgewater hospital it was said Stone would recover. According to Lieut. William Lang, Stone said he had been friendly with Mrs. Rose Berman, the wife of William S. Berman, a cap manufacturer, whose home is in the same building. Mrs. Berman told Lieut. Lang that she had gone out with Stone on several occasions.

SENATE PASSES BILLS TO SPEED WORK IN COURTS

68 of 70 Are Approved on One Roll Call.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—The senate today passed seventy of the judicial reform bills in the program of the judicial advisory councils of Illinois and Cook county. The measures, which now go to the house, aim to speed up the machinery of the courts, reduce red tape, and make the visitation of justice swifter and more certain, and they are the results of two years of research by members of the bench and bar on the councils.

Most of today's measures had to deal with the abolition of terms of court downstate and the making of continuous terms. This change involved many slight amendments in various parts of the code. One measure, for public defenders in Cook county, was withheld.

Practice Is Criticized.

The passage of the measures, which were called up by Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], chairman of the Illinois judicial advisory council, was by the tandem, or group method, a practice which is being criticized by senators as in direct conflict with the constitution.

On two of the bills, on which debate arose, [illegible] were separate roll calls. The [illegible] sixty-eight, however, were unanimous. A roll call was taken on one of them, which showed, 38 to 0. The clerk was then instructed to pluck an imaginary roll call out of the air and embalm it in the record. The journal will show a roll call for each bill of 38 to 0, and nobody can go behind the record after it has been approved.

Separate Votes Required.

The constitution specifies that a yea and nay vote shall be taken "upon each bill separately."

Later a string of six bills containing minor amendments to existing laws was driven through tandem by Senator Cuthbertson, with one roll call which showed 38 to 0.

CONCEALED GUN LAW IS APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—The concealed weapon law advocated by the Chicago Crime commission and introduced by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], was approved by the house judiciary committee this afternoon. In brief, it would allow reputable persons to carry weapons for their own protection, but would impose heavy penalties on police characters transporting guns or carrying them in their automobiles.

State Representative Joseph H. Davis [Dem.], the mayor of Murphysboro, Ill., today engineered a measure through the house which would allow farmers to obtain cracked limestone for fertilizer without charge at the southern Illinois penitentiary, Menard, for one year. The fertilizer is now being sold for ninety cents a ton, he said, a price making it prohibitory to most farmers, he said.

SUPREME COURT BAR ON WOMEN ON JURY HALTS MURDER TRIAL

Belvidere, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—A state Supreme court ruling that the women jury law is unconstitutional today halted a murder trial before a jury composed of five women and seven men in the Circuit court of Boone county. Judge Edward Shurtleff locked up the jury and the defendants for the night and tomorrow morning will rule on the petition of defense attorneys for the discharge of the prisoners.

Joe Shestokes, 21, and Victor Zambrowski, 22, both of Rockford, are on trial for the murder of Harry W. Wilkinson, manager of the Bowman Dairy company at Herbert, Ill., during a holdup on Dec. 13. George Cutler, chief state witness, was on the stand when word of the Supreme court decision was received.

Defense Attorney B. J. Knight immediately petitioned for the release of the defendants, on the contention that the present trial could not continue under the court ruling and that the defendants could not be twice placed in jeopardy for the same offense. State's Attorney A. J. Scron requested that a new jury be impaneled. Judge Shurtleff will return a decision at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Bills Introduced

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—Among bills introduced in the senate were:

S. B. 607—Barr—Authorizes commission of president and four members of senate and four members of house, with appropriation of $25,000, to make study and survey of punishment to be imposed on persons convicted of criminal offenses and of the means of reducing population of penal institutions.

S. B. 611—Kline—Provides for one day of rest in seven for employes in factories, foundries, mercantile establishments, laundries, hotels, restaurants, telegraph and telephone establishments or offices, places of amusement, express, transportation and public utility business and common carriers.

S. B. 620—Barr—Gives department of public health power to act in supervisory capacity as to sanitary quality and adequacy of all water supplies, water treatment and purification works, sewer systems and sewage treatment works; to enforce regulations concerning foregoing, to determine standards of purity of water, to regulate sealing of abandoned wells and regulate swimming pools to enforce sanitation.

S. B. 624—Meents—Creates commission of nine [three from each house and three at large] named by governor to investigate state and municipal revenue situation and make recommendations for improvements by January, 1933. Appropriates $25,000.

WOMAN JUROR LAW HELD VOID BY HIGH COURT

Decides Voters Have No Power to Legislate.

nature may provide in regard to their enforcement or execution in such localities; and,

"That the act of June 14, 1929, to amend Section 2 of an act to authorize judges of courts of record to appoint jury commissioners and prescribe their powers and duties is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative powers and had no effect to change the jury commissioners' act or to authorize the selection of women as jurors."

Governor Signed Measure.

The decision set forth that the enactment of the women juror act came through the referendum itself, as without a favoring popular vote it would not have gone into force. It says:

"This was the act which the governor signed and if anything became a law by his signature it was this act proposing an act to the people of the state to be voted upon and accepted or approved by them or rejected and disapproved.

"We cannot attribute to the general assembly or the governor an intention to go through the farce of submitting to a vote of the people the question whether women shall serve as juries or not, when the vote could not affect the question.

Must Be Clearly Established.

"The meaning of the maxim that the law must be complete when it comes from the legislature is that the rights, duties, privileges or obligations granted or imposed must be definitely fixed or determined, or the rules by which they are to be fixed and determined must be clearly and definitely established when the act is passed by the two houses of the general assembly and approved by the governor."

In holding valid the new state tax anticipation warrant law, the court says "the act is not open to the constitutional objections urged."

The test case was brought through Hazen S. Capron of the University of Illinois. The law is an emergency measure. It was introduced in the house March 17 and after passage was taken into the court for a decision in the April term as to its validity.

DEALERS GET READY TO FIGHT BILL FOR STATE CIGARET TAX

Organized opposition to the imposition of a state tax on cigarets, cigaret papers, and cigars, led by the Chicago Tobacco Jobbers' association, was being planned yesterday by Albert Pines, president of the association.

A letter opposing passage of the tax bill has been sent to all members of the special legislative committee now considering the measure. The letters were mailed out by Mr. Pines, who represents 20 wholesalers and approximately 29,000 retailers in the Chicago district. A delegation to Springfield will be led by Mr. Pines at the time the bill is returned to the house.

"Such a tax means double taxation," Mr. Pines said, "as a federal tax of six cents is now collected on every package of cigarets. In addition retailers pay a license of $100 in Chicago and now the state wants to charge an additional fee of $5 per year."

Mr. Pines declared the fight not only concerns the tobacco merchants but is of vital interest to every citizen. The proposed 2 cent tax on every package will be merely passed on to the purchaser, he said.

"The tax is far from fair, as it means that 75 per cent of the collections will be in Chicago and Cook county, while a majority of the money collected will be spent downstate," Mr. Pines said.

WIFE IS VICTOR IN LONG BATTLE FOR SEPARATION

Terminating a legal battle which began fifteen years ago, Mrs. Ida Delson, 55 years old, yesterday won a decree of separate maintenance from Alexander C. Delson, 59 years old, former owner of a group of knitting mills. The decree was granted by a jury in Circuit Judge Feinberg's court. The question of alimony will be decided by the court.

The Delsons were married in 1895. They have four grown children. Mrs. Delson brought her original suit in 1916, but this was finally dismissed a few years ago when an agreement was reached out of court. Through Attorney Hary X. Cole Mrs. Delson filed a second suit a year ago, in which she charged her husband with adultery. The jury's decision also found Mrs. Delson not guilty of her husband's charges of cruelty and desertion.

Captive Freed After He Is Cleared of Police Killing

Ralph Yarck, 27 years old, who was arrested at Alton, Ill., on Tuesday as a suspect in the murder of Policeman Arthur Vollmar here more than two years ago, was released yesterday. Witnesses said he was not the killer of the policeman. Yarck, a traveling salesman, attributed his arrest to the spite of some enemy. Vollmar was killed when he attempted to arrest a gunman who had robbed a physician at School and Clark streets.

PASS 108 MILLION FUND FOR HARD ROADS OF STATE

House Acts to Complete 9,800 Mile System.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—The hard roads bill to appropriate $107,800,000 for construction, maintenance, and reconstruction of Illinois highways passed the house of representatives today without dissension.

This vast sum, if approved by the senate, will be used to complete the 9,800 mile system started several years ago and now better than three-fourths done, according to the state highway department. Within two or two and one-half years, Chief Engineer Frank T. Sheets believes, it can be finished.

The measure follows hard upon the heels of the approval given yesterday to the Emmerson administration bills providing for state maintenance and reconstruction of state roads in cities. These were offered as balm to the counter measures of the Illinois Municipal league, which advocates a 1-1-1 spit of the three cents gasoline tax, cities, counties, and the state benefiting equally. The state now gets two cents, the counties one cent.

Cities' Portion Not Figured.

The league bills would guarantee about $9,000,000 per year to Illinois cities, or $18,000,000 within the next two years. The explanation of the amount cities will receive from the Emmerson bills and the $107,800,000 appropriation, as given today by Mr. Sheets, is involved, but it tends to show that the municipalities will get $8,000,000 flat for the biennium and a portion of $93,000,000, which is the total of three other funds.

How much that portion would be, he was unwilling to say without considerable figuring. Neither would he estimate that the total work to be done for cities and the Chicago metropolitan district would total as much as $18,000,000, the league's guarantee.

The city work has not yet been surveyed, Engineer Sheets said, and he cannot tell how much reconstruction must be done nor how much the maintenance will cost. In reply to a question he said he believed Cook county contributed from 40 to 45 per cent of the total gas tax collections, or, in round numbers, about $11,400,000.

Large Sum on Route 22.

If all this amount does not come back into the county in the form of improved roads in 1931, a total of $18,000,000 will be spent within thirty miles of the loop, Sheets explained. Most of it will be spent on route 22 rimming the metropolitan area from Chicago Heights to Lake Forest. The 1932 work is still too indefinite to hazard a prediction on the sum which will be involved in it, he said.

The cities of the state will obtain $7,000,000 for new roads and improvements during the biennium and $1,000,000 for maintenance, according to Sheets. They will also benefit from the $10,000,000 fund set aside for road widening and from two construction funds—one for $36,000,000 and the other for $39,000,000.

This year's program calls for work on 334 miles in District No. 1 on the highway department's map, a section including and extending slightly beyond the counties forming the metropolitan area, but Mr. Sheets was unwilling to state that the money involved in city work would total $18,000,000 in 1931 and 1932, the guarantee of the municipal league's measures.

MOSLEY AND WIFE NEARLY MOBBED BY ANGRY CROWD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 30.—Sir Oswald Mosley and his wife, Lady Cynthia Mosley, tonight were jeered and hooted and nearly mobbed by thousands of angry Laborites at Ashton - Under - Lyne, where the Labor party lost a bye-election today as a result of the Mosleys running a candidate under the colors of their New party. The Mosleys recently seceded from the Labor party.

Ashton - Under - Lyne hitherto has been a safe seat for the Labor party but the Mosley candidate split the vote, enabling Lieut. Col. V. Broadbent to win by 1,400 votes.

The mob gathered around the town hall, shouting "traitor," "dirty dog," and "you let the Tories in," at Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia. Police escorted the couple to a hotel.

FORMER BOY KING HAS DIPHTHERIA; QUEEN AT BEDSIDE

King Carol Warns His Wife to Leave.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 30.—(AP)—Crown Prince Michael, former boy king of Rumania, was stricken with diphtheria today. He was running a high temperature. Two injections of serum were administered by physicians, who expressed the belief that serious danger had been averted.

Prince Michael was stricken at the home of his mother, Queen Helene, who is estranged from King Carol. He was said to be suffering considerable pain.

Although physicians believed the worst danger from the disease was past, considerable anxiety still was felt.

A physician warned Queen Helene tonight, as she came from Prince Michael's bedside, not to endanger her own life in caring for her son, pointing out the infectious nature of the disease. The queen was warned, the physician told the court chamberlain, in the presence of King Carol.

The king, the doctor said, reiterated the warning, assuring his wife that Michael has trustworthy nurses and attendants. The queen, however, the physician said, cast a reproachful look at the king, her husband, and answered:

"What is life to me? I have only one child. I will never have another. My place is at his side."

KING DISSOLVES PARLIAMENT OF RUMANIA BY COUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 30.—King Carol this afternoon effected a dramatic coup by dissolving parliament at the first meeting of the special session. Only yesterday he has disavowed any idea of a dictatorship, or ruling by unconstitutional means.

But today Premier Jorga arrived in the chamber with the dissolution decree in his pocket and read it immediately. There was no sign of hostility to the new government. The sitting of the session was brief. Only Jorga spoke and the opposition, which numbers two-thirds of the members, was not given a chance to express itself.

A general election for the chamber has been set for June 1 and for the senate on June 4.

Work of Choosing Jurors Moves Slowly.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., April 30.—[Special.]—The boredom displayed by young Virgil Kirkland as the monotonous task of selecting jurors to try him for murder continued today in Judge Grant Crumpacker's courtroom was replaced by a lively interest when a girl of high school age, loitering in the corridor, attempted a furtive flirtation with him.

The affair was finally stopped by the judge who ordered windows opening into the corridor to be curtained so that the curious might not peer in. It was only through these windows that observers could see Kirkland's face. His back is towards spectators in the courtroom.

The girl, attractively dressed and with a pretty, childish face, smiled and winked at the 20 year old defendant and he returned these attentions after ascertaining that his attorneys were not observing him. Five months in jail and a possible death sentence at this second trial for the murder by rape of Arlene Draves has apparently not killed Kirkland's interest in the feminine sex.

Windows Are Curtained.

Curtaining the windows terminated the incipient romance. The girl was ordered from the court house by Sheriff Burney Maxwell, who told her she would be arrested if seen near the courtroom again.

Continued examination of veniremen today added strength to the report that Kirkland might not testify at this trial. His cocky attitude on the stand at the first trial, which resulted in a verdict of life imprisonment, was said to have irritated the jurors. Defense attorneys, led by John Crumpacker, son of the presiding judge, pointed out to prospective jurors that the failure of a defendant to take the stand was not to be considered as evidence of his guilt.

There is little possibility of any women jurors being accepted, all attorneys in the case agreed. Mrs. Ella Sherbourne, known locally as an ardent worker for the W. C. T. U., was one of those examined today. She declared she had a fixed opinion which would require considerable evidence to remove, and was excused for cause. All veniremen who admitted to scruples against drinking, making contributions to the Anti-Saloon league or membership in the Ku Klux Klan were excused.

Three women were included in the fresh panel of fifty veniremen drawn today. They are Mrs. May Cowdrey, Mrs. Mattie Conover and Mrs. Florence Ritter, all Valaparaiso housewives.

May Need New Panel.

So many veniremen in this county have confessed to a prejudice in the case that the defense lawyers were considering a petition to have prospective jurors drawn from some other county in the state. Kirkland has already obtained a change of venue from Lake county where Miss Draves died because of alleged feeling against him there.

Of the total of sixty men and one woman who have passed through the jury box since the trial began, five men have now been tentatively accepted by both sides. They are Bernard Myers, Ernest Nelson, W. H. Morrow, William True and William Winselman.

A report that defense attorneys were willing to have Kirkland plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter was met by the state with the announcement that no such compromise would be accepted.

GANG HOLDS UP TWO BRANCHES OF SAME NEW ORLEANS BANK

New Orleans, La., April 30.—(AP)—Bandits raided two branches of the Canal Bank and Trust company today and escaped with several thousand dollars.

While police were investigating the holdup by four bandits of the Ewing branch bank, in uptown New Orleans, the Lautenschlaeger branch, in the downtown section, was invaded and robbed.

The bandits got $10,000 in the second raid and about the same amount in the first.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY IN FIGHT FOR MADEIRA ISLE

Rebels Insist Attack Was Repulsed.

FUNCHAL, Madeira, April 30.—(AP)—The rebel junta in control of the government here declared in an official statement tonight it had successfully repulsed an attack of the Portuguese government loyalists expeditionary force, prevented a landing on the island, and taken a number of prisoners.

"Two enemy detachments of approximately 300 men, armed with machine guns," the official statement of the rebel junta said, "attempted to land on the beach at Santa Cruz under cover of the fire from two warships which bombarded our positions for 40 minutes. After an engagement lasting an hour the enemy retired in disorder, leaving war material and a number of prisoners in our hands."

Insist Rebels Are Fleeing.

LISBON, April 30.—(AP)—Reports from Funchal, Madeira, to the Portuguese government late tonight said government forces had landed on the island and the rebels were retreating into the interior, hotly pursued by the loyalist troops.

One-third of the island, the government's reports stated, is already in the hands of the expeditionary force and three columns were marching on Funchal, after occupying Sao Vincent, Camara do Lobis, and Machico.

The retreating rebels, according to the report, were being harassed by the combined fire from the ships Vasco da Gama and Vouga and from seaplanes flying overhead. The rebels threw down their arms in many places, it was stated, and joined the government forces. The government was assured that the fall of Funchal was considered certain and that the loyalist troops had already reached the outskirts of the city.

Meanwhile Minister of the Interior Lopez Mataeus issued a statement here which was interpreted as foreshadowing the end of the dictatorship and a return to parliamentary government.

"An administrative code," he said, "will come into force early next year. An electoral law under which suffrage will be granted to both sexes will be published shortly, and, barring unforseen accidents, a legally elected parliament will assemble next year to draft a new constitution."

District elections will be held throughout the nation next October, he said.

Ald. Thomas P. Keane to Resign from Legislature

Ald. Thomas P. Keane [34th], who also is a state representative, announced yesterday that he will resign next week as a member of the general assembly. Ald. Keane said he wishes to eliminate the possibility that his votes in the city council might be contested if he continues as a state representative. Two other new aldermen are members of the legislature. They are Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] and Joseph P. Rostenkowski [33d].

NEW QUAKES HIT RUSSIA; TOLL OF DEAD MOUNTS

MOSCOW, April 30.—(AP)—Further earthquakes in the soviet republic of Azerbaijan in Transcaucasia today caused fear that the total number of deaths in the widespread disturbances, which started Monday, may mount to more than 500, already unofficially estimated.

More than 2,000 persons were injured in the original quake Monday which wrought severe damage in the soviet republics and was felt most in Armenia. Today's renewal of shocks occurred in the Zanguesur district of Azerbaijan.

Great suffering is reported in many sections and in some places residents have deserted their stricken villages and are living in the open. The government has provided $250,000 for immediate use among the sufferers. Food and medical supplies are being rushed to devastated areas. The amount of damage is certain to run well over $1,000,000.

CHINA PROVINCE SECEDES; ARMY JOINS UPRISING

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, April 30.—Consternation spread tonight in government circles with the confirmation of reports that a bloodless coup has been engineered in Canton by which Kwangtung province declared its independence and had joined the Kwangsi rebels. It was definitely confirmed that Gen. Chang Shai-tong has seized control, not only of Canton, but of all Kwangtung.

Gen. Chang Ming-shu, Nanking's main supporter in the south, has fled to Hongkong, accompanied by Finance Commissioner Fan Kimo and other officials loyal to Nanking. Chang Shai-tong, controlling the military forces, is understood to have agreed with Kwangsi rebel leaders for a widespread secessionist movement.

ATTACKS PRICE OF POSTOFFICE AIR RIGHTS SITE

Blaine Holds U. S. Is Not Bound to Build There.

The senate subcommittee hearings on postal sites and leases, conducted since Tuesday at the federal building, were adjourned yesterday after Senator John J. Blaine (Rep., Wis.), the chairman, had inquired into the proposed purchase price of the Union station air rights site.

HENRY C. GEISLER.

Henry C. Geisler of the interstate commerce commission's bureau of valuations testified that the government's proposed price for the Union station air rights was "substantially $2,000,000 more than the cost of the air rights of the Merchandise mart," which are slightly smaller in area. He also expressed the opinion that the Merchandise mart property is worth at least twice the Union station site.

No Action Contemplated.

Following the conclusion of the testimony, Senator Blaine declared in an interview that the government is not yet bound to the proposed Union station deal, since the attorney general has not approved the title and no formal contract has been made. He added that if any action grows out of the present hearings it will have to be taken by the treasury or the post-office departments.

"The $5,500,000 appropriation for the Union station air rights was slipped over on congress by the post-office department," he said. "They called at the budget bureau at 10 o'clock in the morning and declared that the appropriation had to be approved in two hours, a matter that should have required months to investigate."

Senator Blaine added that the sale of the earlier site and the proposed purchase of the air rights site constituted "constructive larceny on the part of those who received and palpable negligence on the part of those who gave."

Geisler's Testimony.

Mr. Geisler, questioned by Senator Blaine, testified as follows:

Q.—In your opinion, what is the comparative value of the Merchandise mart location and the proposed Union station air rights site? A.—The Merchandise mart location is worth at least double the Union station site.

Q.—What did Marshall Field & Co. pay for that site? A.—The total surface area of 253,496 square feet was purchase on July 1, 1929, for $2,500,000. This was on a basis of $9.68 a square foot. The site included 195,121 square feet of air rights, which, based on the Chicago city formula, were valued at $9.61 a square foot, or a total of $1,875,000 for the air rights.

Q.—The Union station site, according to the figures of the treasury department, includes 205,815 square feet of air rights, which were figured on the basis of $17.50 a square foot, making a total of $3,600,000 the government proposes to pay for the air rights, exclusive of the ground rights. Now what was the total the Marshall Field company paid for its air rights? A.—$1,875,000.

Q.—In other words, the government is paying substantially $2,000,000 more for its air rights than Marshal Field & Co. did? A.—That's correct.

Gives Estimate of Value.

Q.—In your opinion, based on your studies of real estate values in Chicago, what is the true market value of the Union station property? A.—For the fee rights, $10.81 a square foot, and for the air rights, 80 per cent of that, under the Chicago city formula, or about $8.65 a square foot.

Mr. Geisler also testified that property across Clinton street from the abandoned Marshall Field site, which includes the W. J. Mayer tract of 30,000 square feet, was appraised by the Chicago Real Estate board in 1928 at $7.50 a square foot. He also declared that the city, by condemnation in 1926, obtained a strip of land 20 feet wide for $7 to $9 a square foot from the Mayer estate and the Field company. The government paid $16.37 a square foot.

"With the purchase price of the Marshall Field site and that of the Union station air rights as a basis for comparison, how would that affect valuations in Chicago?" asked Senator Blaine.

"The aggregate valuation of the first district, or downtown Chicago, is $135,000,000 to $150,000,000," said Mr. Geisler. "On the basis of the government's purchases the valuation for that district would be increased from 75 to 100 per cent, or to a total of $275,000,000 to $300,000,000."

Q.—Of course if that percentage were added to the valuation, the railroads would persistently demand a comparative increase in their rates based on their right to a fair return and the shippers and consumers would have to pay the increase? A.—I don't know whether the commission would grant such an increase, but my opinion is that the roads would make such a demand.

"I should like to make the obeservation," concluded Senator Blaine, "that this may lead to great and serious consequences not only in Chicago but throughout the country. The future of metropolitan centers like Chicago and New York seems to depend upon air rights developments, and once the valuations are jacked up they become the basis for insistent demands from the railroads for increased valuations and rates.

PREPARE TO BLAST TEXAS OIL GUSHER TO EXTINGUISH FIRE

Gladewater, Tex., April 30.—(AP)—Preliminaries to an attempt to blast away the pillar of fire rising from the Sinclair oil gusher near here were underway tonight, but it was estimated the charge of nitroglycerine could not be placed before Saturday and possibly later.

Fed by a huge flow of oil and gas the flames roared on as a small army of workmen prepared the setting for two Oklahoma brothers, M. M. and Harry Kinley, to do their death defying act of setting off a heavy charge of explosives at the base of the fire which has claimed eight lives.

The brothers, noted through the oil fields as wild well tamers, rushed to Tulsa, Okla., by airplane today and started back with additional explosives and asbestos suits.

CHARGE FRAUD IN INDICTMENT FOR JOB DEAL

An indictment charging operation of a confidence game was returned by the grand jury yesterday against Harry D. Campbell, who at one time had headquarters in the Auditorium hotel. R. A. Collins, 6704 North Campbell avenue, brought the charge through the Better Business bureau. Collins charged that he had placed an advertisement in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE offering to invest $1,000 in a business in which he could work. Campbell took Collins money, promising to return it on 30 days' notice, but failed to make good, it is charged.

George Krause, 35 years old, president of the Road Builders' Conveyance company, was held to the grand jury in $4,000 bonds on two charges of operating a confidence game. Two persons told Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court that they had invested money with Krause on his representations that they would be employed. Krause failed to make good on his promises or to return the money, it is charged.

BOY STORM HERO CHECKS HISTORY AT ITS SOURCES

Makes Himself at Home in White House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—[Special.]—Bryan Untiedt, whose 13 year old generalship recently saved the lives of schoolmates in a Colorado blizzard, today thrilled to the generalship of our nation's more adult celebrities. Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Lee's mansion at Arlington, the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and the living soldiers at Fort Myer, they all held his intelligent attention.

"Say," he summed up the day's pilgrimage into history, "it'd be a lot easier to learn things if all the fellows could see things like this, wouldn't it?"

Visits Historic Places.

While tourists whispered, "That's the boy hero, yeah, the one with the cap," he removed his cap and stood silent before the tomb of George Washington. While other tourists edged close to him at Arlington, he looked eagerly, maybe enviously, at the soldier sentinel who marched back and forth in front of the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

And when early this morning the members of President Hoover's "medicine ball cabinet" praised and questioned him, he, too, had a question: "When do we eat?"

For this boy from the Colorado town had got up at 6 o'clock, thirty minutes earlier than his host. Like an old timer now in the White House, he had gone to have a romp with the dogs. He watched the famous game of medicine ball, a performance which is usually very secret, and before he got too hungry he had sat down to breakfast with the President and the other players.

Entertains Hoover Grandchildren.

After that he gave the Hoover grandchildren, Herbert III. and Peggy Ann, another harmonica concert, and before it was over White House servants listened in.

"He's a fine, clean cut American lad," said one of the attachés. "Just hope all this won't turn his head."

A similar thought, it is understood, has caused the President and Mrs. Hoover to take precautions lest their young guest be too much in the limelight. He is not allowed to give any interviews.

CAPT. HAWKS BREAKS LONDON TO DUBLIN AIR RECORD BY HOUR

[Copyright; 1931; By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, April 30.—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, American airman, landed at Baldonnel airdrome from London today, having flown the 285 miles separating the capitals in one hour and 40 minutes and having broken the record for the journey by almost one hour. He thus within a fortnight has broken the records between London and Rome, Paris and London, and London and Dublin.

Capt. Hawks was received on his arrival by Orr Dancy, secretary of the United States legation, and members of the Irish Aero club. After visiting Desmond Fitzgerald, Free State minister of defense, the aviator flew to Cork and Limerick, then returned to Dublin, completing the 400 mile circuit in two hours.

RULER OF SIAM MADE "DOCTOR," THEN VISITS ONE

Informed He Must Have Eye Operation.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—[Special.]—From the black and gold and red and purple of a university "convocation extraordinary" to the polished whiteness of a hospital today went King Prajadhipok, the visiting Siamese sovereign.

Amid the splendor of the academic ceremony at the tropically decorated Pan-American building he heard the president of George Washington university call him "beloved ruler of an independent people" and present him with an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Bids President Goodbye.

And then with the honorary hood of yellow and blue, purple bordered, tucked away in a trunk, and with plans for the operation put off into the future in New York, the monarch went back to the drawing room of his borrowed mansion on Massachusetts avenue, and offered farewell tea and cakes to the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Tomorrow morning the royal party leaves for New York.

The convocation, which took place this morning, was noteworthy for several things not particularly specified on the program.

For one thing, Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington university, in conferring the degree, had the bravery to pronounce the king's name. He did it on four unflurried syllables with the accent nicely placed on syllable number two.

Buddhist Walks with Bishop.

Then the king's mother-in-law, Princess Svasti, a Buddhist, walked in the processional with the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington.

And the king's own photographer, operating the king's motion picture camera, showed up all the local boys when he sailed smoothly through the lines and stopped the procession to take a picture. The king, of course, smiled royal approbation, for it was his camera and his idea.

And many members of the faculty, not trained to the Siamese national air, were a little late in getting the import of the tune, and in removing their mortar boards.

For the rest, the ceremony was the regular one, save for the delicately worded invocation of Bishop Freeman as he prayed to the "God of our fathers who hast made of one blood all the nations of men," to bless his Buddhist, "servant, the king of an ancient people."

Dr. Marvin's short speech heaped the following titles on the already much titled monarch:

"Beloved ruler of an independent people; defender of a faith; gifted in a rare taste and using singular endowments in the education of a people, as ancient Thai loyalties direct; magistrate whose poise of judgment has been tried and vindicated by national exigencies; statesman able to help united the divers forces of the orient and occident in a land where the ages meet, and mold them toward progressive and salutary action; exemplar to a people, happy and attractive in temperament, of the virtues that build and conserve state and society."

In a speech of about 175 words the king complimented the university on its distinguished name, and added:

"American methods and institutions and resources have played a considerable and significant part in the development and advancement of modern Siam, and I am more than thankful, on this account, for this evidence of commendation from an American university situated here in the capital city of the United States."

Electric Line Cuts Rates.

In line with the movement by the Western Passenger and the Central Passenger associations in offering reduced round trip excursion rates during the Jubilee, the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend Electric railroad announced that reduced round trip rates will be established from South Bend to Chicago for one week, beginning May 9. The announcement was made by Charles H. Jones, general manager.

At a meeting of the west park board yesterday, President James offered a resolution, which was passed, pledging the park board's participation in the Jubilee. May day parties will be held in the parks on May 16, and other events will be staged.

At another meeting, preliminary plans for a Pageant of Nations day were laid. A final conference will be held on Monday night under Felix Streychmans and E. M. Love, chairman and vice chairman. Twenty groups will be represented.

Float from Veterans' Hospital.

Float, choral group, band and drum and bugle corps entries were filed in heavy volumes yesterday, many of them at THE TRIBUNE public service offices, 1 South Dearborn street. Among them were:

A float of paper flowers depicting the Hines Veterans' hospital, entered by Col. Hugh Scott, regional veterans' bureau chief; a float of the Chicago council of Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. William T. Grable, executive; a float, representing a melting pot, marked with latitudinal and longitudinal lines, and mounted by a figure representing Columbia; a float from the Abendpost company, German newspaper; a float from the Croatian Women's club; a float from the Chicago Daily Times; two floats from the Inland Glass Works, Inc., showing the history of the industry; a float portraying historical Chicago, from the Western Felt works, and a massive float from the Allied Florists' association.

The Ford Motor company will offer a 45 foot trailer on which will be two Ford automobiles. One probably will be the 340th machine made, and the other will be the 2,000,340th.

Other offers of participation were made by Sprague, Warner & Co.; the Armour Jubilee singers, under Prof. Cornelius W. Pierce; the Rev. D. F. Cunningham, of the Catholic archdiocese parochial school board, and the Mrs. Snyder Candy company. Additionally, Frank Kee, chairman of the American Legion and Forty and Eight Jubilee committees, announced that enough money has been raised to bring to the Jubilee the championship band of Electric post of the American Legion, Milwaukee.

INDUCT DR. CHASE AS U. OF ILLINOIS PRESIDENT TODAY

Governor and Hundreds of Others to Attend.

Urbana, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase will be inaugurated in the presidency of the University of Illinois—the third largest university in the United States—tomorrow morning.

DR. H. W. CHASE. [Paul Stone Raymor.]

An assemblage of venerable dignitaries from the nation's greatest schools were gathering here today to attend the ceremonies which will open at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue until 9 o'clock at night. Dr. Chase becomes the sixth president of the state co-educational institution.

Elected to the presidency of the state co-educational institution on Feb. 20, 1930, Dr. Chase assumed the presidency on July 5, 1930. Prior to coming to the University of Illinois, Dr. Chase, who was 48 years old on April 11, was president of the University of North Carolina from 1919 to 1930. He succeeded Dr. David Kinley, who retired.

Inaugural in Gymnasium.

Five hundred official delegates, including representatives from 232 universities and colleges, 68 learned societies, national educational and professional organizations, officials of the state and nation, representatives of the alumni and dads' associations of the university, the Illini clubs, Illinois industries and other Illinois organizations, will be numbered among the several thousand who will be seated in the men's gymnasium to witness the inauguration.

Registration of delegates will be held in the university library from 9 until 10 a. m. Friday. At 10 o'clock the visitors will assemble in the large rooms on the first floor of the library, and fifteen minutes later the procession will march to the gymnasium. Inauguration exercises will open at 10:30 a. m., with George A. Barr, Joliet, president of the university board of trustees, presiding. Dr. Chase will deliver his inaugural address, in which he will tell of his hopes for the university.

Gov. Emmerson of Illinois will follow with greetings from the state; Samuel Wesley Stratton, chairman of the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will speak for the university world; President Lotus B. The invocation and benediction will be given by Bishop John Chanler White of the Springfield, Ill., Episcopal church.

Test Pilot Killed When Plane Takes Power Dive

Los Angeles, Cal., April 30.—[Special.]—Power diving earthward from a 1,500 foot altitude at 200 miles an hour, Robert Sharkey, 28 year old test pilot for Kinner Airplane and Motor corporation, crashed to instant death today. He took up a new biplane and had tested the craft in fifteen minutes of stunting. The plane struck a truck parked in a private driveway, and then leaped 70 feet, to crash into an oak tree.

FLYERS TAKE PICTURE; PRINT IT IN AIRPLANE

Chicago's lake front was photographed from an altitude of 12,000 feet yesterday by flyers in a new photographic plane undergoing tests for the national exercises of the United States Army air corps, to be held here on May 20 during the Chicago Jubilee.

The picture was taken, developed, and printed in the air completed by the time the plane landed at the Chicago airport in the afternoon. The flyers were Lieut. G. W. Goddard and Corp. F. L. Mores, laboratory assistant, from Chanute field at Rantoul, Ill. Further tests will be made during the army air maneuvers.

Dr. Hugh Scott, head of the Hines memorial hospital, yesterday announced that the old Checkerboard air mail field, which served as a base for Col. Lindbergh and other famous pilots during the early years of air mail, will be opened today as an emergency landing field. The opening was effected for the benefit of the army flyers during their maneuvers. The field adjoins the hospital.

The Trend is to The Fair, Where Lowest Prices Prevail

THE DIGNITY OF A GREAT PROFESSION

is revealed without its cloak of mystery!

THE Science of Optometry has made unusual strides in recent years, due largely to the perfection of instruments making for greater accuracy in the diagnosis of eye ailments and the development of apparatus for precision work in the production of eye glasses. The knowledge obtained by optometrists in school and in the clinic qualifies them to apply the essentials in actual practice, but fitness is established only by State license.

SHORN of any cloak of mystery, it is evident satisfactory results in the correction of impaired vision are dependent upon professional skill, mature experience, and scientific equipment. THE FAIR Optical Section is equipped with the finest and latest instruments.

A RECENT acquisition, the RODENSTOCK REFRACTOMETER, affords a check of the results obtained by the usual methods and inaccuracies are quickly determined.

AND IF experience makes for perfection, then a wealth of knowledge is accumulated from the more than 100,000 patients served here each year. Such a clientele further emphasizes to the public the great work of sight conservation being done.

THERE IS NO MYSTERY ABOUT THE FAIR LOW PRICES. The resources of this organization afford the highest quality materials at a mere fraction of the regular cost to the smaller user.

AND the high standard of ethics traditional with the specialist is conspicuously a part of the friendly, sympathetic, individualized service accorded patients in the Optical Section of THE FAIR.

HOOVER REGIME IS ASSAILED BY F. D. ROOSEVELT

Calls National Policies of G. O. P. Reactionary.

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt assailed the Hoover administration as reactionary and opposed to fundamental governmental reform in an address tonight at a dinner of the New York Young Democratic club at the Hotel Astor.

The governor, who is looked upon as the outstanding probability as his party's candidate for president in 1932, assailed the national stand of the Republicans and declared that the people of the nation were looking to the Democratic party to lead the way to a restoration of the basic principles upon which the government was founded.

Tells of Party's Achievement.

Speaking to a group that contained several political leaders of the city and state, the governor did not mention the Hoover administration by name, but he left no doubt of his meaning when referring to the Democratic achievements in this state, he said:

"We have not reached the ultimate goal in all these lines, but I feel that the people of this state realize how greatly we have progressed toward that goal, and that by continuing us in power they will see these great reforms accomplished.

"And as in this state, so it is in the nation—from the conservative and reactionary party now in power in Washington, from the timid councils of the aged, from the selfish grasping of the powerful few who control actions from behind the scenes, the people all over these United States are looking to our party to lead them into the broad road that leads to the real democracy of which our forefathers dreamed.

Government Wheels Clogged.

"Take, for example, the way we in New York state have reorganized and modernized the whole machinery of our state government. In many other places and even in Washington, the clogged and creaking, cumbrous wheels of government machinery are geared to the pace of fifty years ago. Timorous councils have permitted no more than a constant patching . . . the whole structure hesitates at every attempt to speed up in keeping with modern life."

Gov. Roosevelt had expected to depart tomorrow night for a vacation at Warm Springs, Ga., but he postponed his trip when he learned that his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, had suffered an attack of influenza and is in a hospital in France.

MOTHER MUCH BETTER.

PARIS, April 30.—(AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who is ill at the American hospital at Neuilly, was said to be much better tonight.

BAY STATE G. O. P. WILL BE POLLED ON PROHIBITION

Boston, Mass., April 30.—[Special.]—A prohibition poll will be taken among the active Republicans of Massachusetts by the distribution of a questionnaire on the subject through the numerous chartered Republican clubs, it was decided today at a conference on prohibition in the quarters of the Republican club of Massachusetts.

The conference was called by Maj. Judson Hannigan, president of the club, for the avowed purpose of reaching a compromise of some description which might result in removing the issue from the next election campaign.

The conference was attended by representatives of both the wet and the dry wings of the party and according to reports harmony prevailed.

The questionnaire will ask the attitude of members toward repeal or revision of the 18th amendment, whether prohibition should be submitted to the states for their determination.

$108,000,000 FOR ILLINOIS ROADS.

The house at Springfield has passed the state administration's road appropriation bill and two companion measures. They will now go to the senate. The total to be spent on highways in two years approaches $108,000,000. Of this sum, it should be noted, the Chicago contribution in gasoline taxes and license fees has been estimated at $44,000,000. The estimate is probably too low.

As the bills were analyzed recently by Mr. Frank Sheets, chief highway engineer for Illinois, the appropriations may be lumped as follows:

The sum set aside for paving and grade separations on bond issue routes is $75,000,000.

Another $10,000,000 is to be used for widening, reconstructing, resurfacing, and improving bond issue routes.

Another $10,000,000 is for policing the roads.

The other important item is $8,000,000, of which $7,000,000 is for "constructing, widening, reconstructing, resurfacing, and improving state highways in cities, towns, and villages and state highway belt line roads and for separating the grades of said highways," and the remaining $1,000,000 for road maintenance within municipalities.

Together these four items account for $103,000,000. The remaining expenditures are relatively small and may be overlooked.

From the point of view of the Illinois motorist the question that arises immediately is: Does this program promise to meet the most pressing needs for road building and improvement in the state? The answer in turn depends upon an understanding of what those needs are.

Most Illinois motorists, we think, will agree that the gravest deficiencies in our road system are to be found in and near the congested centers of population, particularly in the Chicago metropolitan area. Those deficiencies, again, are of two general sorts. In the first place there is still need for road widening in this area, and more especially for the separation of grades where highways cross each other and cross railroads. Substantially half of the motorists in the state live within the metropolitan area and, though they have paid their full share of the costs of road building in the state from the start, their use, not to say enjoyment, of the highways has been limited by the difficulties of getting out of the metropolitan area. That difficulty can be removed only by widenings and grade separations.

The appropriation bill would seem to meet this need, provided the discretion of the highway administration is fairly used. As Mr. Sheets has interpreted the bill, any part of the $75,000,000 may be used in constructing grade separations where they are needed. The question remains whether this blanket authority offers adequate assurance that the metropolitan area will not be slighted, as it has been in the past.

The other pressing need for construction is also recognized, if not met, in the appropriation of $8,000,000 for building and maintaining state roads within municipalities. At present these roads are built and maintained at the expense of the taxpayers within the municipalities. It is within the cities that traffic is densest. It is within the cities, therefore, that traffic delays are greatest. Moreover, it is on city streets that an enormous quantity of tax paid gasoline is burned.

In the cities, and especially in Chicago, there is urgent need for elevated highways which will serve westbound traffic as the outer drives serve north and south bound traffic. Elevated highways will be expensive, but there is no other means of achieving the desired result of uninterrupted travel at a fair rate of speed with reasonable safety through congested areas. If the $7,000,000 set aside for the construction (aside from maintenance) of these elevated highways were apportioned with fairness among the cities of the state, perhaps $4,000,000 of it would go to cities in the metropolitan area and perhaps $3,500,000 to Chicago.

The question of discretion enters again; and more especially the question of the fairness of the total appropriation for this purpose. It can hardly be maintained that the appropriation is excessive. The motorists of Chicago, who will pay $44,000,000, according to the estimates, can receive in direct benefits within the city not more than $7,000,000 in the impossible event that no other municipality in the state receives a cent.

Corporation Counsel Busch has raised another serious objection to the administration's bill. He notes that the measure in effect would give the state government full control over principal streets in Chicago. The plans for improvement, the regulation of traffic and perhaps of utilities, and the policing of these streets would then be removed from all control by the city government. The improvement of Chicago streets might easily become a form of state patronage susceptible of serious abuses. There can be no doubt of the merit of Mr. Busch's proposal that the consent of the city government be required before the state may assume control or abandon control of any thoroughfare within a municipality. If the city cannot even share in the control of its streets, local self-government will be seriously impaired.

An alternative plan of appropriation has been put forward by the Illinois Municipal league. This association desires to redistribute the gasoline tax, apportioning one cent to the state, one cent to the counties, and one cent to the cities. The adoption of this proposal would eliminate any question of the state's interference in Chicago's affairs. Accepting the state's estimate of receipts from the gasoline tax, the one cent share which would go to the cities probably would amount to at least twice the $8,000,000 offered in the administration bill. Some question has been raised whether the cities, receiving their shares, would not dissipate the fund over a great number of streets instead of concentrating the expenditure on the main, arterial highways. There should be no doubt on this score. If the bill giving the cities a third of the gasoline tax assures the expenditure of the money on principal arteries, that bill is plainly preferable.

CALUMET HARBOR.

The recent announcement that Commissioner Sprague is again interesting himself in the Calumet harbor project is encouraging. Mr. Sprague in the Dever administration worked out an arrangement for the dredging of the harbor through the assistance of the Nickel Plate railroad, which in return was to be awarded the right to construct a belt line serving the harbor. Unfortunately this arrangement was defeated in the first instance by Gov. Small and somewhat later by Mayor Thompson.

Chicago needs the industrial harbor in Lake Calumet today and will need it more acutely with the approaching completion of the lakes to gulf waterway. The harbor will eventually be made available to lake vessels as well as river barges. It will provide the means for bringing raw materials cheaply to a great industrial district and for removing finished products. It will become an important asset in Chicago's balance sheet.

The Calumet harbor is not essential to the functioning of the Mississippi waterway, but with the Mississippi waterway in existence the failure to construct a suitable harbor in Lake Calumet would be inexcusable folly. The new city administration will look far before it finds another project as deserving of its attention.

FRATERNIZING WITH THE ENEMY.

When Red Barker, gangster and racketeer, recently released from prison because of a habeas corpus granted improvidently by a downstate judge, left a Chicago courtroom on bail pending trial for another offense, he was ushered out of a back door and attended by a deputy sheriff to his limousine. Even then the deputy rode on the step of the car until it had passed away from the crowd on the curb and seemed to be out of the first danger zone.

An interesting scene worthy of the pondering of citizens who are getting very little protection from gentry of Mr. Barker's sort. Such tender consideration of the feelings and safety of a notorious bad man is not meaningless. It has been shown in other similar cases and throws a bright light on the problem of public defense in this community. Criminals are too popular among politicians and officials. Sheriff Meyering reports there is no evidence that the deputy took "a gratuity" from Barker and expresses his official satisfaction with his conduct. The satisfaction will not be shared by a public that is beginning to understand why its protection from organized crime is so incompetent.

A BULWARK OF PROHIBITION.

"Protecting the hundreds of thousands of dollars constituting their daily bank rolls, armed guards, one a former officer, patrolled Dallas' major gambling and bookmaking places Wednesday as the result of the presence here of a number of bold criminals whose most recent work was two daylight holdups netting them nearly $10,000 Monday.

"The guards, a total of six, were distributed among the three major bookmaking headquarters and the four big gambling joints, one of the latter being still unguarded Wednesday. Wearing ordinary clothes and with their guns concealed, they sauntered about the places with a casual manner, but keeping a close eye on the big sums of money intrusted to their protection by their employers."

Texas is one of the most militant of the states championing national prohibition, although it is not difficult to get a drink in any of its principal communities. Its conviction of the need of moral discipline in New York, Chicago, and other sinks of iniquity is unshakable. Its zeal for reform rises in temperature in proportion to the distance of its victims from Texas.

Editorial of the Day

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

[Detroit Daily Mirror.]

It would be well for the lower house of the Michigan legislature to consider seriously the wisdom of concurring with the senate in the passage of a bill to prohibit taking of photographs in courtrooms during trials.

Under the American and English systems of jurisprudence the public is entitled to attend the jury trial of an accused person. In the days when communities were small nearly all residents of a community could attend the trials.

In this modern age of large cities it is impossible to house the thousands of persons who are interested in our trials and who follow them closely through their newspapers.

In this era of pictures the public at large, not being able to attend the trials in person, wants to see the principals as well as to read what they say.

The photographer with his camera and the reporter with his pencil are the eyes and ears of the thousands our courtrooms cannot accommodate.

In a larger sense, however, the very freedom of the press, guaranteed by the founders of our constitution, is at stake. The drafters of the constitution were men of far reaching visions, who had just emerged victorious with their British cousins in the immortal struggle against tyranny. They struck England only when their independence and freedom of speech and action were concerned.

Since their day freedom of speech and the press have been assailed by selfish, despotic rulers and even by American law makers, but each time these two inalienable rights of our citizens have won out.

And this is only as it should be, for when lawmakers attempt to pass and execute laws aiming at the undermining of these God given laws the people are not slow to strike back.

The Michigan house should think long and seriously consider a bill that, if passed, would blind the public.

BABY DAY.

ONE explanation of the continued financial depression is the fact that the population is not increasing at the old time rate. There is speeding up in productiveness. A tractor and other farm machinery makes it possible for a farmer to so increase the per man output that there is a surplus of farm products unless the consuming population increases at the same rate. The same holds true of industry. But the consuming population is not increasing at the old rate. Immigration has fallen to almost the zero level, and the birth rate is falling much faster than the death rate is. Assuming that the birth rate continues to fall rapidly, the death rate to fall slowly or not at all, and the immigration remains on the present level, the prediction is made that the population will become stationary within this decade.

In addition, Congressman Fish reports that our European markets for cotton, oil, wheat, and meat are diminishing rapidly and probably will disappear. The same trend, though in lesser degree, can be predicted for the European market for manufactured products. If these predictions are verified 1940 will find us with increased capacity for production, but with no increasing consuming population, either in America or in Europe.

One way to offset the trend toward stable and eventual decline of population is to take better care of the babies we have. This is the purpose of setting aside a day as Baby day and having our authorities call our attention to child welfare, asking us to think about it and to plan for it during all of the month of May, and to consider the welfare of older children as well as of babies.

Baby life is much safer than it was twenty-five years ago. The baby death rate is about one-third as high as it was then. In the last one-half of the first year of life, and in the second year, babies are nearly as safe as are the people of all ages combined. Even that leaves much to be accomplished, however. There are parts of the world where babies are twice as safe as they are in North America. To compensate for the declining birth rate we must plan and scheme until we have reached the level of the most favored countries.

It is the very young baby that is in especial need of help. Our obstetric service is not making good, as measured by safety of babies and mothers. Something is wrong with our care of babies less than one month old. We must do better by our babies in the second and third months. This May day would be well worth while if, through it, somehow young babies got better care.

FROGS AND CANCER.

Mrs. M. J. writes: Could frogs cause cancer? I was born and raised in the southern part of Indiana where almost all the farmers used spring water and in the spring and summer there were millions of frogs everywhere there was water. My father had cancer of the stomach and all the old timers down there died from cancer. I have often wondered if the frogs lay eggs in the water and these cause cancer. I have spoken to my friends about this and they think it impossible.

REPLY.

I agree with your friends. There is no evidence against the frogs.

The physicians explain what you say by saying it was coincidence and not cause.

MAY HURT THE POLICE.

N. S. writes:

Are carbon monoxide fumes, inhaled on daily walks through the thickly moving automobile district of the city, injurious to the health?

REPLY.

FILE WAGE CLAIM.

Chicago, April 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The firm for whom I was working sold its employes debenture bonds with a face value of $100, with 6 per cent interest, maturing in 1936. The price of the bond was being deducted from our salaries at different rates, mine being $5 weekly. When the full value of the bond was paid we would get the bond itself, in the meantime merely being furnished with slips of paper as evidence of payments. After 13 weeks of paying the concern stopped operations and is about ready to close its doors for good. 1. What is our standing in this case? 2. Can we negotiate to sell our credit to the trust that made the issue of the bonds, with some discount perhaps?

H. D.

Your chances of sustaining the position that the bonds were merely written evidence of your wage claim and not in substitution therefor would seem good enough to warrant filing a wage claim in the bankruptcy as to wages earned within three months. The way to find out what they are willing to do is to negotiate with them.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WIFE'S CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, April 16.—[Friend of the People.]—1. Do I have to apply for first papers when my husband is a naturalized citizen of the United States? 2. Must I have witnesses? 3. How long before I can get citizenship papers after application?

E. P.

1. No.
2. Yes.
3. Ninety days after filing your petition.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director, U. S. Department of Labor.

ALL OUT OF LUCK.

Chicago, April 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a friend who is mixed up with the loan sharks. About six months ago he borrowed $20 from one and $25 from another, paying $4 and $5 a month interest. Now he is only working part time and can't pay. They threaten to garnish him. Can they do anything to him, according to the law?

R. F. K.

Shortly after the Tribune's campaign against loan sharks an act was passed authorizing them to do business on an interest return that was in the nature of a compromise between the rates that they had been charging and the rates charged on ordinary loans. It seems probable that your friend's obligations are valid, but obviously we cannot pass upon the points without having the facts before us. The possibility of barring the obligations by bankruptcy would depend on what security has been given. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WHAT TO DO? WHAT TO DO?

State health directors have joined in a demand on the government to make anti-freeze solution used in automobiles in such a fashion that people won't drink it. The best plan we can think of is to perch a dry sleuth on the hood of every machine that carries anti-freeze solution, with instructions to open fire on anybody that tries to drink the stuff. And then have another sleuth sitting on top of the car ready to shoot the first sleuth if the latter sneaks a drink. And then have a third sleuth—but this plan looks as though it would take too many sleuths.

Of course, the health directors think the government will put some more chemicals in the anti-freeze solution to make it undrinkable. But the government has already put every poison into the stuff they could think of, including chopped barbed wire fencing, shingle nails, tacks, glue, tanning fluid, and spinach, but still people drink it. They not only partake of it in its somewhat crude form but they make anti-freeze cocktails out of it, and it is said to be a most popular drink in winter time. It has been suggested that our paternal government put fireworks solution into the anti-freeze stuff. Then when it is exposed to the air, as it necessarily will be when somebody pours it out for a drink, it will shoot Roman candle things of blue, green, purple, and polka dot, ending with a fine blazing set piece in two colors of "Washington at Valley Forge," or "The Battle of Bunker Hill," or something like that.

But probably this won't work, either. The anti-freeze solution drinkers will consider these things as just an additional kick and begin writing to the government to put more fireworks into the anti-freeze, as they find them most exhilarating. But there must be something that the government can do about it. Why not have another amendment forbidding freezing weather in the United States? And, indeed, why not? We would probably still have freezing weather in winter time. But, anyhow, it would be a great satisfaction to know that it happened against our expressed wishes.

SONNET WRITTEN QUICKLY

Where my feet lead I would your feet would follow,
Go where I will, wherever I would stray.
Though there be little in dreaming, life's not hollow
If there's a gleam ahead, a road, a way.
There is a call that beckons us to wander
A different road than others trod before,
Be brave! I shall but love you all the more.

There is a valley on the other side
That travelers tell us is not worth the cost,
But they have wandered out of fallen pride,
Who loved too faithfully and loved and lost.
They tell us that there is no love at all,
We hear our heartbeats, a far clearer call.

THE HOUSEKEEPER at the White House got real mad because of criticism in a magazine about White House receptions and canceled her subscription. But most of the people who go to the White House receptions are one hundred per cents from the sticks who buy postal cards of the White House after the reception and write on them, "Having a swell time. Wish you were here." So the magazine critique of the White House receptions is just so much wasted breath.

DO I MISS YOU?

Each night I fill the banquet hall
With witty men and wise
And maidens out of starry dreams
With laughing siren eyes.

Each night as you are driving past
You hear the rafters ring
With laughter and with merry cries
As lusty songs we sing.

Each night the good red wine flows free,
The festive board is spread;
The music blurs, the dancers whirl,
The wine mounts to the head.

A girl hops on the table-top
And sings, her voice a moan,
I fill the cup, and laugh, and am
So horribly alone! . . .

THE BILL to license auto drivers is still standing in line down in Springfield waiting its turn. Well, if Illinois won't make the motorists get a license, at least the state should require that all drivers be able to back their cars and know what the brakes are used for. Which might cut down the number of cars on the road about 50 per cent.

Oh, yes. Prosperity, do get the spirit of the day and move.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 1, 1915.

PARIS.—Eight German submarines have been destroyed by British mines and net traps in the English channel. This series of disasters has occurred in the week since April 22, when the British admiralty suspended all trade and passenger traffic with the Netherlands. The German craft were decoyed to their doom by the retirement of the British fleet from the North sea into the channel. This plan to trap the German undersea boats was the real reason for suspension of intercourse with the Dutch ports.

ZEEBRUGGE.—The German submarine base has been attacked by British warships and, according to a report, heavy damage has been done.

LONDON.—After serious fighting in which the Turks offered stubborn resistance, British troops, an official statement says, have established themselves on the Gallipoli peninsula and advanced a considerable distance toward the narrows on the Dardanelles, while the French have cleared Cape Kum Kaleh on the Asiatic side of the straits of Turks. The Turks, under the leadership of German officers, placed every obstacle in the way of the invaders, but were forced to fall back under the fire of the allied fleet and the army. The British forces lost heavily.

NEW YORK.—The "war order" fever again got possession of the stock market on the basis of a signing of a contract by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for $27,500,000 worth of rifles ordered by the British government for Russia. Westinghouse went up 10 points and other stocks shot to new high records. The American Locomotive company has signed an order for shrapnel and explosives to the amount of $65,000,000 for the British government.

MAY 1, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Attacked with pick and crowbar almost before its last audience had departed, Central Music hall passed into history. Within ten days not a stone will remain of this monument to the intellectual and esthetic growth of Chicago. Hardly had M. Charles Gauthier stopped singing in the hall when workmen began the demolition. Irrevocably linked with the recollection of the landmark is the name of George B. Carpenter, whose dream was the founding of the home for music, but whose death at 35 scarcely realized its fulfillment. Aside from music, the hall will be remembered chiefly for Central church, where David Swing came into his own. Among other notables who were heard from its platform were Henry Ward Beecher, Susan B. Anthony, Schuyler Colfax, Emily Faithful, Edwin and Matthew Arnold, Robert G. Ingersoll, George Kennan, Dwight L. Moody, Mrs. Scott Siddons, Josh Billings, Mark Twain, Bill Nye, and Bob Burdette. The hall was built in 1875 by the Central Music Hall company, of which the following were officers: President, L. Z. Leiter; vice president, George M. Pullman; secretary, George B. Carpenter, and treasurer, George Sturges.

SPRINGFIELD.—The congressional and senatorial apportionment bills were passed by the house and will be passed by the senate without change. The bills probably will be the law of the state by the end of the present week.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 1, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Curious chapters in the star route business are being almost daily discovered. A new one has been found in which an indicted whisky distiller had his star route contract "expedited" by Assistant Postmaster General Brady. He was John A. Walsh, one of the most successful of the star route men, and is said to be worth more than $500,000. The contract for the route from Prescott to Santa Fe was originally $13,000. It was "expedited" until at last the government paid $1,369,700 a year for it, on the statement of Walsh that more horses, coaches, and men were necessary.

BOSTON.—The great actor, Salvini, closed his American engagement at the Globe theater. His eight performances in the last two weeks netted over $21,000.

FARM SUFFERERS.

Chicago, April 29.—That was a good editorial on the farm problem today. Could I add a thought or two gleaned in forty years of travel and investigation?

There are two kinds of farm sufferers: Those on over-mortgaged farms bought at boom prices; and those on millions of acres that never was farm land.

Iowa and Illinois are the best farm states, and fifty per cent, approximately, of their farms are not mortgaged. Those on the clear farms are all right.

One crop grain farming is dangerous. The rotation of diversified crops with the raising of livestock and the dairy will today show profit where the farm is not over-mortgaged. To sell grain off the farm is poor business and little profit. Iowa feeds most of the corn crop.

The fact is that the farmer has been helped too much; he has borrowed too much and gone into debt too much. That's the cause of most of these foreclosures. Farm land formerly sold in Illinois and Iowa at from $300 to $700 per acre put a lot of farmers on the hummer.

Agriculture is a basic industry. You can't kill it. Better marketing; better farming; more intelligence used by the farmer will help. But don't forget that 50 per cent of the value of a farm is the home element. Many are beginning to realize this fact.

FREDERICK S. PENTZER.

REVOLVERS.

Chicago, April 28.—In this morning's TRIBUNE, reference is made to a .25 calibre revolver shell being found at the scene of the faro killing, and I hereby take exception to the word "revolver."

There is no revolver of .25 calibre that extracts its shells as they are fired. Furthermore, there is only one revolver that automatically extracts the shells one by one as they are fired, and that is the .45 Webly-Fosberry, of English manufacture.

The killer no doubt had a .25 calibre automatic pistol, which carries its shells in a magazine inserted in the handle instead of in a revolving cylinder as in the revolver. Then, too, in establishing the position of the killer one must take into consideration that certain automatic pistols extract to one side and slightly rearward; other makes extract upward and slightly forward. A Colt .25 caliber, for instance, will extract out of the right hand side of the gun, straight out, whereas the Webly .25 extracts upward and forward. The Germans make some automatics which extract upward out of the gun.

In the story about Lingle, you refer to the killer's gun as a stubnosed .32 calibre revolver. You are all wet again, as I can identify the gun from the photographs published as a Colt .38 Detective Special.

H. B.

IS "HELL" IMMORAL?

Chicago, April 27.—Gen. Butler was cut off during his radio address because he used the word "hell." How perfectly asinine. The church preaches hell and damnation, the papers use the words, the magazines, the movies, the drama, and even the people. Hell is the place of everlasting torture for the damned. There is nothing immoral nor obscene about the word.

RAY H. HADFIELD.

ARE EDITORIALS READ?

Chicago, April 21.—For many years I have been a constant reader of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and during all those years I have constantly read the editorials in the paper. My habit has been to glance at the first page and then read the editorials.

Recently, however, I think I have made a discovery, and that is that the great mass of the newspaper readers absolutely ignore the editorial page and do not read the editorials. I have come to this conclusion because during the past months I have casually, from time to time, asked my friends whether or not they noticed certain editorials in THE TRIBUNE, and almost without exception they have admitted to me that they do not read the editorials. Several of them have suggested to me that the editorial in the paper does not mean anything as it is only the thought of one person and for that reason they do not pay any attention to the editorials.

I have always believed that the strength of our large metropolitan papers was almost in direct proportion to the skill and ability of the great editorial writers connected with those publications, and this, I believe, was true during the lifetime of Horace Greeley, Joseph Medill, and other writers of like ability, and I believe that it would be a good plan to feature the leading editorials on the first page of the paper under a special heading.

I believe there ought to be a beating back to the days when well written editorial thought was the very heart of the great newspaper, and I believe the way to accomplish this is to give the editorials a first page position. It is perfectly possible to make them almost classics in their way.

WILLETT H. CORNWELL.

CORPORATE SURPLUSES.

Chicago, April 29.—It seems to me that the first step in getting after Old Man Depression in this country is a campaign against the large surpluses which our corporations have lying idle, which run into the billions. The steel corporation's surplus is over $700,000,000, of which $197,000,000 is in cash. There is no end to figures that can be cited of the piling up of these vast amounts of idle money.

They nag constantly at the laboring man hoarding his cash in savings banks, a few hundred dollars maybe, and urge him to spend and spend in order to bring back prosperity; but never a word about the huge cash hoardings of our corporations, doing no one any good.

Let these corporations disgorge a billion or two of cash and see what effect it has, instead of hounding the little fellow to disgorge his few hundreds saved at great sacrifice.

L. DUDENHOEFEL.

CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT.

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 28.—Mr. McDonald, in his letter of April 20 relative to American ships, complains of the whining of our shipping interests. Have not our American shipping industries a just right to whine? The La Follette seaman's act puts them at a tremendous disadvantage as to operating expenses. As for passenger traffic, the vets, and for some reason most of the drys, refuse to travel on the United States passenger ships on account of the Volstead act.

DRYS BARE RUM CUTTING ORDERS BY BOOTLEGGER

Tell of Tapped Telephone Wires at Trial.

Some trade secrets of a refined bootlegger, Paul Morton, brother of the late Nails Morton, a Dean O'Banion gangster, were revealed by tapped telephone wire evidence introduced in Morton's trial before Federal Judge Barnes yesterday. Morton is charged with violating the prohibition laws.

Special dry agents who worked under George E. [Hard Boiled] Golding in developing the Morton case two years ago told how Morton, after his customers were assured they were getting "the real McCoy," directed his warehouse attendants to "cut that stuff 60-40."

Agent Arthur Franklin, who held a great sheaf of reports on telephone conversations obtained by wire tapping, told of Morton's orders, and explained that "60-40" meant 60 per cent alcohol and water and 40 per cent whisky.

A Business Conversation.

CHARLIE—Paul there?

PAUL—Yes, Charlie. Wait'll I get a piece of paper. All right—the Casino club, 167 East Delaware place—three champagne, quarts. That'll be Mumm's.

Broker Denies Deal.

Nelson Barnes, a wealthy broker, who lives at 1120 Lake Shore drive, said last night that he had not ordered any champagne through the Casino club, of which he has been a member ten years.

"If I had it would have been more than three quarts," said Mr. Barnes. "Of what use would three quarts of champagne be I only knew this fellow Morton to speak to."

Agent Myron Caffey, the quick trigger dry whose shooting of William Beatty, a municipal court bailiff, in 1928, caused a clash between the police and the government, was back from the east for the Morton trial. Caffey also testified as to overheard telephone conversations, including those in which Morton ordered truck loads of liquor from Windsor, Ont., and Ecorse, Mich.

BOY DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Pierre Svendsen, 11 years old, 7154 Lowe avenue, fell dead of heart disease yesterday at his home. His parents told the police they believed unaccustomed exertions in swimming lessons had overstrained his heart.

22 YEARS OLD

[Acme Photo.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, April 30.—(AP)—Holland gave over this day to the celebration of the 22d birthday of Crown Princess Juliana. Flags flew over the public buildings throughout the country but the festivities centered here. The royal family spent most of the day in the palace but tonight they were to witness a fireworks display on the parade ground. There was choral singing in the streets this morning and the carillon played from the steeple of the great church.

COMMONS O. K.'S SNOWDEN PLAN TO TAX LAND VALUES

LONDON, April 30.—(AP)—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, today saw the house of commons approve the first step toward his budget proposal for taxing land at the rate of a penny to the pound.

The house passed a resolution authorizing that provision be made in this year's finance bill for imposing the land tax, although the tax itself cannot come into operation for perhaps two years because of the necessity for evaluating the property concerned.

OLEOMARGARINE TINTING IS LEGAL, STORES POINT OUT

Butter Not Involved in Lake County Case.

The controversy over the legality of the manufacture and sale of tinted oleomargarine was a subject of discussion yesterday among merchants and dairymen, following the filing of informations in Lake County court on Wednesday, naming a score of retailers and wholesalers handling colored oleomargarine.

The action was brought by the Lake County Pure Milk association, whose officers maintain that sale and manufacture of such products is in conflict with the Illinois statutes. Regardless of the outcome of the court action, however, several manufacturers stated yesterday that they have stopped manufacturing the product because of a high federal tax on colored oleomargarine which becomes effective in June.

Both manufacturers and the dairymen definitely pointed out that the Lake county action did not involve the sale or manufacture of butter and likewise that the filing of the informations did not imply or intend to imply that colored oleomargarine contained impurities.

Follows Federal Action.

The action in Lake county follows federal action on the subject within the last year. Last November the department of internal revenue at Washington ruled that the coloring of oleomargarine with pure vegetable oils was not illegal. Following this ruling the dairy interests obtained the passage by congress of the Brigham-Townsend bill on March 3 of this year. This bill fixed a tax of 10 cents a pound on oleomargarine which is colored yellow.

The manufacturers and wholesalers maintain that the manufacture and sale of such a product is not in conflict with the Illinois law. This is the point of difference which gave rise to the action of the Lake county dairymen.

Statement by Merchant.

"All references to butter in connection with this action was in error," F. H. Massmann, vice president of the National Tea company, stated yesterday. This point was also emphasized by R. J. Pierce, vice president of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, and officials of other manufacturing and wholesale houses dealing in dairy products.

The informations contained the names of the above companies, the John F. Jelke company, the Consumers company, the Chain of Lakes Packing company, and the managers of stores in ten Lake county towns.

DOCTOR HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Dr. George Vagelos, 42 years old, 3835 Fullerton avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of murder by abortion by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Mary Hoffman, 28 years old, 2873 North Neva avenue, who died in the Washington Park hospital on April 9.

WITNESSES BARE RACKETEER RULE IN NEW YORK CITY

Thousands Collected as "Union Dues."

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—The rule of the racketeer was laid open to public gaze today when reluctant witnesses revealed just how the underworld was terrorizing business in New York. At the same time the Seabury inquiry learned that the administration of justice in this city has been on a downward trend since Tammany last came into control and that under Thomas C. T. Crain, the district attorney now under fire, justice has the worst record in 25 years.

It was Mr. Seabury who penetrated deepest into the underworld's system of "collecting." Months ago Mr. Crain called a grand jury to expose and punish the business terrorists. Nothing happened. Today the story of weekly payments of $100 or more, or large lump sums up to $1,000 by business men for "protection against trouble" was told—or rather dragged out of witnesses.

Milliners Pay Up!

The millinery racket, one of many in this city, but also one of the most lucrative, provided the background for Mr. Seabury's excursion into the forbidden precincts of the underworld.

The story of the millinery racket was told by Isidor Fogel, president of a hat manufacturing company, and Samuel Malzman, a ladies' hat manufacturer. Mr. Fogel, after considerable prodding and nervous denials that he was "afraid to talk," revealed that he first paid tribute to "Little Augie" Ogden, east side gang boss, and then, when Augie was blasted to his reward in the summer of 1927, he paid tribute to a long line of distinguished hoodlums. "Tough Jake" Kaussman, it developed, was the present owner of the Augie idea and "Fat Tom" Walsh was a star collector, until he, too, was taken with lead poisoning.

Time after time Mr. Seabury cautioned the witness to "quit stalling and tell the truth." Mr. Fogel wanted to talk, but he didn't like the look in the eyes of "Tough Jake," who sat in the back of the courtroom waiting to speak his piece.

"Dues" of $1,000 Paid.

Fogel said that Kaussman came to his office and told him that "the union wanted to see me." He was also advised that if he did not "see the union" he would be without employés the next day. A little later a second caller dropped in and collected $1,000 "dues."

Fogel, a bland little man, appeared uncomfortable and most unhappy as the details of further regular payments were dragged from him. Since July, 1930, Fogel has been paying $100 each week. He has had little labor trouble in his nonunion shop.

Mr. Crane's record as a criminal prosecutor was analyzed in statistics supplied by Prof. Raymond Moley, head of Columbia university's department of public law. The figures show Crane obtained 40.8 per cent convictions in jury trials, as against the 45.3 ratio achieved by William Travers Jerome in 1906.

Charts and statistics supplied by Prof. Moley revealed that convictions in every branch of crime have been slipping under Tammany rule, and that the record of convictions at the present time are at their lowest ebb. In Jerome's time there was little of the present accepting of pleas of guilty on lesser crimes than those charged.

SEARCH FOR WOMAN IN WAGING WAR ON LEGS DIAMOND GANG

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—The campaign being waged at the instance of Gov. Roosevelt against the Legs Diamond gangster activities in Greene county has taken one angle into the search for a woman.

The woman is Marion Roberts, described as Diamond's "girl." She was with him at the Arlington hotel in New York City on January when Legs was shot and killed. She has been with him at his country retreat in the Catskills. And she is now said to have been with the gang that pulled Grover Parks and James Duncan from their cider truck near Acra in Greene county on April 16. Parks was beaten and his feet burned. A woman stood by. Parks is said to have tentatively identified pictures of the girl.

NOE DIVORCE TO COME TO TRIAL AT JUNE TERM

Memphis, Tenn., April 30.—[Special.]—Details of the married life of Dean Israel H. Noe of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral are expected to be revealed before a divorce court some time in June.

The 42 year old clergyman today filed an answer to the suit of Mrs. Ellen M. Noe, who is asking divorce on the grounds of physical abandonment. She charges that the dean for some time before the filing of her suit last Feb. 9 had refused to live with her in conjugal union. Mrs. Noe is 39 and good looking. The couple has two children, Peggy, 6, and Eugenia, 4.

Tells of State of Perfection.

In his answer today to his wife's charge, Dean Noe stated that he had reached a state of "spiritual perfection" which made his ideas of the marriage relation differ materially from those of his wife, and added that he stood on the principle of his church that "self-control" was the only Christian standard of birth control and that he had tried to live by such a standard for the last three years.

After the filing of Dean Noe's answer Judge Edgar Webster, counsel for Mrs. Noe, stated that a petition would be filed in Chancery court within the next few days asking that Mrs. Noe be given temporary custody of the two children pending the outcome of the divorce case.

Leaves City with Children.

Meanwhile Mrs. Noe and the children are in Sewanee, Tenn., where Mrs. Noe took up residence ten days ago. She will remain there until Sept. 24, her counsel said.

Judge Webster said the filing of Dean Noe's answer "completes the issue, and we will bring the case to trial at the earliest date." Judge Webster said the earliest date would be in June. The Chancery calendar has open dates then. The case will be heard before Chancellor C. M. Ketchum.

Mrs. Noe filed her divorce bill on Feb. 9. She continued to live in the same house, eat at the same table, and take her place as the wife of the dean of the cathedral, but lived on the second floor of the Noe residence. The dean maintained his residence on the first floor.

Yellow Kid Weil Demands Protection from Police

Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil demanded police protection from the police yesterday. He made this demand before Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court where he and his associate, Fred Buckminster, were arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct. Detectives admitted they had no evidence against the pair, and Judge Borrelli waved the two to freedom. In departing Weil asserted that police were harassing him, and demanded police protection from police molestation. This request, too, was waved aside.

ARRESTED FOR AUTO ACCIDENT.

Canton, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—William Stockman was arrested here today at the request of Peoria authorities who stated that he figured in a serious automobile accident in that city several days ago. He was taken to Peoria late today.

MILLION PARADE IN MOSCOW TODAY IN MAY 1 FETE

25,000 Troops to March in Demonstration.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, April 30.—Blazing with brilliant scarlet bunting, Moscow is seething with activity today in preparation for the big May day parade and celebration tomorrow.

Enormous crimson banners and vast sheets of red cheesecloth bearing slogans and legends of the progress of the five year plan deck the fronts of buildings and festoon the streets. Shop windows are decorated with busts of national heroes, statues of celebrities, and papier-maché models of tractors, airships, field guns, and other symbols.

Soldiers Jam Moscow.

Everywhere are lithographs, posters, and photographs of the triumvirate—Lenin, Stalin, and Vorochiloff. Soldiers jam the city for the two day fete. Detachments from far flung wastes are here for the military procession, all spick and span in their new uniforms and steel helmets. Infantry, cavalry, artillery, aviation, tanks—all will be represented in tomorrow's procession.

It is expected that about 25,000 troops will take part in the parade. The trade unions, Boy and Girl Scouts, and other social units will also participate. It is estimated that more than a million persons will be in line.

Tourists are flocking in on all trains and hotels are packed, with cots in the halls, corridors, bathrooms, and dining rooms. Brig. Gen. William Haskell, President Hoover's chief aid during the famine relief, and his son John, who will be married in Paris next week, arrived today from Leningrad.

Tunney and Wife Arrive.

Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, and his wife, Polly Lauder Tunney, arrived this morning from Warsaw for a ten day visit. Mrs. Tunney said the sleeping car from the frontier smelled so strongly of disinfectants that she was unable to sleep.

The Tunneys ordered an omelette for breakfast at the Grand hotel, but were informed that there were no eggs, so they compromised on chicken, peas, and stewed fruit. They expected to proceed to Leningrad next week.

Thirty Arrested in Paris.

PARIS, April 30.—(AP)—Thirty arrests were made this afternoon of individuals charged with attempting to incite demonstrations and with distributing tracts in connection with May day tomorrow. Among those arrested were the general secretary of the chauffeurs' union and a member of the central committee of the communist party. Police also raided the offices of the communist paper, "Humanite," seizing an edition intended for publication tomorrow morning. The paper has been demanding a general strike on May 1.

REVEAL WEDDING OF LEHMANN AND VIRGINIA WAIBEL

Rumors of the secret marriage nearly three months ago of Mrs. Virginia Peine Waibel, 19, to Edward J. Lehmann Jr., 27, were confirmed yesterday. The marriage took place at Mount Vernon, Ill., on Feb. 9, less than a week after the bride, who is the daughter of the late Adolphus G. Peine, vice president of Alfred Decker & Cohn, had obtained a divorce from William Waibel, prominent in athletics during his years at Northwestern university.

Both principals in the marriage are members of old Chicago families and widely known in social circles. The groom is the grandson of E. J. Lehmann, who was the founder of the Fair in 1875, and a nephew of Otto Lehmann, president of the Arlington race track. The bride eloped to Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 19, 1929, and was married to Waibel. She obtained a divorce, waiving alimony, in Judge Daniel P. Trude's court on Feb. 3, charging cruelty. The suit was not contested.

FRANCE TO STAGE AERIAL "WAR" ON ITALY'S BORDER

Planes and Warships to Participate in "Fight."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 30.—In what is considered to be an answer to Italy's huge air maneuvers scheduled within the next few days and Gen. Italo Balbo's speech in the Italian chamber of deputies yesterday, in which he said that "neither the Alps nor the Apennines could act as a barrier against an aerial attack," France has massed its greatest air force since the war between Toulon and the Italian frontier. If weather conditions permit, France tomorrow will commence a series of coördinated naval and air maneuvers on a scale surpassing anything ever attempted by that country.

More than 150 pursuit planes are grouped around Toulon. France's airplane carrier, the Bearn, accompanied by a flotilla of destroyers and other naval units, anchored off the coast this afternoon, carrying several squadrons of heavy bombers. These bombers will be reinforced by a number of hydroplanes and land planes, now winging southward from points as far off as Lyons and Nancy. These will constitute the offensive fleet which will "attack" the heavily fortified Mediterranean coast for 48 hours.

Will "Fight" Near Italy.

From a political standpoint, observers declare, the maneuvers have a particular significance, coming at a time when Franco-Italian relations are strained, particularly as the result of the new naval dispute and the checkmating of the Franco-Italian negotiations in London.

The maneuvers will take place over a section of French territory largely inhabited by Italians, and only a few hours' flight from Turin and Genoa. Jacques Louis Dumesnil, minister of air, has just completed a 10,000 mile formation flight across Africa, and on his return discussed the potentialities of long distance air raids. He is flying south to view the war games.

Maneuvers on a small scale have been proceeding around Toulon for over a week. Today a dummy attack was staged on the port. It is the aim of French authorities to give tomorrow the closest approximation to actual aerial warfare yet seen by any country.

Will Stage 48 Hour Attack.

The war games are technically being held to test the defense of Toulon, but it is really intended to try out the offensive value of heavy bombers. Instead of having four or five bombers play hide-and-seek, twenty pursuit planes from the offensive fleet will stage surprise attacks almost continuously for 48 hours along 200 miles of the coast.

Gen. de Goy, head of the French air forces, will direct the maneuvers. He has established his camp at Marignane, near Toulon.

JUDGE FREES 3 WIFE KIDNAPERS; URGES SPANKING

Complaining Bride Admits Enjoying 'Abduction.'

Madison, Wis., April 30.—(AP)—Charges of kidnaping contained in warrants issued against Harry Hamilton Drill, 20, St. Paul, and two companions, were dismissed in Superior court here today.

By stipulation between defense and prosecuting attorneys, the trio will remain in jail for "a reasonable length of time"—probably until Monday—to enable New York authorities to make application for extradition papers if they so desire.

Drill, Elmer Peterson, and Harold Caldwell, all of St. Paul, were arrested on the complaint of Helen Drill, who said her husband and his companions abducted her in New York.

Wife Enjoys Kidnaping.

On cross examination Mrs. Drill, who swore out the warrants against the trio here, admitted the alleged kidnaping developed into a hilarious jaunt across the country after the quartet had left New York, where she claimed she was abducted on April 16.

Questioned by Carl N. Hill, defense attorney, Mrs. Drill said the troupe had laughed and chatted and that she had "hugged and kissed her husband as they sped west."

At one time a traffic policeman stopped the party, but the wife made no outcry. Her admission showed she had several opportunities to tell persons of her alleged plight or to cry out for help.

Recommends Spanking.

In dismissing the case Judge S. B. Schein said he is convinced that it was "an escapade of a bunch of kids who ought to be spanked."

"So far as Dane county is concerned," he said, "there is no proof of kidnaping. Moreover, in this state a husband cannot kidnap his wife. In fact, I have serious doubts that even in New York state can kidnaping be proved."

However, word from New York today said the requisition for extradition was sent to Gov. Franklin Roosevelt yesterday and an assistant told District Attorney Fred Risser here that the signature was expected today.

Pair Married Twice.

Frequently prompted by Mr. Risser, Mrs. Drill at the opening of the preliminary hearing described her two secret marriages to Drill. One took place when she was 15 and he 17 at Northwood, Ia. It later was annulled. The couple married again last July at Mason City, Ia., and annullment proceedings are now under way.

After she married Drill the second time, Mrs. Drill said she went to New York. She claimed she was kidnaped by the trio from a New York street the night of April 16. She said Robert Hufnagle, a Columbia university student who was questioned in New York, had aided.

Drill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drill, were in court for the hearing. The youth's father, who is an attorney, aided Cal N. Hill, Madison, attorney for Drill.

Alimony Row Society News Has a Sad Tone These Days

Two dozen members of the alimony club, the exclusive circle of men at the county jail imprisoned for their defiance of court orders to pay alimony to their former wives, met in solemn conclave yesterday to thwart an assault on their social prestige. Their contract bridge team has just suffered defeat at the hands of social climbers in the persons of two second story men.

Members of the club have long considered themselves social arbiters in what they refer to term the leading hostelry of Cook county. Since their charter acclaims them as martyrs to gold digging wives and as men who could go free but for their steadfastness to a principle, they have looked upon fellow residents as of vastly inferior social status.

The Club's Social Record.

In the meeting the members discussed past accomplishments of the club in social graces. When the club was first formed prisoners played rummy and pinochle. The club introduced 500. When this game spread, the club turned to bridge and more recently to contract bridge to set the pace again. The club was challenged to stake its laurels on a contract bridge contest and its team lost.

After two hours of debate the members carried by acclamation a motion to petition Warden David Moneypenny for a backgammon outfit. The motion carried an amendment asking for a ping pong set as a compromise to several members holding out for that pastime.

The dignity of the club forbids the making known of a demand through the prison custom of "yammering." Instead, a committee called a turnkey and addressed him thus: "The Alimony club presents its compliments to Warden Moneypenny and prays that he give them a backgammon and a ping pong set."

Request Sent to Warden.

The request was relayed to the warden. Warden Moneypenny, being well informed on literature as pertaining to penology, recalled the escape of the duke de Beaufort from the dungeon at Vincennes through the medium of tennis as recounted in the D'Artagnan romances. He immediately overrruled the request for a ping pong set. He persisted even when the committee insisted that no member of the club desired to escape.

The request for a backgammon layout was transmitted by the warden to Superior Judge Rudolph Desort. The judge looked upon the demand as indicating that the men whom the court intended to punish were being pampered. He asked for suggestions to impress the displeasure of the court on the clubmen. A lawyer suggested that the beds in alimony row be strewn with tacks. This was spurned.

"I have it," the judge exclaimed. "I'll make it mandatory that each member be visited for at least two hours each day by his wife."

The judge's decision was carried to the hopeful club members.

Rail Spending Aids Business

A Message from L. A. Downs, President Illinois Central System.

When the railroads' spending power is curtailed, everyone else's earning power is unfavorably affected. Prosperous railroads are therefore essential to general prosperity.

The railroads have been subsisting on a restricted diet. In the best of recent years, despite economical management, their margin of net earnings has been extremely small. Hence recent revenue losses have forced them to reduce their spending drastically.

A sound program for general prosperity must provide a permanent betterment of this condition. If the railroads can increase their margin of net earnings in good times, they will not need to resort to such extreme reductions of spending in dull times.

The railroads cannot be a major factor in stabilizing business if they are forced to operate year after year on a too narrow margin of net earnings.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Chicago, May 1, 1931

The purchases of this railroad, made principally in the territory in which it operates, have long been strong supports of midwestern and southern business progress.

TILLERS REGAIN CONFIDENCE IN MICHIGAN FARMS

Lower Prices for Things They Buy Is Cause.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East Lansing, Mich., April 30.—[Special.]—Michigan farmers, far from being discouraged over lowered commodity prices and curtailed consumption, have indicated in a series of interviews this week that they are looking for more stable conditions, with a steady and gradual rise in demand and price levels for their products in the next few years.

With over half of the state's agricultural income from dairy and poultry products, cheap grains have only made cheap feeds for these farmers. Not all of them are in position to utilize opportunities, however. Many continue to produce wheat, the acreage of which has not dropped one whit this spring.

The most striking sign of stability in agriculture here is the knowledge that the price level of things the farmers buy is just about the same as the level of prices for what he sells. Few states in the nation have this basically sound start for the return to better times, according to economists at the Michigan State college here.

Economist Reports.

"For the last five years Michigan farmers have received favorable returns in relation to prices of things they buy," declares R. V. Gunn, economist, heading a committee studying trends and probable outlook conditions for the state. Retail prices will continue downward, he finds, and with labor available for the price of bed and board, farm machinery is about the only product out of line in the readjustment in values, so far as farmers are concerned.

"Farmers may reasonably expect somewhat lower production costs, a probable tendency toward improvement in market demand, and a greater degree of stability in general commodity prices during the year," this committee reports. The chief difference between Michigan and national price levels is that wheat and cotton have served to unduly deflate other areas not so well diversified. Michigan farm rise index is 145, compared to 117 for the nation, based on prewar levels.

Learn How to Market.

"Then, too, a marketing system that has been developing for many years is giving farmers a better conception of what to produce and how to market it," the economist avers. "Nearly 90,000 Michigan farmers market their products through one or more of the regional or state cooperative marketing or bargaining agencies."

The sentiment among both farmers themselves and among leaders who are applying brains to the situation is that there will not be so much increase in farm prices as there will be lowering of other levels to more nearly an equitable position with agriculture. Farmers everywhere seem convinced city wages should not come down, and express the view that as soon as employment in the city picks up the demand for more dairy and poultry, as well as live stock and fruit products, will rid them of temporary overproduction troubles quickly.

Turning to Alfalfa.

Another healthy sign for Wolverine agriculture is that much acreage formerly in timothy or other grass hay crops is being turned into alfalfa, soy bean or other legume production.

Many farmers indicate a feeling of renewed satisfaction in their relative position with friends or relatives formerly employed in industry in the city. In many cases, these people have returned to help with spring farm work and find a place around the family table again.

A definite trend toward renting adjoining pieces of land to make more efficient units is noted in this week's survey. This is considered a step toward eventual concentration of ownership of farms by a better class of operators.

BANKRUPTCY ACTION AGAINST VOLIVA FILED BY ZION RESIDENTS

WILBUR GLENN VOLIVA.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal court yesterday against Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, on behalf of six petitioning creditors, all residents of the community. Voliva's lawyer charged that the action was merely an effort to harass his client.

The petition alleges that Voliva recently committed an act of bankruptcy in transferring his Zion City properties to the Zion Industries, a corporation organized under the laws of Delaware and empowered to sell a total of $5,000,000 in preferred and common stock. The new company was to place $2,000,000 worth of common stock and $1,000,000 worth of preferred stock on the market today.

Voliva was named in a suit filed in federal court last fall by a number of Zion property owners, who charged him with subdividing for the purpose of selling $2,000,000 worth of common property. An injunction restraining the plan was asked.

"This is done to harass and annoy Mr. Voliva," said Attorney Eli B. Felsenthal, representing Voliva, in commenting on the bankruptcy action yesterday.

William H. Mettell Named Head of Kane Co. Board

William M. Mettell of Aurora yesterday was elected chairman of the Kane county board in place of D. J. Dumser of Elgin, who held the office four years and who sought reelection. Mettell is the first Aurora resident to hold the office in more than 30 years.

GRANT PIPE LINE PERMIT TO SERVE CENTRAL ILLINOIS

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday granted a certificate of convenience and necessity to the Panhandle Illinois Pipe Line company authorizing the construction and operation of a pipe line for transmission and sale of natural gas in more than a hundred cities in south central Illinois.

The project, involving the expenditure of several million dollars for construction and the employment of approximately six thousand men, has been before the commission for more than a year. It is estimated that the cost of gas, both for illumination and fuel, will be reduced nearly 50 per cent. The gas will come from the Texas fields.

The line will connect with the Panhandle Eastern company, the interstate carrier, at Pleasant Hill in Pike county, using a 22 inch main, and will travel directly across the state to Chrisman in Edgar county.

Discharge Jury in $100,000 Airplane Damage Case

Failing to reach an agreement after eight hours of argument, the jury in the $100,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Louise McCusker against the Curtiss-Wright Flying service was dismissed yesterday by Judge David M. Brothers of the Circuit court. A new trial will start on June 22. Mrs. McCusker, a widow living at 244 East Pearson street, sought the damages for injuries which she alleged she received when an airplane she chartered from the flying service crashed into a tree, near Waynetown, Ind., a year ago.

"MAN IN GREEN HAT," SENATE BOOTLEGGER, TO SERVE 18 MONTHS

GEORGE CASSIDY.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—[Special.]—George L. Cassidy, the "man in the green hat" and bootlegger to senators and congressmen, today began serving an 18 months' sentence for breaking the law some of his customers helped to make.

Cassidy was convicted of transporting liquor, following his arrest in front of the senate office building, Oct. 31, 1929. He had gone into the building seeking orders, gone out to get the required liquor from his car, and was on his way to deliver it when he was caught.

Minister Found Not Guilty of Raping an Indiana Girl

Marion, Ind., April 30.—(AP)—Ralph Little Swayzee, part time Baptist minister, was acquitted tonight in Grant Superior court on a charge of raping a 17 year old Kokomo girl. The jury deliberated six hours. The charges were brought by the father of the girl. Little denied them and his defense was the establishment of an alibi. The girl was a witness at the trial.

EMPLOYMENT IN ILLINOIS SHOWS GAIN FOR MARCH

Washington, D. C., April 30.—[Special.]—Unemployment decreased slightly in Illinois during March, according to a survey conducted by the industrial employment information bulletin issued by the department of labor today. Small increase in employment also was registered in Michigan, Wisconsin, and Indiana.

"Reports throughout the state of Illinois indicate that unemployment decreased slightly in March and that favorable weather conditions permitted spring activities to start earlier than usual," the report stated. "Production and unemployment in several units of the steel industry and automobile accessory factories increased slightly, although several industries continued to operate below normal. There was an increase in building, but this did not absorb the large surplus of building craftsmen.

"Agricultural activities increased and many men were furnished with employment. Waterway construction projects in several sections of the state provided additional employment."

Flames Wreck Oldest School in North Chicago

Fire early this morning wrecked the Commonwealth school at 15th and Jackson streets in North Chicago. Fire Chief Fred Brean of North Chicago estimated the loss at $25,000. He summoned apparatus from Waukegan and the Great Lakes Naval Training station to assist the North Chicago department in subduing the flames in the fifteen room building. The Commonwealth was the oldest school in North Chicago and one of the oldest in Lake county.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: What Will the Morrow Bring?

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Tribune.

FRANK P. SADLER, ONE OF 1ST CITY JUDGES, IS DEAD

Frank Prather Sadler, one of the first Municipal court judges in Chicago, a former state senator, died last night in the Passavant hospital. He had entered the hospital shortly before Christmas.

FRANK P. SADLER.

As a member of the state senate from 1919 to 1923 Attorney Sadler sponsored the criminal law known as the Sadler act, which fixed the punishment for robbery with a gun at ten years to life in prison. This act was repealed several years ago because of the difficulty in obtaining convictions under it.

Mr. Sadler was born in Springfield, Ill., on June 10, 1872, and was educated at Knox college and the University of Michigan. He was admitted to the bar in 1898, and in 1907 was elected as one of the judges to the newly formed Municipal court bench. He ran for congress several times. He was a member of the firm of Sadler, Pridmore & Kasper, 77 West Washington street. Mr. Sadler was a bachelor.

DR. F. C. KNIGHT OF WAUKEGAN IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Dr. Knight came to Libertyville in 1880 and was in practice there for thirty-one years, moving then to Waukegan. He was elected coroner twice in the '90s and during the war was in charge of the medical committee examining men from Lake county. He was on the staff of the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan.

Dr. Knight was a charter member of the Elks club in Waukegan, a charter member of the Rotary club, a Shriner, and a 32d degree Mason. He was a member of state and national medical societies. He is survived by his widow and one son, Capt. Thomas Knight of Fort Bennings, Ga.

Benjamin J. Kellum of Winnetka Taken by Death

Benjamin J. Kellum, 63 years old, of Winnetka, died yesterday. He was a former executive of the Welsbach Lamp company, but had been retired for several years. Mr. Kellum was a member of the Chicago Athletic association. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. Monday at Graceland cemetery chapel.

6 YEAR OLD GIRL IS CLAWED BY LION AT SCHOOL EXHIBITION

Cincinnati, O., April 30.—(AP)—A lion believed to be tame, unexpectedly became vicious today at Whittier school where it had been taken for exhibition and lecture purposes, and slashed Vivian Leischner, 6 year old student, with a paw, inflicting severe head and back lacerations. Her condition is not regarded as critical.

The attack occurred immediately after a woman trainer, who had the lion and two bears tied to a lecture room platform, was alleged by teachers to have said to the girl: "Come on in, they won't hurt you." Almost simultaneously the lion leaped upon Vivian, the nearest student.

One of the lion's paws nearly tore the child's scalp from her head and the blow floored her. It was at first feared her skull was fractured, but physicians later changed their opinion. Although she had deep cuts on her neck, her face escaped injury.

Patrolman Howard McMiller, who was called to subdue the animal, said he found children screaming and the lion standing over the prostrate girl and the trainer crouched in a corner holding the bears.

The policeman said the lion jumped at him but he knocked it away with his mace, grabbed the child and took her to a hospital. By the time other police arrived the animals had been taken from the building.

Instructors told police the animals belonged to a man who had given his name as William Harwood and who claimed to own a private zoo at Palo Alto, Cal. Harwood, by permission of the board of education, had exhibited the lion and bears at 50 other Cincinnati schools recently where they were docile.

Detectives were assigned to hunt for Harwood and his charges after board of health veterinarians said they wanted to examine the lion for rabies. Police said the woman trainer and the animals disappeared after the accident.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, April 30.—Count di Robilant, Italian aviator, and his mechanic, lost in the jungles since April 12, were found today near the small town of San Jose on the Parana river, 100 miles from the place where their plane was forced down.

Count di Robilant was weak from the heat and hunger. His flying suit was in tatters. The mechanic, Mauranta Quaranta, was badly injured and hardly able to talk. The aviators were found by the steamer Rio Pardo.

Count di Robilant, although weak from eighteen days of wandering through the forest, still was able to walk and respond to questions, but his mechanic, who was injured when their plane crashed, lapsed into a coma after boarding the steamer. The steamer landed the aviators at San Jose. Doctors who were summoned said the mechanic was near death and the count suffering from loss of blood from scratches received while passing through the underbrush.

NIPPON WOMEN COOK, ENTERTAIN AT SAME TIME

Prepare and Serve Foods While Sitting at Table.

BY META GIVEN.

In my experience in home laboratory and camp kitchens I have observed that one of the pleasantest kinds of pastime for normally healthy people is watching some one cook. We like to observe the process because the different techniques of preparation are interesting. But we enjoy it more because of the stimulation we receive. Nothing puts a keener edge on our appetites than the sight and smell of food that is being carefully handled. And once our appetite is sharpened we are ready not only to enjoy our meal thoroughly but also to digest it perfectly.

The Japanese method of preparing sukiyaki or giunabe and serving this food provides all the delightful fun of "watching the pot" from start to finish. Giu means beef and nabe means the pot or frying pan. But either term in its fullest sense means cooking thinly sliced food in a frying pan at the table. It is a favorite way of the Japanese to prepare food on cool days and especially in the evening, when the whole family can be at the board. And it appeals to me as being especially nice for the hostess who has no maid. She can cook, serve, and entertain all at the same time.

Mrs. Shintani Gives Details.

Mrs. Tomiye Shintani, who has lived in America for 18 years, but who was born in Hiroshima, Japan, furnishes the details, which we give you today, for the preparation of a sukiyaki meal. Besides she supplies recipes for three or four other characteristic Japanese dishes.

As Mrs. Shintani prepares sukiyaki it would appeal to any one who loves good food and who likes to know all about the makeup of the dish.

The first essential of sukiyaki service is the careful preparation of the raw materials. The second is the attractive arrangement of them on a large platter. In the center of the platter the thinly sliced beef is placed. Rib roast is the cut generally used. These slices, which are about 3x2½ inches, are arranged so as to overlap each other. Mrs. Shintani cuts eight or ten slices at once, then slips the knife under all, lifts them to the plate, spreading them apart just a little. Around this row of meat slices are slices of large white onions, lengthwise cuts of green onions, lengthwise slices of bamboo shoots, sliced celery, lengthwise slices of mushroom caps, and at one end of the platter a large nest of long white strands of frosty white material, resembling vermicelli, or long shreds of cocoanut.

These strands, which are about 8 inches long, are called konniyaku, which is a food substance made from a root called konnyaku. And last a garnish is added—parsley, lilied radishes, and carrot slices, cut to resemble a blackeyed susan. The preparation of this platter may be made in the kitchen or in the dining room as the housewife or hostess chooses. The table is set in the typical Japanese style [see illustration], the platter is placed in the center of the table.

Hot Rice on the Table.

On the table beside the platter is a pitcher of "dashi" and a cruet of soy sauce and a small saucer of bean curd and a sugar bowl. At the other end of the table is a large covered tureen containing steaming hot rice cooked the perfect Japanese way. And nearby is the inevitable tea pot.

As soon as the family or guests are seated at the table, the hostess turns on the gas or electricity and heats the cast iron skillet [only a heavy cast iron one produces the desired results, according to Mrs. Shintani] until hot, then she adds the suet to the pan using two large chopsticks to push about over the bottom of the skillet until all the fat has been expressed. Then with the chopsticks she lifts from the platter 8 or 10 slices of meat, or enough to supply every one at the table with enough food to start the meal.

This meat is moved around with the chopsticks until it is well seared on both sides, then the sugar and the vegetables one by one are added, all except the konniyaku. Then soy sauce, a sauce which gives both a meaty and salty flavor, the bean curd and the "dashi" are added. [Dashi is a liquid that is essential in the cooking and serving of a large number of Japanese dishes. It is made from seaweed and dried bonito. [Bonito is dried fish flakes made from a fish that is much like tuna.]

Lifted Directly Onto Plates.

As soon as the vegetables are cooked tender [from 5 to 6 minutes of cooking is sufficient] the konniyaku is added. This is always put on top of the meat or vegetables. It is a glutinous, starchy substance that sticks easily to the skillet. It cooks to a beautiful transparency in just a minute or two. When the food is done it is lifted directly onto the serving plates. Every one helps himself out of the pan. When every one is served, a fresh supply of food is added to the pan to be deftly manipulated by different ones at the table as the first installation of food is being eaten. Sukiyaki is always accompanied with rice. And both the rice and sukiyaki are eaten with chopsticks.

SPINACH, JAPANESE STYLE.

Wash spinach thoroughly leaving the leaves intact around the central stem. Heat water to the boiling point, add 1 tsp. salt and then add the spinach, being careful to keep leaves all laying in the same direction. Cook in an open kettle about 5 minutes. Very carefully press the spinach down with the chop sticks so as not to tear, bruise, or disturb the position of the leaves. At the end of 5 minutes drain off the water and cover the spinach with cold water and let stand one hour. Drain off water very thoroughly, lay the spinach in bunches on a serving dish. Cut the bundles of leaves into four or five inch lengths. The way it is served is to have a very definite bundle like arrangement of the spinach. The Japanese method is remarkable for preserving the original shape and texture of the leaves. Serve cold at the table with soy sauce and dashi.

SUKIYAKI.

A piece of suet about the size of an egg.
1 lb. beef rib roast.
2 large dry onions.
2 dozen green onions.
2 bamboo shoots [canned].
2 stalks celery.
2 large mushrooms or 4 small ones.
1 tbsp. sugar.
¼ cup bean curd.
4 tbsp. shoyu [soy bean sauce.].
1 cup konniyaku.

Remove the bone from the beef and with a sharp knife cut into crosswise slices from ¼ to ⅜ inch thick. Slice onions crosswise about ¼ inch thick and bamboo shoots in lengthwise slices about ¼ inch thick. Cut celery into pieces about three or four inches long, then slice lengthwise slices about the size of a green bean. Cut mushrooms lengthwise. Melt the suet in the hot skillet, then add ten to twelve slices of the meat and cook, stirring constantly, until meat is almost seared, then add the sugar, vegetables, bean curd and the soy sauce and dashi. Cook about 5 minutes. Then add konniyaku last, putting it on top of the meat and vegetables. Only two or three minutes of additional cooking is necessary. Serve from the frying pan onto the saucers or in the bowls. Asparagus, green beans, cucumbers and water cress may also be used in sukiyaki to provide variety. Yield: three large or four medium servings.

SHRIMP CROQUETTES.

1 teaspoon sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 egg.

Clean shrimp. Put all the dry ingredients and the egg into a bowl, then add the water gradually stirring just enough to blend. Dip the shrimps into the batter, then drop into hot fat [375 degrees F.] and fry to a delicate golden color. Remove from fat, drain and serve hot with dashi and shoyu sauce. Yield: 5 servings.

DASHI.

1 piece kobu [seaweed], about 12 inches long and 5 inches wide.
2½ cups cold water.

Put fish and seaweek in cold water and heat slowly to the boiling point, then strain through a close meshed cloth. Dashi needs to be made fresh every day.

CHAWAN-MUSHI.

1 sheet dried seaweed [kobu], about 14 by 10 inches.
4 cups water.
6 eggs.
6 dried mushrooms [shitaki].
6 arrowroot [kuwai].
2 heads spinach or
½ pound shelled peas.
1 teaspoon sugar.
3 tablespoons soy sauce.

Boil the bonito and Kobu with water for about five minutes. Let cool and strain through a cloth. To this broth [dashi] add eggs and beat well. Cook chicken, mushrooms [which should be soaking in water], arrowroot and peas [if you are using peas] with the sugar and soy sauce until tender. If it is a little too salty, add a few drops of "dashi." Place this chicken, mushrooms, arrowroot and peas in a bowl and cover with the first mixture—the broth and eggs which have been well beaten. Cover the bowl and place in top of double boiler to steam for 15 minutes. If you have no double boiler place in a pan with hot water and put in oven and bake like cup custard for same length of time. Serve hot. Yield: 6 servings. If fish is used, ½ pound of red snapper meat is best.

Favorite Way to Prepare Japanese Food

MICHIGAN SEES GOOD CROPS OF FRUIT, BERRIES

Conditions Are Favorable, Experts Say.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

East Lansing, Mich., April 30.—[Special.]—Weather that is cool enough to keep the millions of Michigan fruit tree buds from bursting, yet warm enough to keep away dreaded frosts, is adding daily to the prospects for a bumper crop of fruits, as well as berries and vegetables, the bulk of it to find Chicago appetites waiting later this summer.

A drive through the scenic lower Michigan orchards, vineyards and rolling slopes from which come celery, strawberries, and other fresh goodies, this week disclosed plum trees in blossom, with apple, peach and cherry trees to issue their fragrant foliage in another few days.

Potatoes and early garden crops are being planted and sufficient rains have come in recent weeks to offset a winter and previous season's drought, at least for early germination and sprouting.

Fruit Trees in Bloom.

"Fruits are in blossom in the southern half of the state," reports D. A. Seely, federal weather forecaster in Lansing, "and generally in good to excellent condition. The season is about ten days earlier than usual. Temperatures of freezing and slightly lower two or three mornings have caused no damage of importance."

Another whim of Dame Nature that has encouraged the fruit and vegetable growers of a state where these crops mean about 27 million dollars income annually is that less disease and insect damage is found this year, due to an open winter and effective spraying.

The delicious and low priced strawberries now on Chicago grocery counters from the southern states are to be followed later in the summer by a plentiful supply of fine quality from the southwestern part of Michigan, this survey indicates. According to Irvin Holmes, state agricultural statistician, the curtailed acreage of berries in Kentucky and other south central states is also favorable to the Michigan crop, which will be grown on about the same number of acres as in 1930.

Plenty of Cabbage.

There will also be ample supplies of cabbage for kraut, white beans, onions, cucumbers for pickling, and asparagus, if the prospects now at hand continue through the growing season, he says. A large acreage in this state is devoted to growing sweet corn, snap beans, green peas, and tomatoes for canning, although the sweet corn crop has been reduced by almost one-fourth this year.

While conditions appear especially favorable in comparison to other farm commodities for Michigan fruit and vegetable growers this season, authorities at Michigan State college here, following a state and nation-wide study of trends in production and consumption, are advising growers to discourage expansion in orchard, vineyard, or truck crops acreage.

Says Growers Are Skilled.

Michigan growers will usually find a ready market for well colored, good sized fruit that is free from insect and disease injury, even in years of heavy nation-wide production," said R. V. Gunn, farm economist at the college. "Generally speaking, our growers are skilled in this specialized type of farming, and good quality always commands better than average prices."

Michigan's potato crop, some of which finds a market in Chicago, is expected to be the largest in many years. The last two years have seen a short crop nationally, and spuds have been retailing at higher prices than are expected to prevail as the new crop moves into consumption. Seed dealers are making the best of the situation by advancing their prices this spring.

Grapes to Be Plentiful.

In sections near good markets the growing of early potatoes should prove satisfactory, providing yields of 150 bushels or more per acre can be obtained," says the state college on the outlook. Grape juice, table grapes and subrosa products of the grape will continue to be plentiful and low priced throughout 1931 and possibly longer, according to statements of growers interviewed.

SEA FOODS CARRIED BY PLANES INCREASE SALES IN ARIZONA

"Flying fish" have become important in food distribution in the United States. Airplanes are being used to deliver fresh seafood from the Pacific coast to areas many miles inland.

At present Phoenix, Ariz., and nearby territory comprises the market for the four hour service from coast to market. It is planned to include Utah and New Mexico. Consumption of the products carried by plane is said to have increased 50 per cent because buyers see the fish arrive and know that their supplies will be fresh.

TOAST! IT'S EASY TO PREPARE AND HELPS ANY MEAL

Here Are a Few Ideas for Its Use.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Few housewives overlook opportunities to insert toasted bread in their daily menus whenever possible. It's easily prepared and gives the cooks a chance to vary their meals.

The only time that worry and labor are involved in toast making is when the cook has too many pots on the fire at once and forgets the toast, leaving it at the mercy of the red hot toaster. Such treatment results in charred and smoking crusts instead of the expected toast.

This outcome is enough to discourage the best of cooks. But it is all made in a jiffy, and it takes only a second to start out anew with fresh slices of bread. So, if you fail the first time, don't lose heart; try again. However, if an automatic toaster is used, failures are almost impossible. It is timed to pop the bread out as it is browned and is a boon and time saver for the housewives.

Should Be Served Hot.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on keeping the toast warm. Nothing is more tasteless and disappointing than toast which has been allowed to grow cold. If it is the last thing on the schedule to be made it can be served hot off the toaster.

The best toast is made from bread that is several days old. Whether it's rye, white, whole wheat, or raisin bread that is used is all according to the cook's taste and the purpose for which it is to be used.

So many uses are there for toast that it can be made for any meal during the day.

For breakfast there is the regulation dry toast which is complete in itself when coated with a generous portion of butter. Then there is cinnamon toast. Three parts of sugar to one part of cinnamon are the proportions used in the mixture which is spread over the buttered toast. Placing the toast in the oven until the sugar has melted will add to its flavor. Cinnamon toast can also be served for afternoon tea.

Toasted Sandwiches.

For lunch we have toasted sandwiches. Make the sandwiches before the bread is toasted. Then place it under the flames on the tray in the lower part of the oven and brown on both sides. If lettuce is to be used it can be added after the toasted sandwich is taken from the oven.

Date toast is another creation that can be made for afternoon tea. For six slices of toast two cups of dates are used. The dates are washed, cut up fine, and cooked very gently in one-half cup of water for about four minutes, or until soft. Five tablespoons of cream is stirred in and the preparation is poured over the toast.

For dinner slices of toast may be used as a base for creamed chicken, chipped beef, sea food, or vegetables. Or croustades, like the small containers served as the foundation for creamed dishes in restaurants, can be fashioned out of bread and toasted. The sandwich loaf of bread is the best size for this purpose.

Home Made Croustades.

Cut bread in slices 1½ inches thick. Remove crusts, and you have a square block which must be hollowed out to form a box or container for the creamed preparation with which it is filled. Use a sharp pointed knife and a small spoon to cut out the center, leaving a bottom and four sides of about ¾ inch thickness. Brush over with one teaspoon of oil, bacon fat, or butter. Place under fire in oven and brown on all sides and on the inside. They should be turned often in order to be browned evenly.

Melba toast is recommended for those who are trying to lose weight. This is prepared the same way as the regular dry toast except that it is cut in as thin slices as possible. Two slices of this toast are not supposed to be equivalent to one slice of the regular one-quarter of an inch toast. If you are trying to get rid of a few extra pounds you can set your quota at two slices for the meal without any qualms.

For Milk Toast.

If you have ever been on the sick list you have eaten milk toast. Here's how it is made:

1 pt. scalded milk — ½ tsp. salt
2 tblsps. butter — 4 tblsps cold water
2½ tblsps. bread flour — 6 slices dry toast

Add cold water gradually to flour to make a smooth, thin paste. Add part of milk, stirring constantly until thickened. When smooth add rest of milk. Cover and cook 20 minutes; then add salt and bits of butter. Dip slices of toast separately in sauce; when soft remove to serving dish. Pour remaining sauce over all.

Dry toast, cut in various shapes, is often used for garnishing. Cubes of bread, toast points, and small oblong pieces are the most common for this purpose. However, in planning anything of this sort be sure to shape the bread before toasting.

TEST NEW WAY OF PRESERVING CITRUS FRUITS

Whether an anti-oxidation process will preserve citrus fruit through a period of several months is being determined in an experiment at Howey-in-the-Hills, Fla.

One thousand boxes of grapefruit, oranges, and tangerines have been placed in a huge steel tank, which was sealed and flooded with an inert gas after the air had been withdrawn.

BREAKFAST PUT CÆSAR IN MOOD FOR A BATTLE

Dry Bread, Cheese Formed Roman Morning Meal.

BY MARIE LANE.

Lives of great men
Oft remind us
We can make our lives sublime—

Can it be that a careful scrutiny of the diets followed by these famous fellows who have gone before might influence our own potential greatness? Would a knowledge of what Julius Cæsar had for breakfast on that famous morning when, throwing all caution to the winds, he decides to cross the Rubicon, help us to climb the ladder of fame? Did he, perchance, have a goodly bowl of cereal, strong in its body building proclivities and guaranteed to produce vim, vigor, and vitality?

Nay, friends, Romans, and countrymen, he did not. In all probability he ate what he was accustomed to eating on the days when he had no Rubicons to cross, which was a piece of bread, eaten dry, dipped in wine or sprinkled with salt, a snack of cheese, a few olives, some raisins, or a bit of Attic honey. The bread was much like our own bread, but was baked in a round loaf and marked off into five or six portions.

Second Meal at 11 a. m.

The industrious men of Rome arose with the sun. Some of the busiest of the statesmen and barristers arose even earlier, so that they might better utilize every moment of natural light. This fact, coupled with the very sketchy breakfasts aforementioned, brought the second meal of the day around 11 o'clock of our time.

Now, if Cæsar had invited you to his home for luncheon (a thing which he never in the world would have done, because the Romans rarely entertained guests in the middle of the day) you would have met up with another cold meal. This time, if the gods were propitious, you might have had a tender slice of cold roast kid added to the breakfast menu, or mayhap a bowl of green salad. It is interesting to notice that although the Romans had many vegetables, our two most popular ones—the potato and the tomato—were entirely unknown to them. They had artichokes, lentils, asparagus, water cress, lettuce, mallow, beans, beets, cabbages, carrots, chicory, cucumbers, garlic, onions, peas, the poppy, pumpkins, and radishes.

To the well to do Roman the dinner hour represented a time of ease and repose after a strenuous day. It was even more of a function than it is with us, because the Romans had no receptions, balls, musicals, or theater parties, no other opportunities to entertain their friends or to be entertained by them.

When the dinner guests had been ushered into the dining room the gods were invoked and then the guests (first removing their sandals) reclined upon the couches, three to a couch and nine persons to a table. There were no tablecloths in those days and no knives and forks. The food was eaten with a spoon or with the fingers. From time to time the servants passed bowls of water and towels in order that hygienic rules might prevail.

The dinner—like all Gaul itself—was divided into three parts—the appetizer, the dinner proper, and the dessert.

Greens, Fish on First Course.

Supposing, with Cæsar, we attend a dinner at Cicero's villa in Cumae, about the year 45 B. C. The chances are that we would have for our first course lettuce, onions, tunny fish, and eggs cut in slices. Another favorite appetizer was asparagus and eggs. For the second course we might be offered roast kid, head of wild boar, panned fish, sow's udder, young cabbage sprouts, haricot beans, starch pudding, and bread. Fruit, chestnuts, and wine probably would be the dessert.

The elaborate banquets of the vulgar rich were another matter. They often included such delicacies as a plate of fish livers, tongues of flamingoes, or a dainty dish of brains of pheasants and peacocks mixed together. A dinner of twenty-two courses was not unusual. On the bill of fare for one meal would appear sea urchins, raw oysters, sea mussels, thrush on asparagus, shell fish, sea nettles, figpeckers, loin of goat, loin of pork, fricaseed chicken, and perhaps two kinds of sea snails. Domestic ducks, wild ducks, hares, and roast chickens would be there, too, accompanied by the best of wines and "juices of the grape."

At affairs of this kind the guests often resorted to the use of emetics, so that they might overeat themselves and still not suffer the consequences of indigestion.

FISH AND POTATOES A POPULAR DIET IN NEW ENGLAND STATES

Residents in New England states have a greater per capita diet of fish, potatoes, and corned beef than persons in Chicago or any other section of the United States. This information comes from the New York state colleges of agriculture and home economics. Preferences in the New England states also include a liking for corn meal that's yellow and bacon that's fat.

CITY'S APPETITE FOR BANANAS IS BIG AND CRITICAL

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Chicago and its near suburbs have 4,000,000 highly critical appetites. The figures on the banana ripening and distributing business of this metropolis support this statement and show that the 4,000,000 made away last year with more than 425,000,000 bananas.

It's figured this way: There were 6,572 carloads of green bananas reported officially as having arrived in Chicago in 1930, mostly from Central America. Each carload consists of an average of about 720 bunches, each bunch has about eight or nine "hands," and each hand has about 10 "fingers," or bananas.

Red Banana Proves Case.

And now for that proof about the appetites being critical. Decades ago the red banana was in evidence in the fruit section of nearly every grocery store.

"They sold for a quarter apiece and my father once told me they were the first variety of bananas imported by the United States to any great degree," says Dominick Rocca, banana expert for one of the largest dealers on the South Water market.

"The yellow skinned banana has taken the place of the red banana," he continued. "For one thing, Chicagoans found, as probably others have all over this country, that the red banana might be attractive, but that it also was inclined to be slightly tough and pithy even after it was mellowed by ripening, whereas the yellow skinned banana will break right off wherever the teeth sink in. Some red bananas are still sold here, but mostly as a novelty."

Banana Leads Tough Life.

The banana leads no easy life after it arrives here. At least, that is so before the bunches start swinging around on the peg and string on which they usually are suspended in the grocery.

For one thing this ripening process is designed to make the green banana turn yellow inside of a week and usually within three to four days. Frank Arado, ripening expert for Cuneo Brothers, dealers on the South Water market, told why all ripening is done after the fruit reaches the wholesale market here.

"Bananas bruise easily after they are ripe, but not so easily when they are green," said Mr. Arado. "For this reason they are under refrigeration while they are on the boat trip of nearly 1,400 miles from Central America. From New York the special banana cars usually are iced all the way to Chicago.

Take Own Time Ripening.

"In the special air tight ripening rooms here in Chicago refrigeration is not used. Temperatures are carefully controlled and range from 65 to 75 degrees, depending on the speed at which ripening is desired. This process can not be speeded up much, however, because the banana must be given its own time in which to turn color and become mellow."

Wholesale dealers sell by weight or by bunch, as the retail stores desire, it appears. Bunches weigh from 30 to 60, 70, and even 80 pounds. All the year around they arrive here, as the climate permits the banana plantations in the tropics to plant at any time of the year and to expect a harvest 13 to 14 months later.

Indications are that prices are considerably lower than a year ago. The supplies are not said to be heavier. Price quotations by retail stores can not be considered as an index of what the bananas are worth or what average price prevails, one wholesale dealer explained, because some stores use this fruit as "a leader" or special low price commodity to draw trade.

SCIENCE RIPENS CHICAGO'S BANANAS

Silvo Poli, banana ripening expert for Cuneo Brothers' wholesale fruit house at 93-95 South Water market, already has an applicant for his job in this colored youth. Air tight rooms, holding a carload, or about 750 bunches each, ripen the bananas in three or four days or hold them green for as long as a week.

MAY DAY BRINGS DIVERSIONS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

"Wake me early, Mother dear, for I'm to be Queen of the May."

Today is May day. Every child in the neighborhood is busy making lovely crêpe paper baskets with fragile braided handles and little frilly ruffles around the top to send to her best beau or to his best girl.

Those who live in the country or in villages are gathering wild flowers to fill their baskets—cowslips, buttercups, wild phlox, and violets. We always found ours along the railroad tracks. City girls and boys [if city girls and boys send May baskets, I am not sure that they do] can fill theirs with gumdrops, licorice drops, jujube beans, all day suckers, lemon balls or candy corn.

The real sport, though, comes in the evening just after dark. Then each girl stealthily leaves her basket at her favorite's door, rings the bell, and runs away behind the bushes and trees where she cannot be seen and recognized. And every boy will leave a basket at a little girl's house and run away. How excited the girls are when they hear the knock on the door or the quick short ring of the bell and run to find the basket. If they are quick enough they might see the sender running around the corner of the house.

May day was first dedicated to the Goddess Maie—the goddess of fertility—many many years ago. It was orginally a pagan custom celebrating the return of spring. The Romans, too, as early as 238 B. C., because of a bad harvest instituted a similar custom of worship dedicated to their goddess Flora. The Roman festivities extended from April 28 to May 3 every year. This celebration was called Floralia or Floral Games.

Then again in England during the middle ages we find literary allusions to their May day celebrations. Very early on May day morning the girls and boys went to the woods "to fetch the flowers fresh." The expedition was called "going a-Maying."

They picked armfuls of flowers and flowering branches and returned to the village with them about sunrise with great spirit and accompaniments of horn and tabor. The windows and doors were hung with the branches and bushes were planted in the streets. A young suitor could so honor the residence of his lady love. In addition, the fairest maid of the village was crowned queen. She was throned under a floral arch and presided over the jubilation. This custom of selecting a May queen was also a relic of the Roman days.

WELFARE SOCIETY PREPARES DIETS FOR CHILDREN

Help Cut Down Death Rate Among the Poor.

BY VIRGINIA SCHMITZ.

To the physician who said of a Gold Coast child in precarious health, "she would have had a chance if she had been born on Halsted street," the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago is the reason.

Lacking the means to let fancy dictate their food habits, families that come under the influence of the society receive assistance not only in selecting their diet, but in learning how to prepare and cook it and how to train their children in good food habits.

And the result is that the death rate among the children cared for through these methods has dropped to .9 as compared with 5.3, according to Miss Jeanette Townsend, extension secretary of the organization. Anemia, malnutrition and rickets have also been decreased through the work.

21 Stations in City.

Special problem children whether the problem be of behavior, food, or learning abilities are given special care at the Junior League Welfare station, one of the 21 operated in the city. There they are kept in the "play school" all day long where they play, rest and are fed.

Babies and children up to 6 years of age are brought to the various stations where they are examined by the doctor in attendance and a diet prescribed through the nutritionist. Experts are also sent into the homes to show mothers how to make the foods recommended and to help them with their own peculiar problems. Cooking schools are held also at the various stations.

Supply Recipes.

Bulletins of advice, menus and recipes are also supplied through Miss Alberta Childs, nutrition supervisor for the Infant Welfare.

Points emphasized in establishing proper food habits serve regular meals at the same time each day—say breakfast at 8 o'clock; dinner at 12:30, and supper at 5:30; serve small portions, and serve them attractively; let the child feed himself—don't nag or tell him to hurry—give him half an hour to eat the meal and then remove the food and give him nothing until the next meal; do not worry about the child's appetite and never discuss it in his presence.

Three or four cups of milk a day are recommended to build strong teeth and bones; at least one vegetable besides potatoes; fresh or dried fruit, preferably orange or tomato is recommended daily.

Other Suggestions.

Other suggestions are: give cod liver oil three times daily in winter and at least once a day in summer so that the child will not lose his taste for it; even a little child can help shell peas, string beans, or douse spinach or lettuce in water and will gain an interest in his food this way; and make meal time a happy time.

BREAKFAST.
Tomato or orange.
Oatmeal. Milk.

DINNER.
Boiled cabbage. Milk.
Fruit gelatin.

SUPPER.
Poached egg on toast.
Stewed apricots. Milk.

Some of the recipes given to the mothers to help them prepare dishes at home follow:

MEAT AND VEGETABLE LOAF.
1 cup stewed tomatoes.
1½ cups mashed potatoes.
1½ cups peas or lima beans.
1 cup bread crumbs.
1 teaspoon salt.
Combine and bake in loaf.

LIVER SOUFFLE.
2 cups milk.
1½ cups liver—ground.
3 eggs.
6 tablespoons butter.
6 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
Make white sauce of flour, butter and milk. Add to beaten eggs. Add liver. Pour into baking dish and set dish in pan of water. Cook until knife inserted in center come out clean.

TOMATO SOUFFLE.
5 eggs.
6 tablespoons butter.
7 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
Separate tomato juice from pulp. Make sauce of juice, flour and butter. Add gradually to beaten eggs. Add tomato pulp. Pour in baking dish and set in pan of water. Bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

U. S. Pays $128,472,000 a Year to Flavor Foods

Americans have a highly developed sense of taste, according to the United States census of distribution report on sales of flavoring sirups and extracts. In 1929 the total sales amounted to $128,472,000, of which nearly two-thirds went to wholesalers. The remainder was divided up among the retailers, 13.8 per cent; industrial consumers, 9.9 per cent; 7.6 per cent to manufacturers' own wholesale branches, and 1.7 per cent or $2,183,000 worth to household consumers.

HEAT CANNED VEGETABLE IN ITS OWN LIQUID

Insures Against Loss of Vitamin Potency.

BY META GIVEN.

In the last few weeks it has been my privilege to lead discussions on vegetable cookery before groups of mothers. And in all these round tables a number of mothers told me that they would never, never think of serving canned vegetables to their children. They object to canned vegetables because they think they are inferior to the fresh. They have the idea that vegetables used for canning are left-overs and cannot be eaten in the fresh state. The color, texture, flavor, and the vitamin and mineral value of the canned product are also criticized—a reminder that the prejudice that was so deeply rooted in minds of people a score or more years ago has not yet been pulled up.

Now the truth of the matter is that vegetables used for canning are grown especially for canning. One of the first questions that arises in the mind of the cook is the relative vitamin and mineral values of the commercially canned vegetables and the home cooked ones.

Degree of Vitamin Potency.

Among research workers in nutrition it is generally conceded that the vitamin potency in canned vegetables is affected by [1] age when picked, [2] length of time lapsing from picking until cooking, [3] temperature and air conditions during this storage period, [4] method of cooking—with or without oxidation.

The first condition is a winning point for the commercially canned vegetables, because they are picked at their best. Compare the young beets and carrots, that may be purchased in cans, with the product that we find offered us from winter storage. The time between picking and canning is very short, while the offerings in our markets have often been picked three or four days before we purchase them. In winter storage vegetables some months elapse from picking until cooking.

Kept at Low Temperature.

The canning plants keep their vegetables at a uniform low temperature for the brief time until they are canned. Commercial canning is all done without oxidation. Home cooked vegetables is done in the presence of oxygen and this and not the temperature is the factor which affects vitamin potency.

The mineral matter of canned vegetables is lost when the liquid in which they are cooked is drained off. But when the canned vegetable is heated in its own liquid [and this is the proper method] there can be no more loss of minerals than in the home cooking process. And one needs only to compare the commercial canned vegetables with home cooked ones to arrive at a fair comparison of the color, flavor, texture, and price value. Every housewife can settle these questions in her own mind.

LUNCHEON SALAD.

Finely julienne cabbage. Fry calf's liver. Peel ripe tomato and combine equal quantities of these ingredients lightly with just enough thousand Island dressing to bind together. Place about three-fourths cup of this mixture on lettuce leaves for each serving. Place a rosette of watercress on two sides of the salad and two thick half slices of tomato on the other two sides. Garnish the top of salad with sliced egg yolks. At the table serve thousand island dressing to which has been added some grated fried liver and chopped chives. Liver should be cooked in one piece, first browned quickly in butter, then cooked slowly until done. In this way it is tender and juicy.

BAKED LAMB PATTIES.

1 lb. lamb patties	1 tbsp. flour
2 tbsp. onion	1-3 cup cold water
2 tbsp. parsley	Tiny piece of bay
1 tsp. salt	leaf

Place patties in baking pan or casserole, sprinkle with grated onion, chopped parsley, and salt. There should be five patties. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] for 45 minutes. Remove to serving platter. Cook flour in juice and fat remaining in baking pan; add water and bay leaf and cook gently 15 minutes. Pour over patties and serve.

Yield: Five servings.

WHOLESALE PRICE OF DRESSED BEEF CUT 27 PER CENT

Wholesale prices of dressed beef dropped during April to levels that are from 27 to 32 per cent lower than a year ago, according to the monthly review issued yesterday by the Institute of American Meat Packers.

Almost all meats are now substantially lower than a year ago. Veal is 27 per cent lower at wholesale; fresh pork loins from 10 to 15 per cent lower, depending upon the weight; smoked hams from 14 to 20 per cent lower; smoked picnics, 30 per cent lower.

The domestic trade in pork products was fair during the month. Prices of fresh pork showed a gradual decline until the final week of the month.

Consumer demand for dressed beef was fair and showed a seasonable preference for hindquarters.

Receipts of sheep and lambs continued heavy throughout the month and were heavier than for the same month of 1930 and considerably heavier than in March, 1931.

Demand for hides was very quiet during the month and prices moved lower. There is a little better demand for leather than in March.

Veal and Smoked Meats Good Buys for Week-End

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Chicago meat council states: "Veal and smoked meats, such as ham, represent the most economical meat buys for the Chicago housewife over the coming week-end. Shoulder roast of veal, boned and stuffed, makes an excellent feature dish for Sunday dinner and can be purchased and prepared at low cost."

Green Onions Exceedingly Cheap on Wholesale Mart

Green onions are being sold exceedingly cheap in the Chicago market, according to wholesale market reports which indicate homegrown green onions are being bargained for at from five to ten cents per dozen bunches.

IT'S 'BEAUTIFUL' PEA SOUP IF YOU CALL IT 'POTAGE'

Rescued from Oblivion by French Chef.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

"Beautiful soup so rich and green," was Lewis Carroll's phrase for it, which for one of a nation which is accustomed to apostrophize its foggiest weather as "Thick as pea soup!" was doing fairly well. He it was also who was responsible for that still more eloquent "soup of the evening, beautiful soup!"

But Carroll being Carroll, and pea soup pea soup, can it be that these tributes conceal one more British slur on this old stalwart of the soup family? Call pea soup nourishing, substantial, appetizing, fragrant, if need be, but in deference to its long years of usefulness if not toothless virtues, spare it the mockery of "beautiful."

For sheer extravagance of conception, outdistancing of reality, beautiful pea soup must needs take its place with the jabberwocky and the phoenix among creations of fantasy. Far from being beautiful, pea soup is plain, plain in aspect, plain fare. On the creamy pale green expanse of a bowl of pea soup even the decorative crouton seems irrevelant. True devotees of the dish glory in its plainness, however, since without fuss or flourish it can be relied on to introduce a meal as wholesome, as satisfying as itself.

Different in France.

So much for pea soup of the Anglo-Saxons. In France, where homely things are invested with a beauty all their own, pea soup has had a different destiny. Behold it ensconced among the masterpieces of the French cuisine, linked traditionally with one of the most brilliant coups ever executed by a Parisian chef, a tradition dating from the reign of Louis XIV., the Sun King!

Known no longer merely as pea soup but as potage St. Germain, its history is recounted in cafés, over dinner tables, in the very amphitheaters of the Sorbonne. But the temple in which its cult centers is the rose and gray pavilion of the 17th century at St. Germain, where pea soup is served to gourmets as they gaze out over the wide valleys of the Seine toward the distant lights of Paris.

King Nearly Pulls a Boner.

Here it was that the great Louis himself sat down one day to a repast prepared by the culinary genius, Vatel. Following close upon the hors d'oeuvres came a dish of pea soup, steaming, piping hot. Louis cast one glance at the soup, took in that everlasting plainness, and roared, "Take it away!"

Back it went to Vatel. Now Vatel, like all geniuses and all cooks, boasted a certain temperament, king or no king. In a few moments he appeared in person at Louis' side bearing the offending dish and set it with a defiant flourish before the king. Astounded, Louis looked again at the soup; it seemed to be the same soup, or perhaps those tiny specks floating on it were something new.

Under Vatel's compelling gaze the grand monarch raised his spoon. The tiny specks intrigued his palate as they had his eye. He took another mouthful and still another, to discover what they might be. In a few moments the despised dish was consumed. Then, still in wonderment, he turned to Vatel.

And So It Became Famous.

"It is the same soup; only a few bits of dried peas have been added, sire," the great artist offered proudly. Whereupon Louis, father of the arts, fathered yet another.

"Let this dish be called soup St. Germain, after my castle here," he replied majestically. And so, in accordance with Louis' edict it was called and still is. And dried pea to this day is the magic ingredient which transforms plain pea soup into a dish fit for a king.

If ever there is a season for pea soup it is in springtime when fresh peas are flooding the market. For a light spring luncheon there is no finer piece de resistance than a dish of green pea soup. It is a stimulating introduction to a hearty dinner after a brisk walk or the first tennis game of the year.

Try It This Way.

Here is a recipe:

GREEN PEA SOUP.

2 pounds green peas	2 tablespoonfuls butter.
4 cups of milk.
1½ tablespoonfuls of flour.	1 small onion.

Shell the peas, place the pods in a kettle, and cover with water. Add salt and pepper and let simmer for 15 minutes. Strain off the water in which the pods have cooked. Add to it the peas, onion, and sugar. Cook for 15 minutes. Press through a fine colander into a double boiler and add milk. Mix the flour and butter together and add the soup, slowly stirring all the time. When this reaches the consistency of cream, return to the double boiler and cook for ten minutes. Serve at once with a little whipped cream.

When fresh peas are not available canned peas are a delicious substitute. Open the can two hours before serving, add the same quantity of milk that there is soup, one-quarter teaspoonful of sugar and a pinch of onion salt. Place in a pan and bring to boil, letting simmer for 10 minutes. Serve at once.

ILLINOIS HAS BIG CROP OF PEACHES, APPLES THIS YEAR

If southern Illinois blossom time is an indication, Chicago may expect heavy supplies of home state apples and peaches this year, according to R. S. Marsh, horticultural extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

The biggest combined crops of the two fruits in five years is in prospect, a survey indicates.

In 1929 there was a record peach crop, but apples were off. In 1930 there was a fair crop of apples, but a freeze out of peaches.

STRAWBERRY, 1ST IN BERRY WORLD, WITH US AGAIN

Decorative, Luscious Fruit Popular Sovereign.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

If you are impressed by a genealogy that boasts a grand duchess, a duke, or a baronet or two, you may be pleased to learn—if you are not already enlightened on the subject—that the strawberry, again with us, despite its far from artistocratic appellation, has just claim to royal connections. The kinship which embraces it includes no other than the rose, queen of flowers.

And as its cousin dominates the realm of blossoms, so does the strawberry lord it over the berry kingdom from the first warm days of spring into the mellow months of autumn. Its dominion extends throughout the temperate zones, and it has even done some prince of Walesing in subtropical regions. But ever since Charles Mason Hovey of Boston introduced the improved "Hovey" in 1834, the republic of these United States has been its stronghold.

Holds Long Record.

Decorative, luscious, fragrant, refreshing, this fruit of imperial extraction holds a long record of popular acclaim. Dr. Boetler gave expression to something of a universal sentiment when he said, "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did."

One of the cherished possessions of the Old Cheshire Cheese inn on Fleet street in London—far famed as a steak and chop house and for its beefsteak puddings on Saturday—is the chair in which Dr. Samuel Johnson passed many a pleasant hour of satisfying indulgence with his favorite dish of strawberries and clotted cream.

Even before the day of domestic development, when it ran riot through primitive woodlands, we find a word that suggests the strawberry's popularity. Wrote another Englishman, Thomas Hyll, in 1593, "Strawberries be much eaten at all men's tables in the summer with wine and sugar, and they will grow in gardens until the bigness of mulberry." The expansion of the strawberry industry, with improved varieties ever increasing and multiplying, has been rapid. Today Sir Joshua Reynolds' little "Strawberry Girl" might pluck from among the dewy trifoliate leaves of the berry patch three or four specimens that would fill her cereal bowl.

Louisiana Leads Field.

Production figures indicate Louisiana, from where Chicago is now getting a large proportion of its berry crop, has a leadership nationally in the production of this fruit. Other states important in the shipping of strawberries to market and to the canning factory are California, Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri. During the "home grown" season, Illinois, Michigan and Indiana contribute heavily to the satisfying of the shortcake appetite of metropolitan areas.

An interesting southern institution is the "movable feast" of Strawberry day, set aside by extensive growers, when proceeds from the first day's picking are distributed among the sick and the poor.

But north or south of the Mason-Dixon line, no repast but will be the more attractive and delightful with some variation on the strawberry theme. Breakfast—whole berries still bearing their hulls arranged wreath-like around a pyramid of powdered sugar, or a mountain island of crimson fruit hearts rising from a little sea of cream. Luncheon—slices of strawberry ice served with dainty wafers; fresh strawberry ice cream; or strawberry shortcake under a white cloud of whipped cream. Dinner—a piquant strawberry and grapefruit cocktail; a frothy coral colored mousse; whole berries caught in a rosy gelatin mold; or a sherbet smooth and cool.

Royal Fruit of Spring.

But why modify with embellishment a flavor that is perfection? Simply sprinkle the red berries in your bowl lightly with sugar and a few drops of ice water. This is the suggestion of the kindly white haired gentleman whose opinion on food preparation and on a number of other subjects even skeptical scribes seek respectfully; the sidewalk and steps that lead to his door have been worn smooth by the feet of newspaper folk in their endless coming and going. We, too, confess to a conviction that the first royal fruit of the springtime is sufficient unto itself.

HONORED

CHARLES E. WILCOX.

Sprague, Warner & Co., wholesale grocers, recently paid homage to Charles Edward Wilcox, head of the canned goods department. The occasion was the celebration of his 50th birthday.

Mr. Wilcox was born in Elgin, Ill., on April 23, 1851, and has been identified with the organization since 1884. In addition to his position as head of the canned goods department, he also is vice president of Sprague, Warner & Co.

TOMATO PRICE INCREASES WITH BETTER QUALITY

Price quotations and supply do not always fluctuate diversely in the Chicago retail fresh fruit and vegetable market. Current reports on tomatoes, for instance, reveal that although larger shipments are arriving here the quality is improving and the price is advancing with the quality. Market experts indicate, however, that as truck farming areas nearer to Chicago begin marketing their crops the price of tomatoes will decline. At present carlot shipments are from the east coast of Florida, from Texas, Mexico, and Cuba.

Potatoless Diets Should Include Spinach, Chard

Daily diets without potatoes should include either spinach or chard, according to the recommendation of the New York state college of agriculture and home economics. The reason is the necessity for iron, specialists report.

THE GRAPEFRUIT IS TRACED BACK TO SEA CAPTAIN

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Since the days when our fathers were boys and our mothers wore stays and leg o' mutton sleeves, the grapefruit has held a place apart in our breakfast, luncheon, and late supper menus. In fact, were a vote for a national fruit cast today, the big cousin of the lemon and the orange would be a strong contender for highest honors.

Now when spring fever is a common malady there is no better tonic than the juice of the grapefruit, recognized as an excellent aid to digestion and a cureall for that sluggish feeling. The splendid quality of the fruit and the unusually low price this year are a boon also to weak purse-strings.

While average grapefruit may be purchased as low as five cents each, the best quality is retailing as low as eight and ten cents, W. H. Hall, director of fruit and vegetable shipments in the Chicago office of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture, reported yesterday. Production in Florida and Texas has been heavier this season than in years past and even larger shipments are expected from these states the coming year, Mr. Hall explained.

To many an inquiring young modern the name of the fruit is a puzzle, for it is not related to nor does it look or taste like the grape. To see it growing in Florida or Texas, however, is to solve the problem, for, unlike other citrus fruits, the grapefruit globes appear in clusters of from six to twelve and bend down the branches like bunches of huge yellow grapes. As the result of scientific investigation the last few years, the island of Barbados in the West Indies is generally accepted as the place of origin of the American grapefruit.

Story of Its Origin.

It was in 1696, the story goes, that a certain Capt. Shaddock made port in Barbados after wandering in the orient. Among other things he had collected the seeds of various plants and some of these he gave to the people of the island to plant. From some of these seeds came the original grapefruit trees, and from them in turn have been propagated all the grapefruit trees of the western world. Botanists, when they have sought to find other specimens in the east, have failed. If the plant still exists in the orient it has evaded the search of moderns, or it may have become extinct.

Through the years its quality was gradually improved in the West Indies until it came to be a dooryard fruit on many a plantation. Not until the end of the last century, however, did it cross over and gain a similar position in Florida, where, under the eye of scientific growers, superior varieties were selected and raised.

Graft on Orange Trees.

Even as late as 1885 grapefruit was described as "more showy than useful," although it was incidentally noted that "the juice is rather refreshing." In 1894, however, when Florida suffered a cold winter that killed its orange trees to the ground, leaving only the stumps, fruit growers grafted grapefruit on these same stumps and produced the first real crop to take care of an increasing demand.

Today grapefruit is grown in four states of the Union, Florida, California, Texas, and Arizona, to meet the domestic per capita consumption of approximately five fruits a year as well as the foreign demand, for the American example is beginning to be followed abroad, especially in England. As yet European consumption has to wait on American production for the most part, for the great old world centers of citrus culture on the western Mediterranean have not been converted to grapefruit planting.

About the Fruit's Acid.

Frequently a member of a family is heard to lament that he cannot eat grapefruit or lemons because of their acidity. The curious fact and one difficult for a person unfamiliar with food chemistry to believe, is that, despite the fact that these fruits are acid outside the body, they have an alkiline reaction in the bloodstream which offsets acidity caused by such foods as meat, fish, eggs, bread, and cereals.

When it comes to the marketing of grapefruit it is well to remember that size more than quality determines prices in citrus fruits. For economy choose the smaller sized fruits, heavy for their size and thin skinned, for they will be found more juicy and richly flavored. Standards for quality differ with the source. Frequently a fruit with slight color or form imperfections is priced a little lower than the so called perfect grade and the value of the fruit is not at all impaired.

Perhaps grapefruit is no more delicious in any form than merely cut in half and served as a breakfast fruit or as an appetizer for luncheon or dinner. But remember that the cutting should be done just as soon before serving as possible, for the bitter taste that makes the fruit unpalatable if allowed to stand for any length of time is in the "rag," or membrane, that makes up the central column and the lining and partitions between the sections of the fruit. The more this is cut the more the bitterness is released into the juice.

Grapefruit should be chilled first, then cut in two with a sharp knife, the seeds removed, and with another knife especially curved for this operation the pulp in each section cut free from the membrane. Handling in this way will in most cases obviate the necessity of using sugar and thus enable one to enjoy the real grapefruit flavor.

For use in salads where the pulp is to be used with other fruits every particle of the thick white skin should be removed, then the fruit separated into sections, and the membrane and seeds taken from each piece.

How Smart Shops Make Glassware Sparkle

BY MARY LEE WORK

A New Easy Way to Wash Dishes And Do 2 Other Hard Jobs In Half the Time

Ever wonder how the smart shops get glassware and fine china to sparkle like jewels on display?

It's really very simple. You can wash your own dishes the same way—get the same results—and actually save half the time you now spend. Here's how they do it.

They use a product called Climalene. Your grocer either has it or can obtain it for you.

Ends Grease Scum

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water; plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time ⅓ or more—saves ⅓ or more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded, Gray Washings

Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and ¼ the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade, and soap eat are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.

Banish Bathtub Ring

Add a tablespoonful of Climalene to your bath water. It makes the water soft as summer rain. A quick, rich lather is made with soap. After the bath—just rinse the tub. That is all. There just isn't any "high-water" mark. No scrubbing—no rubbing.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the harshness out of lake water, medium hard water, and hard water. Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with ¼ the soap you now use. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time ⅓ or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

CHICAGOLAND UNITES FOR SPORTS CONGRESS

WHITE SOX DEFEAT BROWNS, 10 TO 9, IN 11 INNINGS

BILL CISSELL'S SINGLE SCORES WINNING RUN

Teams Err 7 Times in 2d Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There's no stopping that fellow Bill Cissell. He broke out again yesterday when everybody was anxious about getting away to dinner and supper a bit that permitted the White Sox to win a free for all, eleven inning game from the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 9. Bill employed a single, his first of the afternoon, to secure the White Riders' third consecutive triumph.

A moment before Cissell released the creature from their long vigil, the Browns had what seemed to be the winning run taken away from them at the plate. Blue opened the eleventh with a single off Chad Kimsey, who had started to pitch for the Browns in the fourth. Eichrodt sacrificed and Reynolds was passed purposely. Fothergill singled into right and Blue tried to get home, but was nipped at the plate. Then Cissell banged his hit in the same direction and there was no way to cut down Reynolds, who had gone to third on Fothergill's tap.

Four Sox Errors in Second.

Along with their victory the Sox supplied some strange fielding which, with a few more mishaps, might have put them into the book of freak records. In the second inning they put on an act involving four errors, three by Appling. The blunders naturally invited the removal of Garland Braxton, the starting pitcher. After seeing the Sox stage their tumbling act, the 5,000 customers were willing to see the show proceed in orthodox fashion, but they didn't have their way. The Browns fooled them by picking up with three boots in the same half of the same inning. These errors helped to keep the Sox on the heels of the visitors, but they didn't actually catch up until they scored two runs in the seventh.

The removal of Braxton brought on Hal McKain in another able relieving stunt. Taking charge with one out in the third when Braxton appeared to be totally helpless, McKain pitched along to the finish, a total of six and two thirds innings, on an allowance of four hits. In this relief he was just a bit better than Kimsey, who performed a similar relief job for Walter [Lefty] Stewart. Kimsey packed up his tools in a rather hectic fourth and thereafter the Browns produced only six hits. But all of the six were bunched in two innings.

Score 3-3 in First.

Goslin was the moving factor in the run scored picked up by the Brownies in the first inning. With one out Goslin singled to right and scored on Sisler's triple in the same direction. Then Goose waddled home on Kress' fly to left. An error enabled the Sox to get a pair in their first attack, the same evening it up. Blue singled and Eichrodt survived when Kress muffed Grammar school popup. The two runs scored on Cissell's single to center.

The comic endeavor from which the Browns derived three runs in the second inning started with Appling's error on Ferrell. Stewart fanned and Appling committed another blunder, this one on Levey. Kamm contributed to the merriment by fumbling Melillo's roller, filling the bases. Kamm hurt a knee on the play and retired a bit later. Levey was grounded to Blue, whose throw to Appling forced Melillo at second. Appling returned the throw for what should have been a double play, but Ferrell, who should have covered the bag, was taking a siesta elsewhere, and Appling's throw got away and both Reynolds and Levey scored. Then Kress

RAIN KEEPS CUBS IDLE; BOB SMITH TO PITCH TODAY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 30.—The epidemic of rest that has been afflicting the enterprise of the Cubs these last 10 days has spread to St. Louis. The Cubs are reclining again this afternoon, today's contest having been postponed because of a light sprinkle which fell about 1:30 o'clock.

It was feared that this dampness would frighten St. Louis fandom, which is a reticent group at best, and though the contest could have been staged, it was thought better to set it over as a part of a double header on Sunday, July 12.

Six Out of 10 Postponed.

Today's postponement was the sixth in ten scheduled contests and the prediction is for showers tomorrow. The Cubs now have had one or more layoffs in every city on the western wheel of the National league, including their home port.

The layoffs are not of any advantage to the Cubs, for Manager Hornsby has a large herd of able bodied pitchers who are fretting for work. The Pirates, who just finished an uninterrupted series of four games here, kept the Cardinal pitchers active in splitting the series, which was good for the Cardinals, but not of sufficient import to alarm the Cubs.

Take Light Workout.

In the two day layoff in Pittsburgh and also in the two day interruption in Cincinnati, the Cubs were prevented from getting in their uniforms. But today they were out for the usual pre-game practice and continued their workout until 2 o'clock, except during the few minutes it sprinkled.

The pitching assignments for tomorrow are expected to be drawn by Bob Smith of the Cubs and Sylvester Johnson of the Cardinals. Mr. Smith was defeated, 3 to 2, by Burleigh Grimes in the Cardinal series in Chicago.

100 Meter Dash Record Lowered by Argentine

BUENOS AIRES, April 30.—(AP)—The world's record for the 100 meter dash was beaten once and tied twice today as the seventh South American athletic championships began with Argentina and Chile dividing the day's honors. Bianchulitti, Argentine sprinter, was timed in :10.7 in winning his heat of the 100 meters. The time is a tenth of a second better than the world's record, held jointly by Charlie Paddock and Eddie Tolan of the United States. The winners of the other two heats were clocked in the record equalling time of 10.8.

Fast Field to Face Barrier in Aurora Inaugural Today

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicagoans will go to the races today for the first time in six months. For since that bleak afternoon of Oct. 31, 1930, at Hawthorne the thoroughbreds have been in other parts of the country. They are back today to perform for a crowd which may be a record breaker for the Aurora Jockey club's course where the curtain goes up on the 1931 Illinois season at 2:15 o'clock.

An attractive program which finds more good horses going into action than probably ever raced at Aurora in one afternoon, will mark the beginning of the new season. So many fleet sprinters will parade to the post in the Inaugural handicap that it seems fairly certain a new track record will be hung up when the dash over the 5½ furlongs is completed.

Princeton Gets Support.

Last night the Stuyvesant Peabody entry of T. S. Jordan and Tombereau ruled as the favorite. However, there was considerable backing for R. Pollard's Princeton, a recent arrival from Maryland, and for Gold Step, which has invaded Aurora after two victories at the Lexington spring meeting. Scone, Gracious Gift, Jack Howe, and Old Kickapoo had the long shot players puzzled. For the folks who shoot at the tall odds were endeavoring to pick an outsider which would have a chance of showing his heels to the favorite.

When Starter Morrissey gives the word and springs the barrier on the Bahr gate which will send a dozen selling plater sprinters into motion in the six furlong dash which opens the program it will mark the beginning of six months of racing in or near Chicago.

Meet Continues 20 Days.

The Aurora season continues for twenty days; then comes Washington Park's meeting in June, Arlington's big season in July, Hawthorne's summer meeting in August, the Lincoln Fields autumn season in September, and the late fall meeting at Hawthorne follow. From the first sound of the bugle this afternoon until taps are heard at Hawthorne on the last day of next October the best racing offered Chicago in many years is promised by the turf associations.

The Chicago crowds will travel to the Aurora track today on special race trains over the Burlington lines and Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin electric tracks. Many hundreds of others will go by motor. General Manager E. F. Carruthers made plans last night to handle an opening day crowd of upwards of 15,000.

It may go beyond that mark, for it is ladies' day with all the women race goers eligible to pass through the gates without giving the men at the turnstiles even a glance out of the corner of their eyes.

Odds in Future Books Give Line on Derby Field

About this time every year, when the eleventh hour odds are posted by future book operators, it is possible to get a fairly good line on the starting field in the Kentucky Derby.

And from these latest quotations one would come to the conclusion that the Derby field will look something like the following:

Equipoise.	Twenty Grand.
Mate.	Insco.
Surf Board.	Sweep All.
Sun Meadow.	Sir Ashley.
Barometer.	Ladder.
Pittsburgher.	Siskin.
Anchor's Aweigh.	B'ar Hunter.
Don Leon.	Spanish Play.
Up.	Boys Howdy.
High Day.	Ormesby.
Prince D'Amour.	Dark Hero.
Phantom Star.	Polydorous.

Thus there are 24 possible starters, three or four or five in the above. The field may be that large, for of the group which may fall by the wayside there will be that many outsiders to step up and take their places.

In the latest quotations Equipoise and Twenty Grand are at 4 to 1, Mate at 7 to 1, Insco at 10 to 1, and Surf Board at 12 to 1. You can get 20 to 1 or better on all the others.

The biggest Derby wager made around Chicago was reported yesterday, when $500 to win, $500 to place, and $500 to show was bet by a Chicago plunger on Spanish Play at odds of 40 to 1, 20 to 1, and 10 to 1.

Old Kickapoo, in the stable of O. L. Foster, is the most deceitful thoroughbred in America, according to Foster.

The old deceiver, now in his seventh year, is scheduled to go in the Aurora Inaugural handicap today. And he's just as likely to win it as he is to run last in a $1,500 claiming race two days later, Foster told a group of his friends yesterday after Old Kick had stepped through a fast training drill.

"This old rascal has beaten more good horses in his time than most any sprinter you can name," Foster said. "And he's been beaten by more bad horses than any other horse in the country. A fortune teller might be able to tell how Kick will run, but surely not the men who train him for his racing engagements."

Lady Broadcast will make a final bid this season to establish herself at the top of the handicap division, then will be retired from racing. She is going to make her fight for the handicap title in the series of valuable stake events that are to be run in Chicago.

JOHNSON'S FAST BALL FOOLS A'S; YANKS WIN, 7-2

Philadelphia, Pa., April 30.—(AP)—Returning to action after four days of idleness, the Athletics ran into Henry Johnson's fast ball at its best today and dropped the series opener to the Yankees, 7 to 2.

Johnson allowed only six hits and struck out seven. In the eighth inning he retired Foxx, Miller and Dykes in order without permitting a run after the Athletics had filled the bases. Foxx fanned three times.

The Yanks knocked Rube Walberg from the box in the sixth, when they scored three runs.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POTPOURRI.

COLLEGE baseball, for some reason, is attracting more interest among undergraduates than for several years. Possibly the fact that Wisconsin produced a title team in 1930 for the first time in Cardinal history, and that other nines accustomed to low percentage standings moved up in the runnings had something to do with the matter.

For many years, Illinois and Michigan, both well coached, had rather a monopoly of victories and likewise interest. Occasionally some other college would break forth with a winning aggregation, but Illini and Wolverines were the more consistent performers.

By attempts to round out intercollegiate competition in other sports than football, college baseball has gained. Interest will continue to develop if the monopoly of victories ends. Such interest will be of the campus rather than of the public, for the public is wedded to professional baseball which is naturally a more finished product.

Fifty public fee and 25 public or community courses in the Chicago district indicate that as much or more golf will be played in 1931 as in 1930, despite the depression. Such courses as have formally opened find players ready to pay greens fees at the public fee links or the nominal charges of the public or community links.

This competition will be felt by the less securely established membership clubs, many of which are having difficulty in keeping their membership roster filled. Golf, as conducted at many private clubs, had become too expensive, both in dues and in service charges for many persons desiring to play golf. Chicago is overplatted with private clubs. Return of better times, however, would take up the slack in a few years.

The Miser.

Let me gather all the dreams
Kisses and soft laughter,
All the moons and stars and gleams
In my arms . . . so after
I am old, alone and bent,
Withered from Life's sorrow,
Youth and years are gone or spent . . .
Gone . . . but there's tomorrow.
To be mine, with my dream gold!
Flashing bright my treasure!
Banished Time and banished cold
For this luring pleasure.
In my house of Yesterday,
What care I for sorrow.
My old dreams will sing the way.
Past that dull tomorrow.

THOUSANDS JOIN IN MASS DRILL DEMONSTRATION

Hundreds Compete in Tug of War.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicageland's First Sports Congress will be presented Sunday afternoon, June 21, at Soldiers' field under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Thousands of men and women, boys and girls will participate.

These champions of massed athletics, games and drills in which hundreds compete, will join in a monster three hour demonstration.

Chicageland's Sport Congress will be presented by the Jugo-Slavs, Czecho-Slovaks, Polish Falcons of America, and the Illinois Turnbezirk. More than 30 units of these organizations will participate. Additional hundreds will represent Chicago's playgrounds.

4,000 in Final Drill.

All Chicagoland is invited to attend. From Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Hammond, Gary, Chicago Heights, and other Chicagoland cities hundreds will join with their metropolitan friends in these gigantic exhibitions.

These organizations, the Germans, Poles, Czechs, or Bohemians, each year hold gymnastic exhibitions. But for June 21 all have joined together. The vast amphitheater of Soldiers' field scarcely will suffice for the thousands participating.

Four thousand, a conservative estimate, will stage the grand finale, a forest of waving arms and bending bodies. This one exercise, written by representatives of all groups, now is being prepared by the unit memberships. Without rehearsal all will swing into the program to the marching tune played by a massed band.

This alone will be a spectacle Chicago never has seen. Four thousand men, women, and children following the musical cadence with a score of subordinate leaders under the direction of one drill master, majordomo of the pageant.

Mammoth Parade Opens Show.

The massed drill is but the conclusion to a program without parallel.

A mammoth parade of all contestants will inaugurate the Sports congress. Promptly at 2 o'clock, long columns of athletes, men and women, will swing down the green slopes of Soldiers' field. For an hour they will have assembled in the streets adjacent to the Field museum.

To the thumping rhythm of drum corps and blare of brass bands, the thousand uniformed contestants will march south until all have taken position. Then the voices of these thousands will ring out to the inspiring strains of America's national anthem. To that chorus will be added the volume of sound pouring forth from the multitudes in the concrete stands.

You have read of the conclusion and the beginning. In between the champions of massed athletics have prepared entertainment which has no precedent.

Hundreds in Tug of War.

There will be a tug of war. No puny test of strength for a few or a score. Hundreds will pull against other hundreds. No other tug of war ever was like unto this. The event requires special equipment, lest such united energy snap the strongest rope.

Hundreds will compete in a relay race of four teams. As these men dash back and forth across the gridiron, volley ball and push ball games will be played at the ends of the arena.

Each presentation is designed as a picture of massed activity. At no time will the skill of individuals or small groups be emphasized.

Gym Champions on Program.

Even the international gymnastic

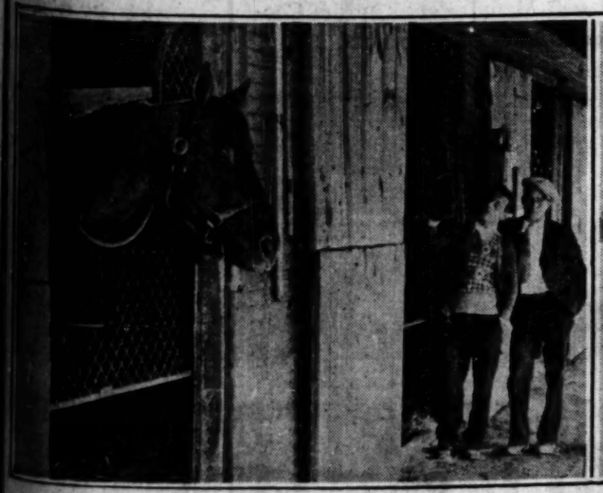
WHAT'LL YOU HAVE—RACING, BOATS, BASEBALL OR CRACKERS?



Weather clear, track fast. That's what Martie Flynn and T. S. Jordan, thoroughbreds in the S. Peabody stable, are hoping for when the Aurora meeting starts today.

Safe! Willie Kamm, Sox third baseman, slides into third after Braxton's bunt in the second inning of yesterday's game with the Browns. Storti dropped the ball.

CHICAGOANS LOSE IN SEMI-FINALS OF A. A. U. BOXING

Foul Costs Don Gonzales Feather Title.

New York, April 30.—(AP)—The semi-final round of the National A. A. U. boxing tournament was too big a hurdle for four Chicago boys tonight in Madison Square Garden. Nick Scialaba, bantamweight; Haywood Storey, middleweight; David Day, featherweight, and Tony Sutton, light heavyweight, all lost three round decisions.

Don Gonzales of Cleveland, who represented Chicago in the intercity Golden Gloves matches with New York, reached the finals in the 126 pound class, but was deprived of a championship when he fouled Tony Scarpati of New York in the second round. Gonzales had a decided edge in the first round over the boxer he had knocked out in his intercity bout at the Chicago Stadium.

Lands Three Low Punches.

Referee Lavalle, a neutral official from Honolulu, stopped the fight after one minute and 45 seconds of the second round when Gonzales failed to keep his southpaw punches above the waistline. Scarpati, who was behind on points, refused to go down from the punches and the referee stopped it after three successive low left hooks.

Storey was outpunched by Frank Fullam of New York, who later won the middleweight title; Sutton lost to Antone Poloni of Reno, Nev., the eventual 175 pound champion; Scialaba was beaten by Joe Ferrante of Boston, who came back to take the bantamweight crown, and Day was whipped by Scarpati.

Cleveland Boy Wins.

Babe Triscaro, chunky Italian flyweight from Cleveland, pummeled out a decision over Eddy Ceresole of Oakland, Cal., to win the 112-pound championship.

Ferrante defeated Mike Belloise of New York in the final for the 118-pound championship in a free hitting battle that kept the crowd of 10,000 in an uproar.

Al Gomez, a righthand puncher from San Francisco, grabbed off a championship for California by winning the decision over Steve Salek of Lowell, Mass., in the 135 pound final. Salek, a southpaw and one of the best looking boys in the tournament, traded smashes with Gomez through the three torrid rounds and just barely finished second best.

Brothers Win and Lose.

The first of the New Orleans Flynn boys, Eddie, the 147 pounder, gave a dazzling exhibition in winning the welterweight championship by a decision from Joe Lyons from Lancaster, N. Y. Flynn outboxed Lyons so completely his hair was hardly mussed and Lyons was bleeding from the nose and mouth.

Dennis Flynn could not equal the feat of his younger brother and lost the decision and the middleweight championship to Fullam.

Poloni scored the first knockout of the finals when he blasted over Joe Meiham of Kansas City, Mo., to win the light heavyweight crown. Poloni, who has the black features and the build of a young Dempsey, had things all his own way and did not open up until the third round. When he did, he smashed a short volley of rights to Meiham's chin and the westerner went down on his face for the full count. The third round lasted only 55 seconds.

Jack Pallat gave Cleveland its second champion, and successfully defended his heavyweight title by scoring a technical knockout over Earl Sather of Mineapolis half way through the first round. Pallat softened up the weary westerner with rights to the head and was about to finish him when the referee intervened.

Groups Unite for Mammoth Sports Drills

champions, several of whom already have signified intention of participating, will for the main perform with the mass. The exception will be a brief interval when these men and women, group champions, titleholders in Amateur Athletic union and Amateur Athletic federation meets, exhibit their prowess.

Hundreds of fencers, with broad sword and saber, will take the field. For an interval the clash of metal will ring as in those days when man's best weapon was his blade. Sunlight reflected from the darting lines of steel will form another picture, made possible only by many participants.

Thus Chicagoland will inaugurate its first Sports congress. And it will be a master effort for beauty in exercise.

Loyola university's golf team, composed of Julian D'Esposito, Donald Cavanaugh, Emmett Morrissey, and Tony Maulillo, will meet Notre Dame this afternoon at the Biltmore Country club.

Big Oaks will be the scene of the Kiwanis Golf league's opeging tournaments, scheduled for May 12. Newly elected officers of the league are: Ira Bollinger, president; Art Hibbard, vice president; Ray Doleman, secretary, and Herbert Perry, treasurer.

Hickory Hills, a semi-public course situated in rolling, wooded country near Palos Park, has acquired an additional five acres along its eastern boundary line. This has enabled the club to lay out a new No. 14 fairway of 457 yards, par 5, and a new green, measuring 9,000 square feet. The old No. 14 green has become No. 1, increasing the length of that fairway from 420 to 543 yards.

State Probes Fire in Which 2 Horses Died

An investigation into the fire which destroyed the race horses Ben Marshall and Roy Squires in a private barn not far from the Washington Park race track on the night of April 24 has been started by the Illinois state fire marshal.

Al Johnson, a deputy in the state fire marshal's office, is in charge of the investigation, assisted by Dr. J. M. Kaiser, assistant state veterinarian.

Reports that the horses had been poisoned before the fire broke out were being investigated and an autopsy was performed by Dr. Kaiser, who sent specimens to the state laboratory for analysis.

The horses, owned by D. L. Keifer of New Orleans, were each insured for $5,000. The insurance company requested the investigation. Owner Keifer was in Washington, D. C., at the time of the fire and has not returned from the east, where other horses in his racing establishment are racing in Maryland.

Keifer had trouble with the turf officials at New Orleans during the winter. His license was revoked at the Fair Grounds track, but later in the New Orleans season he was restored to good standing.

Lenny-Grogan Fight Added to Stadium's Card

Ralph Lenny of Jersey City was matched yesterday to meet Tommy Grogan of Omaha in one of the eight round supporting bouts to the Jack Thompson-Bucky Lawless fight at the Stadium next Friday.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis at the same time announced the signing of Abad of New York to meet Danny Delmont, Chicago lightweight.

Lenny's two appearances here have established him as one of the most promising lightweights in the country. In Grogan he meets an old campaigner who will force him to give away weight. Grogan is the most formidable opponent Lenny has been pitted against.

Grogan has fought the best of the lightweights over a span of six years and always has managed to remain among the first half dozen in rating. In four successive fights last year he met Sammy Mandell, Tony Canzoneri, Bruce Flowers, and Billy Wallace. Among Grogan's victims is Billy Petrolle, whom he stopped in seven rounds.

Lenny's accomplishments are not as extensive as Grogan's, since he is a newcomer in the professional game. But in the short time he has been fighting in the major clubs he has raised himself into a ranking position among the lightweights and in many sections is hailed as the next champion.

Delmont has been pounding all available opposition to defeat at local clubs for the last year. Abad has a long record, which includes decisions over Tony Canzoneri and Al Singer. Like Grogan, he has been among the lightweight topnotchers for several years.

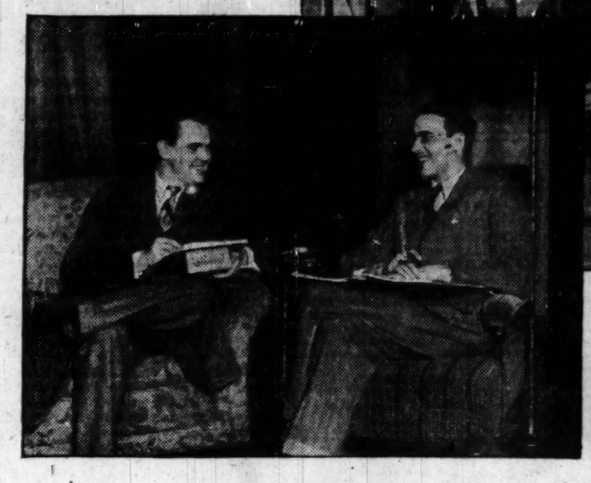
....SMOKERS SAY NEW "COLD-TREATMENT" PROCESS PRESERVES FRESHNESS IN CIGARS..

"I'm smoking Dutch Masters. This cold process surely keeps them fresh and fragrant."—K. A. Westervelt, New York City.

"The thing I like about this is its freshness, just like a new-made cigar."—E. T. Belden, Jr., Fraternities Club, New York.



SMOKERS everywhere are acclaiming the new "Cold-Treatment" process developed by Dutch Masters . . . a process that preserves in a Dutch Masters cigar, until it reaches the smoker, all the fresh flavor the cigar has when new-made!

This unique process takes a Dutch Masters cigar just at the moment it comes from the machine—just when the mellow Havana tobaccos are at their fresh Peak of Perfection . . .

And then, by "Cold-Treatment," that fresh-made fragrance and flavor are sealed within the cigar itself—contained there until the moment that your lighted match releases it in fresh, fragrant puffs!

There's as much difference between a Dutch Masters "Cold-Treated" cigar and an ordinary cigar, as there is between fresh fruit and dried fruit. Smoke one yourself, and see! Manufactured by the Consolidated Cigar Corporation, New York, N. Y.

All popular sizes and shapes, 10c, 15c, 2 for 25c, and 5 for 50c. Cello-Sealed to protect against pocket breakage.

Tune in the Dutch Masters, Friday nights, Columbia Network. Old songs and memories, tender and gay. See local paper for time.

MOON MULLINS—THE BOARD OF STRATEGY

WELL, MOONSHINE, I HAVE JUST TOOK WILLIAM INTO OUR CONFIDENCE IN THIS KIDNAPPING CASE AND I THINK OUR WORRIES ARE AT A END.
WHICH END?
THERE AIN'T A DOUBT IN THE WORLD BUT WHAT THE ROODLES HAVE GUILT WROTE ALL OVER THEMSELVES IN THIS "KAPERTON KIDNAPPING" AND IF WE NOTIFY THE COPS THEY'LL GRAB ALL THE CREDIT, SO I SAYS, THE THING TO DO IS FOR ONE OF US TO GO TO PHILADELPHIA PERSONALLY AND TELL THIS MAN KAPERTON WE'VE LOCATED HIS SON—
AND SO MY DEAR MOONSHINE, WE HAVE DECIDED THAT I SHOULD TAKE ACTIVE CHARGE OF THIS CASE MYSELF, AS IT'S GONNA REQUIRE SOMEBODY WITH BRAINS.
BRAINS! AND SINCE WHEN DOES ANYBODY WHICH PARKED IN FRONT OF A HOLE IN THE ROAD FOR THREE QUARTERS OF A HOUR WAITIN' FOR THE RED LIGHT TO TURN GREEN, LIKE YOU DID LAST NIGHT, EVER CLAIM TO HAVE ANY BRAINS?

Sox Conquer Browns, 10-9, in 11 Innings

Browns Err Three Times.

Just to prove it was hard to outfumble them, the Browns kicked three in succession in the second, allowing two Sox runs. Schulte dropped Kamm's fly, Stewart made a wild peg to second on Tate's bunt, and Storti dropped Stewart's throw at third on Braxton's intended sacrifice bunt. A pass to Blue forced Kamm to score. Nobody moved on Eichrodt's short fly to right, but Reynolds sent a fly deep enough into left to permit Tate to score after the catch.

Before Mr. Braxton could be taken out in the third enough had happened to fetch in two more St. Louis runs. The affair opened with a pass to Bettencourt. Storti fanned, but the situation clouded up on a single by Ferrell. Then when Stewart doubled, Manager Bush decided to withdraw Braxton. The hit scored Bettencourt and put Ferrell on third. McKain disposed of the next two batters, but one of them uncorked a fly ball on which Ferrell tallied.

Schulte's single and steal, followed by Bettencourt's hit, gave the Browns another run in the fourth, but the Sox kept themselves in the game by scoring three runs in their half. McKain started it with a two bagger to left. Blue fouled out, but Eichrodt doubled, McKain scoring. Reynolds was passed. Fothergill whacked a hit to right, Eichrodt crossing the plate and Reynolds going to third. Kimsel replaced Stewart and Cissell lifted a fly to Melillo behind first base. Much to Melillo's surprise, Reynolds dashed home after the catch.

The Browns nicked McKain for a run in the sixth. With one out Goslin slapped a double to the wall in left, stole third, and scored on Schulte's fly. Then the Sox proceeded to tie it in the seventh. Cissell singled and Appling forced him. Jeffries' double to right center and a single by Tate did the rest.

Vic Frasier will try his luck against the Browns today. Coffman is expected to oppose him.

U. S., MEXICO TO OPEN DAVIS CUP SERIES TODAY

MEXICO CITY, April 30.—(AP)—The Mexican and United States Davis cup teams will meet tomorrow in the first contest of the North American zone.

2,000 from 15 States in Ohio Relays

Columbus, O., April 30.—(AP)—More than 2,000 athletes from Nebraska to New Jersey and from Ontario to North Carolina were arriving here tonight to participate in the eighth annual Ohio relays tomorrow and Saturday at Ohio State university stadium.

Fifteen states, the district of Columbia, and the one province of Canada will be represented. Athletes who have won at the Drake, Kansas, and Pennsylvania relays will be here to settle track and field supremacy for the 1931 season. Then too, high school stars, the greatest ever assembled in one place this year, will be present to vie for interscholastic honors.

Expect Battle in Mile Relay.

One of the greatest battles of the meet is expected in the two mile relay. Chicago, winner at Kansas in 7:52.5; Ohio State, which took the event at Philadelphia last week in 7:52.2, and Michigan, which duplicated Ohio's time at Drake, will meet for the American championship.

Another battle will take place in the high hurdles. Lee Sentman of Illinois, who won the event at Kansas in 14.6 seconds, will be pitted against Jack Keller of Ohio State, who turned in 14.7 seconds at Penn, and who defeated Pittsburgh's best a few weeks ago in 14.5.

There will be a battle royal in the 100 yard dash when Eddie Tolan of Michigan meets Dee Hutson of Denison.

Warne vs. McDermott.

Rhea, Nebraska husky, who won the shot put at Kansas and Drake, will be here while McDermont of Illinois, pole vault champion at Des Moines last week, will vie with Tommy Warne of Northwestern, victor here last year. Purma of Illinois, discus king at Kansas and Drake, will compete as Hill of Illinois, who won the hammer throw at Drake. Notre Dame's relay teams will also be among those present.

Two teams that will attract a great deal of attention are Canada's entrants, Hamilton Central institute and Walkerville Tech. This is the first time that Canadian teams have entered the Ohio meet.

OAK PARK HIGH BEATS HARRISON IN 8 INNINGS

Oak Park High school of the Suburban league defeated Harrison Tech of the City league in a practice game at Oak Park's field yesterday in eight innings. Bourbon's single in the extra inning, with Schwartz on base, gave Oak Park the victory, 8 to 7. Score:

Harrison	003	020 02—7	11 6

Batteries—Carlson and Tamberin; Odron and Rabetz.

ST. RITA WINS, 4 TO 2.

Flynn allowed only five hits as St. Rita triumphed over Englewood of the central section, 4 to 2, at St. Rita field. Score:

Englewood	000	110 0—2	5 3

Favorable Water Conditions Greet Fishermen Today

BY BOB BECKER.

This is the time of the year when trout fishermen follow Izaak Walton's idea as expressed in his "Complete Angler," when he wrote that he found "it to be a real truth, that the very sitting by the river's side is not only the quietest and fittest place for contemplation, but will invite an angler to it."

This morning there will be thousands of trout fishermen on the banks of and actually in the streams, because not in years has opening day promised such ideal fishing conditions. Early in the week we had a wire from the north country which summed up these ideal conditions in this message: "Stream levels are low. Looks like good fishing opening day. Weather warm."

* *

From Michigan comes this late news about fishing conditions for the opening of the season. Max Sandy of the Grand Rapids Herald writes us:

"The Pere Marquette, Boardman, Little Manistee, White, Au Sable, and other Michigan streams are lower than I have ever seen them at this time of the year. I looked them over two days ago. The water also is much clearer than usual for this time of the year and should be ideal for fly fishing, provided we have warm weather.

"The run of rainbow trout up the Pere Marquette river, the Little Manistee, and the Boardman has been heavier than in many years. Just why this migration from Lake Michigan into the streams should be heavier this spring is one of the mysteries which I make no attempt to fathom.

"Usually the opening, May 1st, runs smack into the rainbow spawning season, with the result that many big 'bows are hooked off the spawning beds. While a few still seem to be on the beds now, it is apparent that there will be not nearly so many rainbows on the spawning grounds as in former years."

If favorable fishing conditions continue over the coming week-end, when probably 125,00 trout fishermen will swing their tackle on Michigan and Wisconsin streams, without doubt the mortality among the angle worms and night crawlers will be reduced on opening day, because the rank and file of fishermen prefer fly fishing to bait fishing.

And here is one spring when it seems as if fly fishing is going to be good on opening day. In fact, the season is so far advanced in Canada that several provinces opened the trout season long before the usual time.

BABE RUTH TAKES WALK WITHOUT AID OF HIS CANE

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—Without the aid of his cane, Babe Ruth did quite a bit of walking about his Riverside drive apartment today, limbering up his injured left thigh in the hope that he will be able to be in uniform on Sunday.

Regarding the Babe's condition Mrs. Ruth said: "O, he's just fine; he's much better." She also added that the Yankees' star had discarded his cane, and that his injured leg did not hurt him, although it was a little weak.

Eight Swim Titles at Stake Here Tonight

Walter Laufer, Lake Shore A. C. swimming star, will defend his Central A. A. U. title in the 150 yard backstrokes and his state crown in the 50 yard free style tonight at the Blackhawk Park pool, Belden and Lavergne avenues.

Eight C. A. A. U. championships will be settled at tonight's meet, marking the close of the indoor swimming season. Lake Shore is favored to win the team title, which will be awarded at the conclusion of tonight's competition.

In order to retain his 50 yard crown Laufer must defeat Al Schwartz, L. A. C. star, who has won the 100, 220, and 500 yard events. Dick Hinch, former Northwestern swimmer and Big Ten champion in the 150 yard back stroke should give Leufer a battle in that event. Hinch has been swimming for Lake Shore since the C. A. A. withdrew from open competition.

Among other titles to be decided are the men's junior 220 yard free style and 220 yard breaststroke, and the women's junior 220 yard free style, individual medley, and 300 yard medley relay.

FEDERAL COURTS ASKED TO STOP CARNERA BATTLE

Garden Corporation Tells of Contract.

New York, April 30.—(AP)—The proposed heavyweight fight between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera was moved out of Ebbets field and into the federal courts today.

The Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois, claiming to hold a contract prohibiting Carnera from engaging in any "major bouts" before meeting the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title fight, scheduled for Cleveland, July 3, filed an injunction in New York today seeking to halt the Sharkey-Carnera brawl.

The Illinois corporation asks not only that Carnera be enjoined from fighting Sharkey, but that he be further restrained from entering into any bouts without its consent, a consent he did not have when he signed the Sharkey contract, it said.

Garden Explains Position.

In support of its petition for an injunction, the Garden pleads that if Sharkey and Carnera are allowed to proceed it will seriously impair the gate receipts for the Schmeling-Stribling fight and that if Carnera be defeated it would make him practically worthless for the proposed championship bout in September under its auspices.

James Joy Johnston, co-promoter with Humbert Fugazy for the Dodger Athletic club, the promoter of record for the Sharkey-Carnera fight, labeled the injunction suit as an effort to gain publicity for the Cleveland show.

"If they have a good contract, it probably will hold," Johnson said, and then added, "but they haven't. All I can say is that the 600 millionaires of Madison Square Garden had better muster all the legal brains they can, because the Dodger Athletic club knew what it was doing when it signed Sharkey and Carnera. We are willing to let the courts decide."

Gets Commission's O. K.

The Sharkey-Carnera fight was formally approved by the New York state athletic commission, which is not a party to the suit, last Tuesday. At that time, Chairman James A. Farley made it clear the commission had no direct interest in the matter. It had been notified by the Garden along with other interested parties that an injunction would be sought if Carnera were signed to fight for any one else.

The commission, Farley said, comes into the matter only when signed contracts of both fighters in a match are presented to it.

Foreigners Win Chief Prizes at Art Display

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE eleventh international exhibition of water colors opened yesterday afternoon in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. There are a brilliant array of pictures on the walls, a brilliant array of guests were in the long rooms. The announcement of the prize awards was, perhaps, more puzzling than brilliant as an episode.

The exhibit has been drawn from most of the countries of the globe, with Chicago given a fair amount of wall space, despite the presence of so many pictures from across the seas. One room has been devoted to Max Weber, who rings his gallery with pocket handkerchief size water colors dealing chiefly with the female of the species, for whom Weber has, in common with many modernists, the Rubens complex as to size. Unfortunately, however, he bars the milk-white skin which made of Rubens' nudes such tantalizing creatures.

An abstraction in intriguingly tender colors shows Max Weber in a different light and he submits, too, a thin wisp of flower still life and another one of two less womanly women who possess suggestions of charm.

Although Max Weber has a whole room given over to him, he by no means rules the exhibit. Lucien Simon has a brilliant painting of jockeys and horses and another charming painting of Breton children. Olive Rush has several delightful, poetic, tangibly lovely compositions of deer and mountains. Marie Laurencin has several delicate ladies and one fascinating group of children. Cotton has a gorgeous caricature of Sinclair Lewis with the American eagle. Rutherford Boyd has one of the strongest water colors in his brilliant "Beach Umbrellas."

In the prize awards one may rub one's hands and chuckle: "Ah, again names have been sifted and well known ones rewarded, Picasso, Matisse, Derain have had their day, now come Segonzac and Dufresne." So they do.

The Watson F. Blair prize of $600 was given to "Interior" by Segonzac, whose water colors in the Martin Ryerson collection in the institute have made him and Signac [also seen there] household friends. There is color to carry the slightness of this "Interior."

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal and $500 went to "Woman in Interior" by Charles Dufresne, a picture flavored with a Tahitian atmosphere.

"The White Horse" by Milton Avery won the Mr. and Mrs. Logan prize of $250; "Melting Snows" by Ward Lockwood won the Logan prize of $150; and "Portrait of a Boy" by William Sommer was awarded the William H. Tuthill purchase prize of $100. The exhibit will continue through May 31 and is extremely well worth seeing, one of the strongest and finest that the institute has yet shown.

Rev. D. Hugh Jones Resigns His Evanston Pulpit; To Visit Wales

The resignation of the Rev. David Hugh Jones as pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Evanston was announced yesterday by the board of directors.

The resignation was submitted at the annual meeting of the board Wednesday night, and was prompted, the pastor explained, by a desire to rest. He has served in the ministry for forty-five years and as pastor of the Presbyterian church in Evanston for nineteen years. The resignation was accepted "with regret," the board announced.

The Rev. Mr. Jones is well known in Chicago for his occasional talks before the Sunday Evening club. He is regarded as the "dean of active pastors" in Evanston. He is a native of North Wales and it is believed he will return to his native land to rest.

The Young Drinkers Explain Now Why They Got That Way

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Do you remember, just a short while back, we proposed the query here about why boys risk their best girl's continued devotion by taking on the temporary "bleary-eyed, red-faced, hair-rumpled" appearance of a drunk? You will recall, perhaps, that a girl related her experience and how her escort of several evenings fell in estimation under the circumstances described.

In order to get first hand information, the boys were asked directly why they made such idiots of themselves. Well, "Alfred C." offers this in explanation: "In response to that girl's letter and the young man she spoke about, I was struck with the similarity of her story and mine. I am well educated, have good manners and can converse freely. I, too, get bleary eyed, blotchy faced and hair rumpled under the influence. And I lost my girl, too.

"Why do we boys do it? It may be to keep in the running with modern life as it is portrayed in the movies, on the stage, or in modern novels. Carrying a flask, knowing the speakeasies, and wishing to be regarded as a man of the world may be the reason. Our relatives, friends, and co-workers all drink. We follow their example. We follow the age-old custom of monkey see, monkey do.

"Ninety-nine out of a hundred of us couldn't tell good liquor from bad. We don't know how to drink, or when to stop. Don't know that half of us couldn't stop now if we wanted to. The main reason why we drink, however, is to appear big in the girl's estimation, and not as babies. If we were treated as blinkety-blank fools by said girls, we'd snap out of it. I did. But I'm through with it too late. My girl won't answer my letters or telegrams."

That's "Alfred's" story. Now for "Jake's." "Why do we get lit when out with the girls? Ask the girls. We've got to carry the stuff along or order it, or we're out of luck with said girls. Maybe there are them as asks for lemonade—but where do the lemonade girls keep themselves?

It's Said Business Gals Buy Perfume That Their Bosses Prefer

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I learn from one of the reputable trade papers that "a business woman is often controlled in her selection of perfumes by what her employer likes."

Maybe I shouldn't be letting the little woman at home in on this office secret. Nor would I publicize the perfume fact except that I know that employers who may look upon their attractive young secretaries as no more than efficient wheels in their business machinery still have noses that may be assailed to the point of costly business distraction if an inhabitant of their offices uses an offensive perfume.

"We frequently find," says Miss Lillian Davis, buyer for a perfume department, "that when a business woman has purchased an odor quite different from the one she has been using, she will come back and tell us, 'The boss doesn't like it.' She asks for something similar to what she has been using."

In this way, Miss Davis says, the department has come to the conclusion that business men do not like heavy oriental odors. They prefer flower fragrances. It has been a good year for sweet pea, lilac, gardenia, and violet, she reports.

Miss Davis' experience further is that business girls want the better perfumes, such as those that sell, say, for $2.35 a dram. Another point of interest developed in the article referred to, is that members of the younger generation are the best customers for lipsticks and powders.

Apropos the younger generation, a highly successful saleswoman in one of the swank clothes shops on the avenue tells me of the difficulty she has in serving the younger generation that haunts her particular establishment. She, the saleswoman, will put dress after dress on these young women. They're about as wide as a match, to begin with—but every dress, according to their judgment, makes them look fat.

"The thinner they are," my friend relates, "the more scared they seem to be that they'll look fat."

BEAUTY ANSWERS

D. H.: RAPID EATING WILL cause blotchy rashes on the face. When we overtax the digestive system skin disturbances result. Where there is imperfect mastication the food is often washed down with water. More food is taken than is necessary and, consequently, we overeat. Learn to eat slowly and masticate properly.

New Fashions in Child Training Often Confusing

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In this world of change, when each year brings up new fashions in child psychology, care, feeding and training, it is rather difficult for many mothers to keep from feeling somewhat dizzy. The ideas they were brought up on are scrapped and new ones take their place, only to be torn down, like our buildings, in order to make way for still other structures, which in their turn are destroyed to be rebuilt along other lines.

Some of us believe that what is old is good and what is new is bad. Still others of us are foolish enough to believe that what is old is dross and what is new is gold. Others of us tentatively put a sort of common sense test to all things, both old and new, to discover the underlying good.

There are the followers of the Freud school, the Jung school, the Gestalt school, or the Adler school. There are the Centralists. There are the Behaviorists and their opponents. There are so many schools of philosophy and psychiatry that parents are apt to get pretty muddled and might make a kind of hash of children if their inherent character did not protect them against much of our experimentation.

I think one of the really harmful ideas that has come out of this welter of new theories, and one that can work a definite harm in a child is this bugaboo of the fear of the love between parent and child. A perfectly natural dependence with its resultant perfectly natural affection and love has been distorted and undue significance given it, so that many mothers are really self-conscious in their feeling of love for their children and in their children's demonstrations of affection.

Any one can make out a good case from an exaggerated emotion, and we do realize that often certain kinds of misdirected motherly love do work to a child's disadvantage. Undue demonstration, molly coddling, etc., of course are not good for a child. But healthy, warm lovingness is of the essense of life. Children love to love, but even more, need to be loved. They like coziness and affection, and if handled normally and wisely, it fills a spiritual need in their lives.

So let us not, whenever small daughter gives us a bear hug, or young son wants to sit in our lap when a story is read, when the baby likes a cuddle in the bed in the morning or a tuck in at night, or our adolescent boy gives us a hearty, wet kiss, get scared, take out a book by a modern psychologist to reaffirm our fears and present a cool impersonal side to our child at the next encounter, or, as counseled by one of our famous psychologists, give them a good night handshake.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Getting the Goldfish Home.

Last year I bought some goldfish, which were put into a paper carton, and, as I was some distance from home, I boarded a street car. The car was crowded and I had to stand. In a few minutes I noticed that water was dripping on a woman's coat. People stared at me, but I was too embarrassed to tell them what was in the package. I got off the car about a mile from home and walked the rest of the way, and very thankful that it was at night so no one could see me blush. B. A. S.

Collarless Jackets Are Suit Favorites

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Smart jackets, this spring, are more likely than not to be completely collarless. This sounds a bit bare necked and gawky, but the collarless jackets turned out by the great Paris couturiers are just the reverse of that. Collars are replaced advantageously by scarves, necklaces, cat bows and so on. Sometimes the collar of the blouse is worn outside the jacket.

The suit is in black and white tweed that makes the fashionable iron gray in perspective. The skirt has low fullness granted by three godets, one at each side and one in front.

The short tunic blouse of white dotted Swiss shown on the small figure is typical of Mirande, who loves to combine sheer, dainty lace or muslin blouses with dark and sometimes heavy wool suits. This blouse has a short cutaway peplum. Its collar is made of five petals of dotted Swiss and two of these petals form little epaulette sleeves. All the edges are finished with rick rack.

Morley Tells More Stories; Charms Critic

Variety of Mysteries in Grist for Today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

WHEN I was a little girl living in the country, we used to look forward to May first, not as moving day [no one ever heard of moving there], but as May day when all of the little boys of our acquaintance hung baskets on our door knobs. May apples, jack in the pulpits, dog toothed violets and those delicate star like specks, spring beauties, were nestled in the wide violet leaves that lined the basket. To have only one May basket dangling from your door knob was a tragedy indeed.

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY.

To have the steps cluttered up so that your grandfather, when he let the cat out, stumbled over them and cursed all that fol-de-rol was triumph. May 1 in the city may connote moving vans and paper hangers, but it will always be May day to me, even though no May basket has ever dangled from my door knob in Chicago and there probably isn't a May apple or a jack in the pulpit or a dog toothed violet within the whole north, south and west of the view from the Tribune Tower.

Well have to pretend that the books which the publishers offer us today are such spring delights!

First there is Christopher Morley's John Mistletoe, which is a sort of combination of all the books that he ever has written. It is called "a personal testament" and is more nearly a volume of reminiscences than anything else and yet it isn't that exactly, for it is half fiction. Read it, that's the best way of knowing what a treasure it is. There's a dogwood tree on the cover, a perfect May day emblem.

Christopher Morley was here last Monday, lecturing at the University of Chicago. He came to call and I tried to wheedle out of him and Frank Henry of Doubleday, Doran & Co., the low down about Sinclair Lewis' change from Harcourt's to their firm of publishers, but got nowhere about such secrets, though I found out that Sinclair Lewis' new novel is to be called "Frontier," and will be about three generations of original Vermonters who followed the frontier in America, and that this novel will be finished sometime in 1932.

Christopher Morley is to be toastmaster at the National Association of Booksellers' banquet in Philadelphia in a couple of weeks. He said toastmastering is a thankless job, and everybody you introduce in what you think is a dashing fashion always hates you afterwards. Will Durant was furious at him he said once when he introduced him thus: "When you introduce Will Durant all you have to say is 'Will, do rant' and he does."

The Lively Lady, by Kenneth Roberts [Doubleday, Doran], is a thrilling epic of the sea; a saga of fighting, adventure, and romance written in the same stirring fashion that the author's "Arundel" was written, and you haven't forgotten that tale, I know. "The Lively Lady" is about American privateersmen in the war of 1812, and its hero is Richard Nason, son of the Phoebe and Steven Nason of "Arundel."

The Maid of Nettuno, by Ludwig Hess [Brewer & Warren], is the third volume of the Borgia trilogy which began with "The Bulls of Rome" and went on with "The Star of the Order." The last years of the great Cesar Borgia are chronicled in it, and the devotion to him of the maid Carmela Accolti. It is translated by Madge Pemberton.

Treasures Upon Earth, by David Stewart [Doubleday, Doran], is a poignant story of a young vicar who wanted to be a real servant of God, and felt, after six gruelling months of trying to raise a fortune for his parish work, that perhaps he had been trafficking a little with the dev.

A very remarkable novel, From Day to Day, by Ferdynand Gotel [Viking], I will review tomorrow.

An End to Mirth, by Ben Ames Williams is the Dutton clue mystery for May. It starts with the game of murder which everyone is playing so violently these days. A successful and famous moving picture director asked to be the murder victim, and he was "the corpse under the blanket." When the testimony was all in, and the blanket was lifted, the corpse was a real one. How the murderer is ferreted out is an ingenious trick. Mr. Williams was a famed novelist first before he became a writer of mysteries.

Lady Helena, or the Mysterious Lady, by Gaston Leroux [Dutton], is a thriller of international crime, and love. The author is one of the most famous of the French thriller writers.

The Prime Minister Is Dead, by Helen Simpson [Doubleday, Doran], is a story of modern love whose course a major crime interrupts, written by a well known English novelist.

My Flesh and Blood, by George Sylvester Viereck [Liveright], is called "a lyric autobiography." It contains all of the poems, old and new of a man who is known better as a journalist of the first water and a novelist [he is half author of "My First Two Thousand Years" and "Salome, The Wandering Jewess"]. It contains also notations of how those poems came to be written and discloses frankly the author's feelings about the women who inspired them.

Men and Forces of Our Time, by Valeriu Marcu [Viking], is a volume of ideas inspired by personalities of our day, Clemenceau, Kemel Pasha, Mussolini, Chesterton, Lenin, and others. It is translated by Eden and Cedar Paul, critics as well as translators who say of the author: "Though Marcu is unique, there is in his writing a curious mingling of the flavors of Montaigne and Strachey."

Magazine Making [Viking], is a comprehensive handbook on one of the phenomena of modern life, the magazine, by John Bakeless, author of "The Economic Causes of Modern War" and "The Origin of the Next War."

Studies Are Not Everything, by Max McConn [Viking], is a rollicking diary of a freshman and a grand satire on the higher education.

MELVILLE LETTER ABOUT 'MOBY DICK' SOLD FOR $3,100

New York, April 30.—(AP)—A letter from Herman Melville to Mrs. Nathaniel Hawthorne explaining "Moby Dick," and a copy of the first issue of the first edition of "Tom Sawyer" are to go into the libraries of prominent New Yorkers who made their bids for them incognito.

The books were sold at auction last night at the American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Inc.

The "Moby Dick" letter, in which Melville explained the relative parts played by allegory and pure narrative in his story, brought $3,100. It was purchased by "J. W. Bentley"—the bidding name adopted by a private collector who does not wish his identity disclosed.

The copy of "Tom Sawyer" was bought for $1,900 by an agent of another private collector.

Walter M. Hill, Chicago dealer, paid $1,450 for a letter by Oliver Wendell Holmes to Hawthorne, enthusiastically praising "The Scarlet Letter," and $1,025 for the 26-page autograph manuscript of Mark Twain's "The Experience of the McWilliamses with Membraneous Croup."

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, New York collector, bought a first edition copy of Melville's "Pierre; or the Ambiguities" for $575. Several other literary treasures also were sold.

The items sold came from the collections of Irving S. Underhill of Buffalo, of the late Dr. Clara Burrus, literary executor for John Burroughs, and of a descendant of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Scott Recites Northwestern's Present Needs

University's Friends Will Rally at Banquet.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, will be honored at a dinner this evening at the Blackstone hotel. More than 400 alumni are to attend on the occasion of President Scott's tenth anniversary as head of the university and on his 62d birthday.

Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of the class of '87, who has been spending the winter in Arizona, has wired acceptance of an invitation to be among the speakers. Others on the program will be Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn.; Rufus B. Von Kleinsmid, class of '05, now president of the University of Southern California; Vernon R. Loucks, president of the Northwestern university general alumni association, toastmaster, and Arthur Andersen, chairman of the board of trustees.

During the ten years Dr. Scott has been president the university has increased its assets from $12,000,000 to $49,266,074. The student body has grown from 7,500 to 14,000, and the faculty from 500 to 1,000. The annual budget in 1920 was $1,400,000 and is now $4,000,000. Twenty-four buildings have been added in the ten years, including the McKinlock campus on Chicago avenue at Lake Shore drive.

"More buildings are needed," President Scott said yesterday. "We should have four new hospitals, a woman's building, a great chemical laboratory and laboratories for the departments of physics, botany and geology. Biology will soon require larger quarters. There should be one or two buildings for general recreation rooms and an administration building with suitable offices for the faculty.

"The school of speech needs a theater and additional rehearsal space. The school of education should have a large building and the school of engineering an addition to present quarters. These departments, as well as others on the Evanston campus, need adequate endowment. Our athletic interests are suffering because we have no fieldhouse. A men's union is also in great demand.

"Within the next decade or two the Evanston campus will probably be extended eastward into the lake for a quarter or half mile. East of the campus will probably be a lagoon, and east of the lagoon a public park, a landing field and a boulevard."

The annual Northwestern university circus will open this morning with the delivery of the "Barker" edition of the Daily Northwestern. The circus this year will include airplane and motorboat exhibits and a water carnival, in which former Northwestern stars will participate, both this and tomorrow afternoons. The parade through the streets of Evanston will be held at 10:30 tomorrow morning and awards for winning floats presented tomorrow night.

Five Northwestern university coeds from which the 1931 May Queen will be chosen were selected by the women's student government organization yesterday. They are Margaret Frantz, Dorothy Hanchett, Augusta Watson, Greta Astrom, and Caroline Sachs. The election of the queen will not be announced until May 11, beginning of May week.

Three hundred men, representing eight fraternities on McKinlock campus, Northwestern university, will hold their third annual interfraternity singing contest in the commerce club room, Wieboldt hall, tonight. Judges will be Baroness Olga Von Turk-Rohn, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera company; Robert Yale Smith, organist for the Sunday Evening club, and Karl B. Stein, of the Musical Dramatic conservatory. Herbert Vetter is chairman of the committee in charge.

FIFTY ARE GRADUATED AS PREACHERS FOR THE PRESBYTERIANS

Commencement exercises for fifty students of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, who received diplomas or degrees, were held last night in the Seminary church. Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the seminary, presided.

The graduates will take up work in churches scattered throughout the country from New Jersey to Colorado. Ernest John Frei, whose home is in Zurich, Switzerland, will go to the Philippine islands as treasurer of Silliman institute.

Among the speakers were Dr. Stone and Dr. William H. Boddy, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago, who delivered the commencement address.

This Is Children's Health Day by Hoover's Proclamation

All over the land today in accordance with a proclamation issued by President Hoover, National Child Health day will be observed.

"The White House conference on child health protection has stirred the nation to a new interest and responsibility for the health of all children," Dr. Grace Wightman, Illinois state chairman for National Child Health day, declared yesterday. "Emphasis falls upon the child's growth and development. Health may be achieved only as a way of living—mentally, emotionally and physically.

"Both the President and Gov. Emmerson have issued proclamations setting forth May 1 as National Child Health day. Let parents, teachers, physicians and nurses take careful stock of their responsibility, their needs in all that concerns the welfare of children."

Among the suggestions Dr. Wightman made for the observance was to make May day a playday with outdoor games, pageants and sports built around health motives. Mothers were urged to see that their children eat fruit, green vegetables and drink six glasses of water daily, brush teeth morning and night, play part of each day outdoors.

Keeler Accepts; Will Be Bishop of Minnesota

St. Chrysostom's Rector Tells Decision.

The Rev. Dr. Stephen E. Keeler, rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, 1414 North Dearborn parkway, yesterday announced is decision to accept the call to be bishop coadjutor of the diocese of Minnesota, to which he was elected two weeks ago. Dr. Keeler made this announcement to the vestry of the near north side church at a special meeting at the University club. He also announced his acceptance by telegraph to Bishop Frank A. McElwaine of Minnesota.

THE REV. S. E. KEELER.

Dr. Keeler has been the rector of St. Chrysostom's church about a year and a half. He succeeded the Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, now the bishop of Lexington, Ky. His unanimous election on the first ballot by the Minnesota diocese, Dr. Keeler gave as one of two principal reasons why he felt called on to accept.

Another reason Dr. Keeler gave was the fact that the diocese of Minnesota, with its exceptionally strong churches and church institutions in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Faribault, present a challenge for constructive work which he declared is unequaled in the west.

"The diocese of Minnesota," said Dr. Keeler, "is one of the most unified in the church. In many respects its influence is felt throughout the entire northwest. I have always been greatly interested in domestic missionary projects of the church, and it is certain that the diocese of Minnesota, second in strength to Los Angeles west of the Mississippi affords a life opportunity.

Dr. Keeler's formal resignation has not been offered to St. Chrysostom's vestry. Dr. Keeler stated that would be presented after his election had been confirmed by the bishops and standing committees of the diocese of the American Episcopal church. No plans have been made for Dr. Keeler's consecration. It is thought likely that it will occur late in June, though the time and place has not been set.

During Dr. Keeler's short rectorate in Chicago he has become a recognized leader in this diocese. Under Bishop George Craig Stewart, Dr. Keeler was the chairman of the diocesan department of ways and means, and a member of the Cathedral chapter. He is also a member of the board of trustees of the Western Theological seminary, Evanston.

The central committee, working with seven district committees, has already gathered $111,000 or more than half the $200,000 sought to maintain the council's Owasippe scout camps, near Muskegon, Mich., to develop the Sea Scout and Cub programs.

Among those attending the committee meeting were James H. Douglas Jr., Howard F. Gillette, Judge J. J. McGoorty.

Cardinal Mundelein Gives Luncheon for 300 Students

ROME, April 30. — (AP) — Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago was host today at a luncheon to the faculty and 300 students of the new Propaganda Fide college which Pope Pius inaugurated last week. The affair was a feast day gift by the cardinal to the students since today is within the octave of his feast day of St. George. Among the guests were a number of Chicago students.

HE SOLD SILKS TO WIFE OF LINCOLN, LAUDED BY HOOVER

New York, April 30.—(AP)—President Hoover, Calvin Coolidge, and other notables today congratulated William C. Creamer, who has been in the employ of a New York department store for 70 years and who used to wait on Mrs. Abraham Lincoln.

Seventy years ago today Mr. Creamer started to work in the Arnold, Constable & Co. store at the age of 10 as a cash boy. His salary was $1 a week, paid in gold.

The president of the store gave a luncheon in his honor today and presented him with a scroll paying tribute to his fidelity and integrity and signed by all the executives.

It was while he was a junior salesman that Mr. Creamer used to sell silks to Mrs. Lincoln. He remembers her as "a small, plainly dressed woman, somewhat finicky and far from extravagant."

He sold silks to Mrs. U. S. Grant, too, for 18 years, and he recalls often seeing Theodore Roosevelt as a child, brought to the store by his mother.

Predicts Training of Nurses Will Become More Like Doctors'

The nursing profesison is destined to undergo a decided change in the near future which may place training on a similar basis as that required for medical students. That is the opinion of Rear Admiral N. J. Blackwood, medical director of Provident hospital.

He delivered the address last night to the graduating class of the Michael Reese Hospital School of Nursing. The fortieth annual commencement exercises were held in connection with the formal dedication of the new nurses' residehce and internes' home.

"I agree with other medical men that nurses be not required to work during the first two years while persuing their studies," he said. "The last year should be devoted to actual contact with the sick. During that time nurses would put into effect their theoretical knowledge. This would serve as a kind of interneship. I cannot believe it a fair proposition to require a student to work for a living while obtaining an education."

Scholarships were presented to two of the graduating class by Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, president of the woman's auxiliary board. Miss Harriet M. Fox, Lyndon, Ill., was awarded a $1,200 scholarship to be used for study in the field of teaching or supervision at Teachers' college, Columbia university. The scholarship becomes effective when she has spent a year as a member of the teaching or supervising staff at Michael Reese hospital. A scholarship of $350 was given to Miss Mary A. Podobnik of Carlinville, Ill., for the head nurse course offered by Columbia university.

Diplomas and school pins were presented by Maurice L. Rothschild, chairman of the school committee, to fifty-eight nurses.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

His mother, the duchess of Parma, was born infanta of Portugal. Princess Marguerite, the bride, is the 22 year old daughter of Prince Alexander of Thurn and Taxis, head of a twelfth century Lombard family which has branches in Germany and France.

Bright sunshine favored the ceremony, which took place this morning in the Salle de Reunion, the cardinal's residence, which had been transformed into a chapel. An ancient tapestry bearing the royal arms of the house of France and a golden fleur de lys on an azure background was hung behind the altar.

Trustees Laud, End Shows on Goodman Stage

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

ABANDONMENT of the Goodman theater's repertory company was announced yesterday by the trustees of the Art institute.

This action, which was forecast in THE TRIBUNE several weeks ago, was supplemented by rumors of a movement to establish a new repertory company at the Goodman, independent of the institute's budget and free from institute control. When Hubert Osborne, director of the disbanded company, was asked to comment upon the situation, he said:

"Convinced that the policies of a museum are incompatible with the efficient management of a producing theater, I am heartily in accord with the decision of the Art institute to abandon its management of the Goodman repertory company.

"In view of the loyalty of our subscribers and of the trustees whose underwriting and sympathy have made the last season possible, I feel that the way is now open for the development of the Goodman repertory company into a civic theater of national importance."

The Art institute's announcement on the subject says:

"This action was taken with reluctance and only after the fullest discussion and consideration. The trustees' resolution expressed deep appreciation of the artistic results achieved by Hubert Osborne and his company during the last season. The financial returns were highly gratifying, especially as they came in the midst of a business depression. The deficit for the year was underwritten by the trustees personally.

"During the five year period of operation of the repertory company there has been a substantial deficit each year. But in the face of these facts the trustees might have continuel the repertory company, if a more widespread public interest had been manifested.

"The dramatic school, for the use of which the theater was originally planned, will continue as heretofore, and its production of plays will be encouraged. The dramatic school performances hereafter will be given on the large stage of the Goodman."

Grace George's return engagement in "The First Mrs. Fraser" at the Selwyn theater will close tomorrow night, a week earlier than planned. The Selwyn will reopen May 10 with "Oh, Promise Me."

Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together for several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave next day for Africa. Clare is acting in a school play and is to be brought home by friends.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of enormous charm but utterly lacking in moral sense. Iris and he are cousins and the possible heirs of their Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou. Iris plans to divorce her husband and marry Alan when he returns, but she is keeping her plans secret, as she wishes to avoid the interference of her tyrannical aunt, who has until recently ruled her life.

Iris receives a message telling her her aunt is on her way to see her. Alan leaves. The comtesse tells Iris that her husband's character has wholly changed and that he is desirous of reassuming his duties as a husband and father. She asks Iris to think it over and give her answer at the end of the week. Just after the comtesse leaves, Iris hears a motor stop in front of the house and hears Clare's friends bidding her good night. When she opens the door for Clare she has disappeared.

Maj. Charnwood is just ready to leave his hotel when Iris reaches him. He hurries to her home. He suggests calling the friends who drove Clare home. They tell Iris they left Clare at her door. Alan accompanies Iris to notify the police, then they wait all night, but day breaks and Clare is still away. An inspector assigned to the case calls. He finds a photograph of a handsome Latin youth and a faded flower in Clare's desk.

INSTALLMENT XI.

SUGGESTIVE CLEWS.

It was the confirmation Iris wanted, but it did not satisfy her. Like a worm invading a plant, a disagreeable doubt insinuated itself into her mind. How could any one, least of all a mother, read the emotions of a young girl's heart? Was there not something about that smooth concealing blotter symbolic of Clare's innocent exterior?

Then her heart smote her. Clare! Why, she was a child, open and frank as a clear morning! Not by any chance could she harbor a discreditable secret. Unthinkable that this exotic looking youth could have any connection with her going away. Only why had she hidden his photograph? How did she come to have his photograph at all? And the carnation?

Charnwood, too, felt disturbed as he followed the officer down the flagged path to the gate.

"What do you make of this, inspector?" he asked when they were out of earshot.

The man's eyes, devoid of expression, roved slowly over the garden, gauging distances, inspecting the turf, coming at last to rest on the thick clump of laurels between the doorstep and the wall.

"It is too soon to answer that question, monsieur," he replied cautiously. "There are so many possible explanations and it is idle to commit oneself at this stage. "These"—he tapped his pocket—"may hold the key, but again they may only lead to confusion. However, there is still a strong chance that the young lady may return or communicate with her mother during the course of the next day or so. We must not give up hope."

"Then you really think she may have gone away of her own accord?"

"I do, monsieur. The fact that no outcry was heard is more than suggestive. Indeed, there is considerable evidence to prove that she walked quietly out through the gate."

Charnwood noticed that the surrounding wall was five feet high, the summit jagged with broken glass. By no stretch of the imagination could the girl have been dragged over it into either of the neighboring gardens. It began to look as though the inspector was right.

"How does it happen you are not back in Zanzibar or Abyssinia?"

"She may have gone off with some one by previous arrangement," said the Frenchman thoughtfully. "And then again—but there, at this stage I do not wish to alarm you."

"Go on, please. What were you about to say?"

"Well, then," reluctantly, "but you will not, of course, repeat what I am going to say to madame. The fact is"—and he came a step closer, lowering his voice—"this is no less than the third disappearance of the kind we have had to deal with in the last two months."

A shiver passed over Charnwood.

"The third! And the other two, what were their ages?"

"Fourteen and fifteen, monsieur, working girls both, of decent characters."

"And has nothing been heard?" Charnwood forced himself to ask.

"But nothing, monsieur—absolutely nothing!" The big hands swept a gesture of finality. "They are gone, swallowed up. I can tell you no more."

Now he understood what the commissaire and his secretary had meant last night. The implied words rang in his ears:

"Another one?"

"Another—vanished like the last. What is one going to do about it?"

He found Iris standing where he had left her. Sunlight struggling through the morning mist shone upon her pale hair and rigid, blank features. She seemed half in a dream. The servant, sturdily built and shorter by half a head, was urging her to lie down, but not till Charnwood had taken her gently by the arm did she come to herself and turn upon him with eyes curiously fixed.

"No, Alan, there's no use trying to make me rest. I am not tired."

He said no more, knowing only too well that in her present state of mind she would have to go on and on till exhaustion overtook her.

"I suppose there's nothing for it now but to telephone your aunt," he remarked as they descended the stairs.

She assented numbly.

"Mathilde will see to it. You'll have to go, of course."

"Not for long, my dear."

The thought of leaving her, even for a little while, depressed him, yet he was thankful she had some woman to turn to in this crisis. However domineering the comtesse might be, she was truly devoted to her niece.

They went into the dining room and while the maid's voice reached them in a voluble stream at the telephone, Iris sank into a carved chair and drew a labored breath.

"I've several commissions for you to attend to," she said with an effort. "Go first to Helen. If you hurry you will catch her at her flat. Here's the address, Quai Voltaire, second floor. I hope she will be able to manage. This is our rush time."

"O, O, what can have happened to my child?" she murmured in a tone which sent a pang through him.

He could summon no suitable reply.

"Iris," he said awkwardly, "that young man in the photograph . . . you are quite certain you've never met him?"

She made a slight scornful denial.

"I've seen him somewhere—I can say no more. Nothing will persuade me Clare has any sort of association with such a person."

"Of course not. You know what youngsters are like about collecting pictures. I should put it out of my mind."

Yet an inner voice whispered that he would rather a thousand times believe a daughter of his had eloped with a picturesque rascal than . . . but no, he must shut out the unspeakable alternative, lest Iris should read his thoughts.

He pressed her hand hard, harassed by his inability to bring comfort, then having taken the list of her errands, kissed her cold cheek and departed.

At a quarter to nine he was mounting the broad marble stairs of Miss Roderick's abode. An elderly bonne à tout faire admitted him, ushering him into a spacious room overlooking the Seine.

Scarcely had he time to take in the pleasant details of old paneling, books bound in parchment vellum, deep pale grey sofas and chairs, and masses of mauve and pink asters in square glass jars when a hearty American voice greeted him from the doorway and the flat's owner came forward, hand outstretched in welcome.

"Well, Maj. Charnwood!" she cried in frank amazement. "I'm less surprised over your early visit than I am at your being here at all! How does it happen you're not back in Zanzibar or Abyssinia, or wherever you were bound for when we met?"

Although he had met Miss Roderick only once, it was hard to consider her as a mere acquaintance, partly because she was Iris' warmest friend and partly because of her whole souled magnetic personality, utterly lacking in formal stiffness. As he felt the firm pressure of her plump, highly manicured hand, his former impressions were confirmed.

Request for Orchestrations.

"I have charge of a musical group of young people ranging in ages from 9 to 22 years. We are most enthusiastic about our work and donate our services to churches, lodges, etc. Having no money, we have to transpose all our music from the piano score and it is such a task. Do you suppose you could secure for us any orchestrations or pieces of music for solo work? We can use anything.

"MRS. J. G."

Other music enthusiasts may have bits to donate to this interesting group. They can put your old orchestrations to good use and would appreciate having them.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Junior was to spend the Easter holidays with his grandmother who lives in a near by town. When his aunt questioned him as to how the Easter bunny would know where to reach him he thought a moment then turned to his mother and said:

"Mummy, I guess you better send him a road map.—M. M.

My daughter, 5 years old, wanted to talk on the telephone. She took the receiver down, and put it back as quickly as she could, then ran to me and said, "O, mother, it's the hospital! The girl said 'operator.' Some one is going to be operated on."

Paulist Singers Win Praise in Yearly Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

An audience that taxed the capacity of even so generous an enclosure as that of Orchestra hall assembled to hear the Paulist Choristers of Chicago last night under the direction of Father Eugene O'Malley and was well rewarded for so doing.

This eminent organization is now in its twenty-seventh season. Founded with the theory of restoring choral music of the church to the position that it deserves to occupy, the boys that once sang its soprano and contralto music have long since become men and other boys have taken their places. Yet its standards have remained the same. It still maintains its ideals; its singers still use the thrilling, unearthly tone that seems to have been what was desired by composers of the old school.

Last night's a cappella program began with that work of great beauty Grieg's "Ave Maris Stella," and proceeded through compositions by Palestrina, Vittoria, Byrd, a particularly charming Catalonian carol of the fifteenth century, and down to present times. The second part of the program went in for secular music and covered just about as wide a range and just about as charmingly as the first. Among the soloists were Walter Curran, tenor; Frank M. Dunford, bass; George Lane, Master John Goodman in his debut, and Master William Jordan.

Benedict Saxe, whose piano recitals have become annual events, appeared at Kimball hall last night, playing the A flat sonata by Beethoven, opus 26, in other words the one of the funeral march, Schumann's "Papillons," shorter pieces by Rachmaninoff, Prokofieff, Brahms, and Chopin, and the eighth of Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodies. He is reasonably well developed in both the technic and the expression of the piano keyboard, and if the notes he played last night were not invariably those of the composers, he at least had some musical ideas that were worth projecting in their idioms.

Gladys Dupuy Wed to Prince de Polignac in Parisian Church

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 30.—[Special.]—One of the most important of the season's weddings here was celebrated today when Mlle. Gladys Dupuy became the bride of Prince Guy de Polignac.

The bride is a daughter of the late Senator Paul Dupuy, owner of two important Paris dailies, and Mme. Dupuy, who was Helen Browne of Chicago.

The bride's witnesses were her brother, Jean Dupuy, and her uncle, Pierre Dupuy. The bridegroom's witnesses were the Duc de Polignac and the Marquis de Polignac, whose wife was Mrs. James Eustis, an American.

The young couple have taken for their honeymoon one of the Riviera's show places, the Château de la Garoupe, belonging to Lord Aberconway and once the residence of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer. They left after the reception.

Among the Americans who attended the wedding were the duchess of Manchester, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Miss Emily Vznaga, Mr. and Mrs. John Drexel, Lady Bateman, Lady Newborough, Mrs. John Willys, Gen. and Mrs. E. Adolphe Taufflieb, Mrs. Charles Marshall, Mrs. Marshall Field, Col. and Mrs. William Littauer, Mrs. Claus A. Spreckles, Mrs. Joseph V. First of May Reflects the Modern Spirit

BY THALIA

THE old romantic traditions of May day have gone by the board. Nowadays, instead of a dewy May basket at the door there are moving men or decorators mixed with ladders and calcimine buckets ringing the front doorbell at an early hour.

The modern counterpart of the ancient and picturesque custom of dancing about the Maypole on the green is acrobatic balancing to keep off the newly varnished floors. After all, you can't have a Maypole in a window sill.

Lake Forest has been having an orgy of house cleaning, and afternoon bridges and other diversions have been held in abeyance during the "redding up" process.

Mr. and Mrs. George Artamanoff, newcomers to Chicago, are moving into an apartment at 106 East Oak street. Mrs. Artamanoff is the former Linda Downing of Kansas City. As soon as it was known that Marjorie King, Mitchell and several other Chicago girls did she and her young Russian husband their wedding will be welcomed in younger married circles. They have been in the Philippines for the last four years.

Mrs. Philip Elting, who has had Mrs. Wallace Wakem's apartment at 1130 Lake Shore drive this winter, is moving down to 900 North Michigan for a while before going away for the summer. The Knowlton L. Ames Jr. are having their new apartment at 1530 State parkway all decorated, but they probably won't get in for several more weeks.

The David Pecks of Lake Forest are moving down the road a piece to another house, the one next to the Samuel Rinakers.

Mrs. John West and Miss Mary S. West have moved from 2236 Lincoln Park West to their old home at 35 East Division street. Miss West, by the way, and her brother and sister-in-law, the Charles Cameron Wests of Manitowoc, Wis., are planning to motor to Washington, D. C., next month for the wedding of their niece, Alberta Perley, daughter of Clarence W. Perley of the Library of Congress and Mrs. Perley, to John Guthrie Prescott, midshipman at Annapolis, in this year's graduating class. The wedding is to take place on June 5 at All Souls' Unitarian church, and will be followed by a reception in the garden of the Perley residence on Adams Mill road.

BRIDE

[Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

Announcement is made of the marriage on April 18 of Miss Grace O'Malley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. O'Malley of 706 Junior terrace to Harry Doherty.

Miss Angela Johnston and Willard N. Borden Wed Today.

The sole event of interest to a lot of people on the day's calendar is Miss Angela Johnston's wedding to Willard Newhall Boyden, to take place at 4:30 o'clock at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, at 1520 North Dearborn parkway. Dr. David Hugh Jones of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston will perform the ceremony, which will be attended only by relatives and out of town guests. A reception will follow at the Casino.

The bride's cousins, Miss Mary Elizabeth and Miss Ethel Johnston, will be her only attendants, and Hermon Dunlap Smith will be best man for the groom. The ushers will be his brother-in-law, Clyde A. Horn of Akron, O., and a group of his classmates from Williams, including Robert Louis McLean of Philadelphia, Pierre Lorsel Papin of St. Louis, John L. Dole, Charles S. Garland, and Maulsby Forrest of Chicago.

Miss Carol Bourne, whose engagement to Edward C. Howe Jr. was announced last November, has decided to have a summer wedding in town. July 11 has been set as the date, the place will be St. Chrysostom's, and a reception will follow at the apartment of the bride's mother, Mrs. Rudolph E. Prussing, at 1247 North State street. The party of wedding attendants has not been completed.

Mrs. Walter Ayer and Her Daughter Going to Bar Harbor.

Mrs. Walter Ayer met her daughter, Miss Janet Ayer, on her arrival in New York yesterday from Europe, and they will both go to Bar Harbor, Me., to open the family place there for the summer. Mr. Ayer will depart in a week or so to join them, and their son, Robert McCormick Ayer, will go to Maine in June for his vacation from Harvard.

Mrs. Percival Hart, who has been faithful to her "ushering" job at the Vassar tearoom for several years, was elected to succeed Mrs. Charles Fabens Kelley as president of the Chicago Vassar club at its annual meeting yesterday at the Fortnightly. Other members of the new board include Mrs. Clayton Seaman and Mrs. Paul Jenkins, first and second vice presidents respectively; Mrs. Frederick Merrifield, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Lindmueller, assistant secretary and treasurer.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte have issued invitations for an afternoon reception on May 8 in their new apartment on East 57th street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore Bleecker returned today on the Bermuda, after passing the winter in Bermuda.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James H. Van Alen of Roslyn yesterday at the Doctors' hospital. Mrs. Van Alen was Miss Eleanor Langley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Langley.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Bradford, who were at the Barclay following their return from Florida, started for their summer home at Biddeford Pool, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace Riddle returned on the Duchess of York today from Bermuda.

Mrs. William Gerrish Beale will return tomorrow from Aiken.

Fargos, who have been at 14 East Elm street for the winter, are to move back to their apartment at 1512 Dearborn parkway about the middle of the month. . . . Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Gara departed on Tuesday to sail from San Francisco today for Honolulu, Japan, China, and the Philippines, and they'll be gone until the latter part of the summer. . . . Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney is up for reelection as president of the College club.

AND—Mr. Louis Eckstein is giving his annual luncheon for members of the Ravinia Opera club at the Moraine hotel today to tell about the plans for the Ravinia season, to open this year on Saturday night, June 20. . . . the George M. Reynoldses gave a dinner party for about 100 guests at the Huntington in Pasadena on Wednesday evening, and the decorations were mostly wild roses. . . . Mrs. Thomas E. [The Chicago party is to be at the Lake Shore Athletic club, and there will be affairs in Kobe and Tokio, Japan; also Honolulu, Toronto, Paris, Berlin, Munich, London, Stamboul, Beirut, and Vienna, as well as in many American cities.]

CHICAGO STOCK RALLY REVIVES MARKET HOPES

Burst of Buying Restores Traders' Morale.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The market's sharp upturn yesterday, coming as it did the day following the break in U. S. Steel, had a salutary effect on the morale of the speculative community, which has been at low ebb for several days.

The despair of many investors has been pronounced during the last few days and the abruptness of yesterday's turn, while not unexpected, was startling. On the Chicago exchange there appeared the first real buying which has come into the markets in days. This coupled with a hurried covering movement on the part of professional operators, sent stocks forward with a vigor surpassing that of the recent recessions. The advance lasted throughout the day and final quotations represented about the best prices of the session.

Motor Group Strongest.

It was in the motor group that the strength was the most pronounced here. These issues shot ahead for the best gains they have had in weeks.

Outstanding among the motor accessory shares were Bendix and Borg-Warner, each with a net gain of more than two points. The utilities, too, shared in the advance, and the much harassed Insull Utility broke away to make a net advance of 2%.

There was a strong tone evident among the specialties, many of which were late in getting into the movement, but the biggest single factor undoubtedly was the short covering. However, there was also outside buying by persons who believe the market has made at least a temporary bottom.

Opinion Is Divided.

There was no unanimity of opinion among brokers and traders as to how far the upturn will carry. The ease with which United States Steel broke to new low prices during the last few days has complicated the question in the minds of many observers.

The automobile industry continues to supply most of the cheery items which are needed to brighten up the financial reports these days. Current estimates on the Borg-Warner earnings and the reassuring statement of Vincent Bendix on Bendix Aviation earnings in the first quarter proved of aid to the stocks of these companies.

BROKERS' LOANS SHOW DECLINE OF $114,000,000

Sharp Deflation in Market Credit.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The sharp decline in the stock market during the week ended Wednesday brought the largest deflation in speculative credit in many weeks. The weekly report on brokers' loans issued by the federal reserve board yesterday showed a drop of $114,000,000, bringing the total down to $3,750,000,000, which with one exception is the lowest figure reached since the present system of reporting was begun in January, 1926.

The swift rebound of the stock market yesterday probably brought about some increase in loans which is not reflected in the reserve board's summary. However, the sudden nature of the recovery and the fact that it was attributed largely to short covering renders it likely that brokers' loans were not unduly affected.

Banks Hold Control.

The report illustrates strikingly the deflation of speculative credit that has transpired in the last year or so. The current total compares with $3,974,000,000 at this time in 1930, making a decrease of $2,544,000,000. Furthermore, the control of speculative credit now appears to be firmly with the banks, whereas twenty months ago, before the collapse of the bull market, control rested with nonbanking lenders, including corporations.

The New York banks now are lending $1,281,000,000 to brokers and the interior banks are lending $243,000,000, which together represents 87 per cent of the total loans. On the other hand, nonbanking lenders are furnishing only $219,000,000, or about 13 per cent. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $84,000,000 in the last week, the interior banks withdrew $27,000,000, and other lenders drew down $5,000,000.

Despite persistent rumors that the New York Federal Reserve bank again would rediscount its rate, the directors yesterday made no change in the 2 per cent rate. It had been argued that a reduction to 1½ per cent was likely to follow the bank's cut this week in its buying rate on bankers' acceptances; also that it would tend to check the influx of foreign gold. But a lower rate would scarcely affect credit conditions, inasmuch as the New York City member banks now are borrowing nothing from the reserve bank.

Cites Gold Imports.

The gold statement of the New York bank for the week ended Wednesday showed imports totaling $11,700,000, the bulk of which came from Argentina and France. There were no exports, but gold earmarked for foreign account increased $1,500,000. Gold totaling $17,500,000 arrived from France yesterday, representing one of the largest shipments in recent years and bringing the French gold movement up to $21,000,000.

In contrast with the decline in speculative credit, the demand for credit for commercial purposes appears to have picked up measurably in the last week. The weekly statement of the federal reserve system shows that the member banks increased their borrowings from the reserve banks by $19,901,000, bringing the total to $155,321,000. At the same time the reserve banks afforded additional credit by purchasing an additional $18,154,000 of bankers' acceptances, while maintaining their holdings of government securities. Deposits expanded $7,048,000 and note circulation rose $1,229,000. Gold and total reserves increased $11,486,000 and $5,718,000, respectively.

Borrowings Decline.

The report of the New York reserve bank showed a decline of $632,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $30,540,000. Bankers' acceptances expanded $20,678,000, but government securities held stationary. Deposits rose $36,193,000. Reserves increased $31,763,000, but the reserve ratio sagged to 86 per cent, compared with 87.2 per cent a week ago.

The Chicago Reserve bank reported an increase of $331,000 in member bank borrowings, which now stand at $13,482,000. Bankers' acceptances declined $1,267,000 and government securities remained unchanged. Deposits expanded $6,269,000. Reserves increased $6,267,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 81.7 per cent, compared with 86.1 per cent last week.

Bethlehem Steel Places Dividend Upon $4 Basis

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Its income reduced to six cents a common share in the first quarter, the Bethlehem Steel corporation today cut the quarterly dividend on the common stock from $1.50 to $1 a share. This reduces the annual rate from $6 to $4.

The action was generally expected in Wall street, and marked the first dividend cut by the second largest unit in the steel industry since the depression period of 1921. At that time the dividend was cut from $10 to $5 a share, and from 1924 to Nov. 15, 1929, no payments were made while a $200,000,000 rebuilding program was carried out. Since that time quarterly payments of $1.50 have been made regularly.

The net income for the quarter amounted to $1,941,942 and after deduction of $1,750,000 for the usual quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred, only $191,942 was applicable toward payment of the $1 dividend on approximately 3,200,000 common shares outstanding. The balance of $3,008,058 was taken from surplus.

Net income in the last quarter of 1930 was $2,291,000 or 17 cents a share, and was $10,077,486, or $2.60 a share, in the March quarter of 1930.

The report showed total income for the quarter of $7,551,977 against $7,418,383 in the previous three months period and $15,846,500 in the March quarter of 1930. Operation averaged 50.8 per cent of capacity during the first quarter as compared with 42.5 per cent in the previous three months, and 80.3 per cent during the March 1930 quarter. President Eugene G. Grace said current operations are at the rate of approximately 48 per cent. The value of orders on hand March 31, 1931 was $65,803,609 against $68,426,595 on Dec. 31, 1930 and $73,333,010 on March 31, 1930.

In the three months period, Mr. Grace revealed that the corporation's cash position had been improved. Cash and securities on hand Jan. 1 totaled $56,416,812 and increased to $58,532,000 on April 1.

Acquires Three Firms.

Announcement was made by President Eugene G. Grace that the Bethlehem corporation had rounded out its steel fabricating program by acquisition of three relatively small privately owned New Jersey corporations—the Hay Foundry and Iron company, Levering and Garrigues, and the Hedden Iron Construction company. The three concerns will be combined with the McClintic-Marshall company of Pittsburgh which Bethlehem recently acquired. Together the plants will give Bethlehem an annual steel fabricating production of 1,100,000 tons, Mr. Grace said.

Mr. Grace said that cash and short term securities was the consideration paid for the three New Jersey companies which have a combined annual capacity of approximately 168,000 tons. He declined to reveal the price paid.

He said he saw nothing to indicate an important pickup in steel demand and expected conditions to remain about stationary during May. Demand for steel has been scattered and miscellaneous. What new business is received, however, provides work for the mills as stocks are depleted. He also said wage cutting has not been considered.

CANADA WILL CONVERT FOUR INTERNAL BONDS INTO A SINGLE ISSUE

OTTAWA, April 30.—(AP)—Premier Bennett said today that Canada is preparing to offer holders of four issues of internal bonds an opportunity to convert into a long term issue.

The issues, maturing in the next four years, aggregate $1,083,000,000. The premier said only a limited offering will be made at this time. Provision will be made for the conversion of a part of all issues maturing between now and the end of 1934.

The balance of the bonds which will remain outstanding after the conversion operation is completed will be financed later in such forms as the government may determine to be in the public interest, the premier said.

See Exchange Offering.

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Bankers interested in Canadian finance said today the government's war debt conversion operations designed to reduce the huge maturities of the next four years, probably would take the form of an exchange offering of $250,000,000 4½ per cent bonds. It is reported the bonds will mature in 25 years and be callable in 15. Large blocks of the maturing issues, all 5 and 5½ per cent loans, are held in the United States, bankers said.

Auto Dealers Find Spring Showing Trade Revives

Chicago's Automobile Spring Showing was a great success in stimulating business, according to members of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, who discussed its results at a luncheon at the Lake Shore Athletic club yesterday. The showing took place during two weeks early in April and was accompanied by parades and fireworks. One dealer said that his business had increased 100 per cent during the showing and most of the others reported increases in varying amounts. All were enthusiastic about the results obtained.

TRI-CONTINENTAL COR. MAY GET INTEREST IN SELECTED INDUSTRIES

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Plans contemplating the acquisition by Tri-Continental corporation, an investment trust, of a substantial stock interest in Selected Industries, Inc., another trust, were announced here today.

The present management of Selected Industries, Inc., plans to retire at the annual meeting of the stockholders on May 11, but the banking interests which have sponsored the trust will continue active in its affairs. Earle Bailie, president of Tri-Continental, and Francis F. Randolph, vice president, are expected to become chairman and president, respectively, of Selected Industries. Both are members of the banking firm of J. & W. Seligman of New York, sponsors of Tri-Continental.

The board of Selected Industries will recommend to the stockholders approval of a contract making available to that trust the statistical and advisory facilities of Tri-Continental. It is contemplated that Tri-Continenal will acquire a large block of Selected Industries' outstanding common and convertible preferred stocks, although this interest will not constitute control.

Present officers of Selected Industries include R. S. Reynolds, president, and C. K. Reynolds, vice president. The banking sponsors of Selected Industries comprises Stone & Webster & Blodget, Inc.; Chas. D. Barney & Co., Lehman Brothers, Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co., all of which are represented on the board and will not part with any of their stock holdings. John W. Hanes of the Barney firm will become chairman of the executive committee.

INSULL GROUP NOW SECOND IN NEW JERSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 30.—Purchase of the Eastern New Jersey Power company and subsidiaries from the Utilities Power and Light corporation by the Insull interests, for a cash consideration estimated at close to $20,000,000, makes the Insull-owned National Public Service corporation second only to the Public Service corporation of New Jersey in the value of utility properties in New Jersey, it was revealed yesterday.

The transaction also reduced from five to four the number of large public utility systems competing in New Jersey, as the sale transfers to the Insull group all the properties owned by Utilities Power and Light in the state. In addition to the Public Service corporation of New Jersey and the Insull properties, the Associated Gas and Electric and American Gas and Electric systems are the principal utilities in the state.

AUBURN REPORTS 6,003 AUTOS WERE SHIPPED IN APRIL

The Auburn Automobile company last night reported that April shipments totaled 6,003 cars, a new high record for monthly shipments. This brings 1931 shipments to 17,723 cars as compared with 13,693 cars built and shipped during the entire year of 1930. President R. H. Faulkner said that May production schedules call for an output of more than 6,000 units. Unfilled orders on April 30, he declared, were the largest the company has ever had.

Packard Motor and Curtis Publishing Cut Dividends

Directors of the Packard Motor Car company yesterday voted to reduce the quarterly dividend to 10 cents a share, from the 15 cent rate paid in each of the two preceding quarters. Six months ago the stock was reduced from 25 cents to 15 cents quarterly. The new rate places it on an annual basis of 40 cents, against 60 cents previously.

A monthly dividend of 33 1-3 cents a share was declared on the common stock of the Curtis Publishing company, placing it on a $4 annual basis, against $6 a year heretofore. J. G. White Engineering corporation omitted the quarterly $1.75 a share on its preferred shares. De Forest-Crosley Radio corporation declared an extra dividend of 20 cents a share.

Report Attempt May Be Made to Cut Fox's Salary

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Fox Film corporation may meet tomorrow to elect representatives of new banking interests to the board. Inquiry at the general offices today indicated, however, that another postponement might be taken.

No official comment was available on reports in Wall street that an attempt may be made by some of the new directors to cut the $500,000 annual salary of William Fox, founder and former president of the corporation. When control of the vast amusement enterprise passed from Fox to the General Theaters Equipment, Inc., headed by Harley Clarke of Chicago two years ago an agreement was made under which Fox was to continue as a director and chairman of the advisory board for five years at an annual salary of $500,000.

President Denies Report of Virginian Rail Sale

Norfolk, Va., April 30.—(AP)—The Virginian railway is not for sale and the controlling factors, including the Rogers heirs, have not been approached on the subject of disposing of their interests, President C. H. Hix said here in discussing reports that the Pennsylvania and Van Sweringen interests have agreed upon a plan to divide control of the line.

Offer Budget Production Plan at Trade Convention

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., April 30.—A national plan whereby industry may budget production in every line of manufacture a year in advance and control the rate of industrial expansion and the release of new inventions was presented to the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today as a substitute for "the law of the jungle" resulting from needless expansion during prosperous periods.

Industry and business were urged by proper planning and organization now to try to avoid a future depression. The plan envisaged the national organization of trade units which would be made quasi-governmental, an estimating of total consumption and budgeting production in consonance with demand, and the setting aside of reserves to guarantee an income to labor in the same manner as surplus accounts now are built up to guarantee return to capital.

Propose Silver Conference.

It was proposed also that the international depression, in so far as it was caused by the drastic decline in the value of silver, be attacked through the machinery of an international conference of the of the nations most interested. A resolution to that effect is now in the hands of the resolutions committee and provides that the present session pass it on with approval for ratification by the International Chamber of Commerce, which meets in Washington next week.

A national banking policy by congress was advocated by Controller of the Currency John W. Poole, who urged that congress make it possible for the strong banks in the commercial centers to extend their facilities to the outlying communities, effecting a system of branch banking under national sponsorship, national control and national standards.

Government competition with business was attacked, the sales tax as a revenue producer was criticized, and defense was made of the installment method of purchase. Demand was made for the repeal of the criminal penalties of the anti-trust laws.

Makes Suggestions.

Before the round table on stabilizing industrial employment L. C. Reynolds, controller and assistant to the president of the American Writing Paper company, Holyoke, Mass., presented a series of proposals to strengthen business stability by national action of industry itself through trade groups and associations. The proposals involved forecasting demand, planning production, and controlling scales.

Pointing out that technical improvements are released to industry without any supervision, together with changes in style and substitution of new materials, all of which increase enormously the nation's productive capacity, Mr. Reynolds suggested that there must be control of the rate of industrial expansion.

Sees Serious Obstacle.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 30.—(AP)—The United States chamber of commerce today heard the assertion that political uncertainty in some Latin American republics constitutes "a serious obstacle" to foreign trade recovery.

Modification of the anti-trust laws, an attack on "government interference with business" and agitation for an investigation of possibilities for stabilization within industries were other subjects which occupied the attention of 2,500 delegates to the 19th annual convention of the chamber.

Repeal of the criminal provisions of the anti-trust laws on the ground that fear of such prosecution kept business men from attempting even sincere cooperative efforts, was advocated by William S. Bennet, vice president of the Edward Hines Lumber company of Chicago.

Business was warned by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, against further encroachment of government. Business men, he asserted, must be fearful of the future if they are continually faced with the fear of government competition.

NEW YORK CURB SHARE PRICES IN STRONG RALLY

New York, April 30.—(AP)—A two months decline in the curb market was interrupted by the sharpest rally of the year today. Utilities and oils rallied briskly in a flurry of short covering.

Large scale buying of Standard of Indiana developed early in the day. This issue moved up nearly 2 points, then lost part of its gain, closing up 1 net. Cities Service recovered 1⅞ points in a large turnover, and closed at the best. Humble, Vacuum, Standard of Kentucky, Nebraska, and Ohio all gained a point or two.

Electric Bond and Share closed about 3 points higher, and American Gas and Electric surged up nearly 6. Issues up about 1 to 2 included American Superpower, Associated Gas A, Central Public Service A, Electric Power and Light warrants, Middle West Utilities, Insull Utility Investment, and United Light A.

High flyers in the industrials were Parker Rustproof, up 8, and Aluminum company, up 5. Ford of Canada A, Ford, Ltd., Pilot Radio, Deere, and Fox Theaters A were among issues gaining about 1 to 2 points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 30.—That long overdue rally in the stock market happened along at last today and it brought with it more unadulterated happiness than speculative Wall street has known since the piece of sky nearly fell on Chicken Little's tail. It was as rousing as all that.

Prices braced up anywhere from 1 to 7 points, with every group on the list sharing in the improvement. United States Steel was prominent on the rebound, wiping out some of the sorriness of its performance yesterday with a gain of nearly 5 points, and other pivotals like General Motors, Allied Chemical, Atchison, American Telephone, General Electric, Radio Corporation, Consolidated Gas, Johns-Manville, and Eastman Kodak recovered from 2 to 6 points or more. The rally gained increasing momentum toward the close—a healthy sign—and final prices, almost without exception, were the best of the day.

Wait for Decline End.

While some of the display of strength can be credited unquestionably to short covering, there is no doubt that a good measure of it was for the account of traders who have been hugging the side lines waiting for the decline to reach bottom. Reports were current about the floor of the exchange soon after the opening that the volume of stock for sale on specialists' books just above the low levels of yesterday was exceptionally light, suggesting that the long run of liquidation had pretty thoroughly purged the market of overhanging weak accounts. [illegible] the ease with which stocks rallied as the session got under way was enough to convince the most skeptically minded.

PRICES OF WHEAT AND CORN RISE ON SHORT COVERING

Sentiment in Grain Marts Seems Less Bearish.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation apparently ran its course in the grain markets yesterday, and prices advanced sharply when shorts tried to cover. Wheat at the high point showed 1⅞c over the early low, while corn advanced 2@2¼c from the inside and both closed within a fraction of the top. The late strength in the stock market had some effect on sentiment, which was less bearish than of late, owing to the rapidity with which the open interest in the May deliveries has been cut down.

It was apparent from the start that there was relatively little pressure on the new crop wheat futures, and even a recession at Winnipeg, due to any forecast for rain or snow in the northern sections of the prairie provinces, failed to have much effect. There was free buying of September here against sales at Winnipeg, and also buying of July here against sales in other markets. The July acted rather tight at times and gained on the September, but lost part of the premium at the last. Closing trades were at net gains of ⅞@1c, with July, 62⅜@62¼c; September, 61⅛@61⅞ to 61⅝@61⅞c, and December, 65⅛@65⅝c.

Government Sells May Wheat.

A heavy trade was on in May wheat with commission house shorts active buyers, while a house that usually acts for the government agencies were aggressive sellers, and according to the gossip of the trade there was selling here against purchases at Kansas City and Minneapolis, causing a narrowing of the difference. Old May was ¼c lower at 81¼@81⅜c. Kansas City was ⅝c higher at 74¼c, and Minneapolis unchanged at 75⅛c.

Back spreading between Chicago and Winnipeg had considerable influence on the latter market during the day, and it was not until near the close that it started to advance sharply, the finish being ⅝c higher, with July at 62⅝c, or practically the same as Chicago. Late messages from the Canadian market indicated there had been a big business in Manitoba wheats, with sales of around 1,000,000 bu, and it was understood that there was some domestic hard winter sold at the Gulf, in addition to 176,000 bu taken by France on Wednesday.

Liverpool Closes Lower.

No rain was reported in the American and Canadian northwest, but the forecast was for showers this side of the international line. Weather map readers said there was little probability of a general breaking of the drought in the prairie provinces. Liverpool closed ¼@⅝d lower. Cables from abroad intimated France would probably announce a further increase in the amount of foreign wheat that could be used by mills. Buenos Aires was off ⅝@⅞c late in the day, a decline of ⅝c in the exchange rate being a factor.

Liquidation was on in May corn early, but the offerings were steadily absorbed by shorts. The surplus in the pit passed into strong hands and when wheat started upward toward the last, there was a general scramble on the part of shorts in all deliveries to cover, causing a rapid advance, and the finish was at net gains of 1⅛@2⅜c, with May, 55⅞@56¼c; July, 58⅝@58¾c; September, 58½@58⅝ to 58¾c, and December, 52⅜@53c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A higher condition is expected to be shown on winter wheat by the crop returns of private statisticians in their report due this morning. Estimates are for a condition of 89 to 91, and will compare with 88.6, the average last month, and a government of 88.8. Estimated production in April was 644,000,000 bu by the government and 619,000,000 bu as the average of the private reports. Today's report should show around 650,000,000 to 655,000,000 bu. The government estimated the crop at 525,000,000 bu in May last year and the final was 604,000,000 bu. Abandonment of acreage is estimated at 2 to 3 per cent, against 10.9 per cent, and a harvest of 38,608,000 acres. The ten year average is 10.2 per cent. Estimates of decrease in the spring wheat acreage are expected to be less than that of 14.7 per cent indicated by farmers' intentions to plant.

In adjusting May contracts there was active trading in wheat, corn, oats, and rye on the part of the Farmers' National, who had customers long all grains, which were sold out, and in numerous instances replaced by purchases of July. One house bought 1,000,000 bu of old May wheat at 81⅝c at the last, while the close was at 81¼@81⅜c. There was no trouble on the part of shorts in getting in on their May trades. Deliveries of wheat on May contracts today are estimated at 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 bu, practically all going to the farm board. It was announced at farm board headquarters last night that the Grain Stabilization corporation owns practically all the contract wheat in both public and private elevators here and at other important markets. Estimates on corn deliveries are 250,000 to 300,000 bu, and oats around 250,000 bu and rye 750,000 bu.

PLAN ADDITIONS TO TWO OAK PARK GRADE SCHOOLS

Board to Spend $255,000 in Construction.

BY AL CHASE.

Two good sized school additions were announced for Oak Park yesterday, totaling $255,000. The larger of the pair is a new east wing to be erected on the Emerson school, on the north side of Washington boulevard between Clinton and Kenilworth avenue. This wing, which will balance on the west end of the school building in 1924, will cost $130,000. Holabird & Root, Chicago architects, designed both wings.

Work will start the middle of June with the expectation of having it ready by February, 1932. It will be three stories, fireproof construction, and will contain a modern kindergarten, a project room, a general science room, and twelve standard class rooms.

This plans will be used throughout with the possibility that health glass will be used in the kindergarten. The building will be heated with concealed radiators and ventilated with the fan system. It is expected that before we, when the east wing is completed, the original central unit will be replaced with a modern structure.

Plan $125,000 Wing.

Oak Park's other school addition will be a $125,000 south wing to be added to the Washington Irving school, at Cuyler and Harvard. It will cost $125,000 and will contain seven class rooms, a kindergarten, library, and special science room. It will be three stories, 64 x 75. The science, art, and drawing rooms in the newest school building are to be named. Childs & Smith are the architects.

RETURN OF $30,000,000 DEMANDED OF MITTEN IN STOCKHOLDER SUIT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 30.—(AP)—A suit for the return of nearly $30,000,000 was filed in the federal district court here today against Mitten Management, Inc.; Mitten Bank Securities company, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, and nearly a score of individuals, including Mayor Harry A. Mackey.

The action, which also calls for the abrogation of Mitten Management's contract to manage the transit company's lines, was brought by Rosalino Giannini of Camden, N. J., a small stockholder.

Giannini charges fraud and mismanagement by the late Thomas E. Mitten and Mitten Management of the transit company's affairs and that the representatives of the city of Philadelphia on the transit company's board of directors were negligent in their duties and subservient to the dictates of Mitten.

Many things mentioned in the suit were brought out in the recent county court proceedings against Mitten Management and in a legislative investigation of public utilities.

With the exception of lambs, live stock sold to slightly better advantage on yesterday's session, closing at the high point of the day. Demand on both local and shipping account was broadest of the week and with cattle and hog supplies comparatively small for Thursday, activity featured the trade most of the day. Considering the size of sheep receipts the lamb market is holding up well. Offerings are among the largest on record for April.

Small packers and city butchers were eager to buy hogs when only 35,000 were posted for today's market, against 41,700 last Friday. Chicago expects only 15,000 today, the second smallest Friday total since last October. While receipts at Chicago for the first four days of the week show a decrease of about 19 per cent compared with a week ago, shipments from Chicago are almost the same size as a week ago.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.30.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were offered at $7.40 and bid $7.30 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, while hogs averaging 210@260 lbs. carried bids of $6.75 and heavy grades averaging 260@310 lbs. were bid $6.50. On the futures market May light were offered at $7.75. June light were bid $7.50 and offered at $8.00, while September offers were at $8.40 and bids at $8.20.

Demand in the cattle yards yesterday was for medium and weighty beeves in preference to light steers and yearlings. The latter still show the week's 25@75c loss, while heavier cattle have recovered a small part of the recent decline. Several carloads of cattle averaging 1,243@1,402 lbs., brought $9.25, the day's top, while good 1,068 lb. yearlings went at $9.00. Mixed steers and heifers averaging only 787 lbs. were sold at $8.50. Butcher stock sold at mostly steady prices. Calves were firm. Stockers and feeders showed no change.

Spring Lambs at $12.25.

Movement of native spring lambs has started again. Only a few scattered lots have been on the market since the drastic cut in quotations which followed the Easter holiday. Fancy selections sold to city butchers yesterday at $12.25. Kentucky springers were reported at $12.75 in the east.

The old crop lamb suffered a setback of 25c yesterday, top wool lambs going down to $9.65, while best shorn lambs stopped at $8.85. The supply of lambs in the feed lots of Colorado and Nebraska is dwindling rapidly. Only 235,000 head are left in the two states, against 765,000 a month ago and 1,290,000 two months ago.

$619,351 DEFICIT FOR QUARTER SHOWN BY PHILLIPS PETROLEUM

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Phillips Petroleum company, an important producer of crude oil and natural gas, today reported a deficit of $619,351 for the first quarter of 1931, compared with net profit of $1,604,344 in the comparable period a year ago.

The deficit was in spite of the fact that gross income increased $2,366,245 to $14,297,248 in the quarter over the first quarter of 1930. In the report to stockholders, directors said the reduction in earnings was due to low prices in the oil industry.

"The large increase in expense and costs of products was occasioned by increased volume of business. A relatively larger low percentage of gross would have been shown except for extremely low prices. This increase in volume is a source of gratification to the management because it means a substantial increase in profits of the company when the inevitable laws of economics bring the price structure to its normal or proper level."

Directors said that notwithstanding the general business depression domestic consumption is perhaps as great or nearly so today as ever before at this period of the year.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was steadier, closing 5 points higher to 5 points lower on a turnover of 1,800 barrels. Unfavorable weather in the western cotton belt and the late rally in grain seemed to influence the market action. Prime crude, 6.50c nominal; prime summer yellow spot, 7.30c; May closed at 7.50c, July 7.60c, September 7.76c, and December 7.80c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract, with closing prices as follows: Spot, 7.30c; May, 7.40c; July, 7.61c; September, 7.55c; December, 7.80c.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed steady. Sales, 2,850 bales. May, 92.22; July, 92.20; September, 92.10. Open market quotations (60 day basis), Shanghai steam extra B, 92.55; Canton double extra A, 1c-16c, $1.03; Japanese crack double extra, 92.90.
